MASTER GOES DOWN WITH SHIP

True to the age-old tradition of the sea, Capt. William Carey, master of the S. S. Vestris, went down into the ocean with his vessel. Proudly he stood on the f'r'ard deck as the ship's gunwales disappeared. He is accused of negligence.

MANLEY CURRAN O'NEILL MINTZER

Today, the United States government, though it hasn't determined its jurisdiction, weighs in a relentless balance the stories of the disaster as told by passengers and crew, 111 of whom are believed to have perished. In New York, U. S. Commissioner Francis R. O'Neill hears the case, presented by Chief Assistant U. S. Attorney Robert E. Manley and Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas J. Curran, George J. Mintzer, their aide, is chief of the Criminal Division, New York.

WHO'S RESPONSIBILITY WAS THIS?

The federal probe in New York seeks to place the rsponsibility for these weaths of 111 people, most of whom were passengers. This scene is the deck of the U. S. S. Coast Guard Cutter Shaw, which brought these bodies, some mangled by sharks, to port.

"GIFTS" TO POLICE, THREATS, BARED IN FEDERAL COURT

"You'd better buy from us, or we'll let you know what's what."

John O'Donnell, Republican ward chairman of the Twenty-second Ward, thus threatened Julius Bassompierre, saloonkeeper at Taylor and Irwin avenues, North Side, the latter testified in the United States District Court late today, in the trial of the North Side liquor conspiracy case.

O'Donnell is the third Republican ward chairman so far mentioned in connection with the charge that politicians and police controlled the illicit liquor business in Pittsburgh, authorizing some bootleggers to operate and dictating from whom they should purchase whisky, and interfering with the operations of others who bought from unauthorized sources.

HEARD MENTIONED

The other ward chairman mentioned in the testimony were William Heard, of the Twenty-first Ward, and Assemblyman Samuel J. Grenet, of the Twenty-seventh.

Bassompierre testified that he gave "Christmas presents" to Police Lieuts. Samuel Graham and Edward Moser. Both were indicted by the federal grand jury, but Graham has since died.

Bassompierre explained that he sent Graham an envelope containing $40 as a token of his appreciation of the lieutenant's efforts in "keeping bums away" from the witness' saloon. He sent Moser only $20, he explained, and the latter called on him to see about it, with the result that the amount of the present was increased to $40.

England Tells Coolidge.
Extroverts and Introverts.
W. C. Durant's Idea.
Post Office Socialism.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

BITTER attacks on President Coolidge, in British newspapers, and a statement by Lord Birkenhead, that England doesn't want any Coolidge advice, should enlighten the President.

He has not been to Europe recently, official duties preventing. He has been hearing the soft words of ambassadors looking for something, and may not know how well hated this country is in Europe.

DISTINGUISHED Britishers snubbing the President, render a service to this country, intensifying President Coolidge's determination to have the United States properly prepared.

SUBMARINES, AIRPLANES, FAST CRUISERS AND MONEY are four things that Great Britain understands perfectly, and respects.

PROFESSORS of Northwestern University tell business men selecting employes to pick out extroverts and avoid introverts.

The introvert is a dreamer, withdrawing within himself.

The extrovert is a back-slapper and go-getter.

Theodore Roosevelt, Mussolini, William Howard Taft and Gov. Smith are of the extrovert type.

THERE is something of the introvert and extrovert in every man. Charles Fourier told about it more than a hundred years ago, using the words "internal intuitional, and external rational," which are better.

IN CONNECTION with sad conditions in the stock market, investors waiting more than an hour for the ticker to catch up, W. C. Durant sends this suggestion: "Advocate a double ticker service, one recording stocks from 'A' to 'M' and the other from 'N' to 'Z.' If at any time one becomes overloaded, the exchange could correct the inequality by immediate notice without confusion or inconvenience." That seems a good suggestion, better than the one made here, to put the active stocks on one ticker, dull stocks on another.

THE National Association of Public Service Commissioners decide that public ownership is a bad thing and "LEADS TO SOCIALISM."

If public ownership leads to socialism, that's VERY serious.

BUT what about the fact that public ownership would put commissioners out of a job? Does that help the socialism scare?

And what about our post office, the biggest public ownership institution in the world, and one of the most successful? Has that led us to socialism? And would private ownership carry a letter from Key West to Alaska for two cents?

WHAT is socialism, by the way? It is nothing but the effort, often a very foolish effort, to improve social conditions. When the opportunity offers, they should be improved.

SOLEMN and strange were the final ceremonies that concluded the long "enthronement" of the new Japanese Mikado, Hirohito.

The ruler of 60,000,000 Japanese spent the night alone in the forest in the "vigil of the Gaijo-Sai, or great thanksgiving." A thousand servants, nobles and guards waited outside the forest while he offered sacred rice to the "myriad deities" of the "shinto" religion.

THERE is, and should be, angry excitement about the many drowned on the steamer Vestris. While that attracts attention, six privates in the United States Army are killed failing 4,000 feet in an army airplane from which one wing "snapped off."

Is anybody responsible for that, morally or otherwise? Can't the richest country afford to send soldiers up in airplanes from which the wings will not "SNAP OFF?" There are such planes.

NEW ZEALAND decides that it doesn't like prohibition, and on the other side of the earth they have a way of changing things when they want to.

By a majority of 100,000 New Zealand decides to drop prohibition and go back to licensing.

They found it easy enough to make laws, not so easy to change human nature, and not at all easy to assimilate the kind of alcohol distributed under prohibition.

EUROPE is trying to do things on a big scale. Britain is organizing "a big steel merger," putting together a number of important British steel companies, amounting in all to $100,000,000.

That's less than tenth of what we call a big company.

United States Steel not long ago gave away double that amount in one stock distribution, and pays 7 per cent on the dividend.

Thaw's Whoopee Too Much for Basso!

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—William Gustafson, Metropolitan Opera basso who is being sued by the lessee of his apartment here for failure to pay $400 rent, says he had to move out of the building because Harry K. Thaw and other neighbors made too much noise.

The singer said he broke the lease because this tranquility was being disturbed by wild parties and police raids in the apartments of his neighbors. The case was adjourned until Dec. 11.

Ruth Wynne Held Bigamist by Court

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—The former Ruth Wynne, daughter of the late Robert J. Wynne, postmaster general in President Roosevelt's cabinet, today was made a bigamist in the eyes of the English law by a decision of the British courts. The divorce court granted a decree to Rosina Smith, divorcing her from Alphonso Smith, on the ground that, at the time of their marriage in 1925, Smith was still legally married to Miss Wynne. Miss Wynne had obtained a divorce from Smith in the United States in 1922. Last August she was married to Robert H. Everard, of Detroit, Mich. The court upheld Mrs. Smith's contention that such a divorce was invalid in England.

White House Visitors Meet Coolidge, Faint

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The unusual warmth of the day and the heat engendered when more than 2,000 delegates to the National Grange convention gathered about President Coolidge today for a picture, proved too much for two of the visitors. Two men fainted, being quickly revived. Scores of women in the gathering apparently were unaffected. One of the men was John Brubaker, of Lebanon, Pa. The other was not identified; he quickly left the White House grounds for his hotel.

Mrs. Adams Takes A Spin Over Berlin

BERLIN, Nov. 16—(AP.)—Mrs. Clara Adams, of Tannersville, Pa., who was the only woman passenger aboard the dirigible Graf Zeppelin on its homeward flight to Friedrichshaven, made an airplane flight over Berlin and Potsdam today in a German Lufthansa plane. She was the guest of the company.

VESTRIS RADIO MAN ADMITS HELP CALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Four officers of the liner Vestris were subpenaed today to appear before the federal investigation of the ship's sinking now being conducted by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle.

Two investigations of the disaster are in progress.

COLLISION CONFIRMED

Verchere was the first official witness to confirm reports that the Vestris had been in a collision with another vessel before sailing. It developed that the other ship was the Santa Luisa of the Grace Line. The damage to the Vestris was described as "light" by the owners, but Tuttle expressed the intention of determining whether or not it had shifted her coal cargo. The collision occurred in the Erie Basin three days before the Vestris sailed.

SECOND PROBE STARTS

In addition to Tuttle's investigation, another probe was under way today in the Federal Building. It

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Caught and crushed in the wildest jam in the course of the "Hoover stock market," the bears in Wall street begged for mercy today as prices of the active speculative shares were pushed up 2 to 10 points in a sensational overnight market coup by the exultant bulls.

It was one of the most successful and brilliant bullish victories ever recorded in the big financial district.

The bears had made their own trap by selling short in the ex-

GRAFT BOODLE TRAIL LEADS TO BIG BOSSES

The county grand jury struck the boodle trail today in its probe of the alleged lottery ring. Subpenaed bank records showed the way.

Evidence pronounced by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner as "the most fruitful since the jury began its investigation six weeks ago," was produced before the inquisitors by officers of several banks where suspects in the lottery racket are said to have kept large deposits.

Gardner would reveal no hint as to the identity of the men whose bank books and accounts were scanned. From other sources it was evident that high police officials would feel the result of the new tack taken by the probers, and that their financial records would be next under scrutiny.

"We are fast getting to the heart of the lottery ring," declared Gardner at the conclusion of this morning's session of the grand jury.

JAWORSKI FIGHTS DEATH SENTENCE

Paul Jaworski will fight for his life!

Throwing off the mask of stoicism and bravado he had previously worn, Jaworski, convicted murderer and jail breaker, today, from his cot in the county jail summoned Attorney W. F. Daniels and pleaded with him to file an appeal, to forestall, if possible, his doom.

Daniels obtained an appeal blank from the office of the prothonotary of the Superior and Supreme Courts this afternoon. He indicated that he would file an appeal Monday. The last day for filing is Wednesday, 30 days after sentence was pronounced.

Jaworski, brought here from Cleveland, where he was wounded in a gun battle with police, was sentenced October 22 by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff to die in the electric chair. The date for execution has not been set.

SLAYER CHANGES MIND

"Jaworski sent for me and asked me to file an appeal in his behalf," said Daniels. "While I feel disinclined personally to file an appeal it seems that such a step should be taken if Jaworski asks it."

"I don't want an appeal," Paul declared, after sentence had been pronounced for his part in the slaying of Isaiah Gump, guard in a mine payroll holdup at Mollenauer.

A change of heart, however, has come to the pale, half-paralyzed killer as he passes the hours in his

Hot Sparks From Wheel Grinding at Rum Ring

The jury spent last night listening to the radio and inhaling the fragrance of flowers, it was revealed today. The jury asked the bailiffs to thank the radio company that installed free a set in its hotel quarters, and Florist E. E. Ludwig, the North Sider, who sent flowers to brighten up those after-duty moments when the jury is confined. Florist Ludwig is a member of the jury.

The North Side rum trial is not without occasional spots of humor. Sometimes remarks from witnesses even cause the defendants to smile. One such instance occurred when Alex Dinar, a Preble avenue hotel proprietor, was testifying. When asked the identity of his business the defendants, attorneys and others understood him to say the "Police Hotel." He was called upon several times to repeat the name and each time it sounded as first pronounced. Then with the aide of Attorney Ralph H. Smith the witness made it understood that he meant the "Palace Hotel."

Many unnamed characters are being injected on the court records. Through the mass of testimony will be found reference to a "uniform policeman;" a "red head fellow;" a "big man;" a

MAJORITY FOR METROPOLITAN PLAN MOUNTS TO 27,000

SAFE LEAD FOR PGH. MEASURE

Returns from more than 300 additional precincts tabulated today by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph increased the favorable majority for the Pittsburgh Metropolitan amendment to 27,000 votes.

This lead will be decreased to some extent when reports are received from Clearfield and Northampton counties, where the tally sheets still are in the hands of the returning boards, but the missing districts will not affect the final result.

The vote on the amendment in 8,064 of the 8,571 precincts in the state was as follows:

For	422,136
Against	395,078
Lead	27,058

Of the missing districts, 249 are in Allegheny county. Thirty-two are scattered throughout the state and the others are in Clearfield and Northampton, two counties where the vote is reported to have been unfavorable.

Additional returns put Beaver county on the roll of honor which holds the names of counties approving the metropolitan plan. Beaver gave a majority of 835 in its favor. The other counties that supported it were Allegheny, Bucks, Delaware, Luzerne, McKean and Philadelphia.

filed a plea of no defense, testifying as a government witness, stated that Herd was a frequent visitor at the home of Daniel J. McLaughlin, accused by witnesses of being in charge of the distribution of booze in that ward.

EX-BOXER TESTIFIES

Cappi and Arnold Thornburg, former boxer, who also entered a plea of no defense, testified freely about the operations of the rum industry in the Twenty-first Ward, under McLaughlin. They said they did a business of $1,500 to $2,000 weekly, comprising the delivery of 450 or 500 gallons of moonshine each week to some 75 customers in the ward at $4 a gallon.

Cappi described himself as a delivery man in the employ of McLaughlin. He said McLaughlin directed him to a garage in the 1,400 block of Beaver avenue, which garage he termed "Abie's Irish Rose," for a supply of moonshine. Later he said the liquor came from Abie Berkowitz. Cappi said he received 30 cents a gallon for delivering the moonshine. Federal agents several times seized his delivery automobiles but not once was he bothered by the city police, Cappie testified.

Thornburg described the operations in the ward under McLaughlin.

"Dan put me to work about the end of September, 1927, at $25 a week, later at $40 a week," he testified. "He told me to just go around with him. I was not positive as to the nature of the business at the beginning and discovered it five or six weeks later. My business was collecting. I kept track of records, acted as chauffeur and was a sort of handy man."

Thornburg said he had a list of customers and the quantities of liquor each one received. Deliveries were on a regular schedule, with a specified quantity of liquor each week for each customer, and Monday was generally collection day, he said. The trade extended "all over the North Side," according to the witness, who readily recalled various street addresses where deliveries were made.

There were about 40 customers on Beaver avenue, 25 or 30 on Reedsdale street, and several on Juniata street and Pennsylvania avenue, he said.

Thornburg recalled a total of about 75 customers. All except one, who paid slightly less, were charged $4 a gallon, and 450 or 500 gallons were delivered weekly. Thornburg said collections were generally in cash and that he deposited the money in two North Side banks in an account in the name of McLaughlin. Thornburg told of paying Cappi and Samuel Laquatra, another defendant, who is on trial, for moonshine. Thornburg was still engaged in direct examination by the prosecution when court adjourned for the noon recess.

The tale thus far has also involved the Twenty-seventh Ward. The Republican ward chairman, Samuel J. Grenet, member of the State Legislature, has been accused as the "boss" and the monarch of privilege. The testimony has engulfed a stretch of Preble avenue, particularly an area within a few blocks of the Woods Run Police Station, in a wet wave.

TELLS OF BEATING

One of today's first witnesses, Mrs. Anna Askovitch, who said she sold moonshine with her husband in their store at 1729 Eckert street, testified that after former Police Lieut. Edward J. Arthurs, a defendant, had raided her store, he beat her, despite her delicate physical condition.

Her place was also raided by Lieut. John Loebig, she testified, and she added that her husband had seen Loebig take money from other storekeepers in the district.

Mrs. Askovitch's testimony that her husband had seen Loebig taking money was brought out by defense counsel, Edward G. Coll, on cross-examination. After her statement he dropped that line of questioning.

A summation of the testimony of most of the witnesses heard so far produces this set of charges:

"City moonshine" or "administration moonshine," as it was variously termed, conveying the significance that the local political organization aided by police controlled the industry, was dispensed liberally in the district, at the rate of 15 to 25 cents for a drink and 75 cents or a dollar for a pint, by a horde of petty bootleggers.

This moonshine, with few exceptions, was purchased from one group of individuals, with police in complicity, according to the testimony. The cost to bootleggers started out at $3 a gallon and advanced to $3.50 and $4 as the organization became perfected and the monopoly grew more secure late last year and early this year, the evidence developed.

Proprietors of lunch rooms, confectionery stores, saloons and hotels, who testified in the grand jury probe and appeared as government witnesses, described the operation of the alleged ring with a general faith in detail and names.

Police Lieut. John Lynch was declared by witnesses to be the dictator as to when they should close or reopen after raids. Walter Krol, 2914 Preble avenue, said Lynch handed him a "Joe Green" card, telling him the individual was "all right" and this was followed by the appearance of Harkins seeking business. After a raid, Lynch sent him to Grenet for permission to reopen, Krol testified, and a visit to Grenet was followed by the required permission.

When the S. S. VALVE CRACKED EARLY VESTRIS STOKERS SAY

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—A cracked sea valve in the fireroom sank the Vestris, according to the story told today by stokers of the liner, who arrived with other survivors aboard the battleship Wyoming.

The valve, they said, burst soon after the vessel cleared, allowing the sea to flood the hold. This caused the list, and with the list, which constantly became greater, the cargo began to shift.

"The ship started to list badly early Sunday morning, according to what the stokers told me," said Commander Simpson, executive officer of the Wyoming. "They said the valve was cracked when they left New York, and that as a matter of fact there was some discussion as to whether to sail or not."

Undoubtedly, the Wyoming's officers said, if Capt. Carey had sent out his call for help early Sunday morning when the list became pronounced it would have resulted in the saving of many more, perhaps all, the lives aboard the Vestris.

The broken valve, through which the sea poured steadily, caused the starboard coal hatch to give way, another of the stokers told the naval officers, and this also hastened the end.

As early as Sunday morning, it was reported, one of the passengers became alarmed and went to Capt. Carey, but could get no satisfaction.

"One of the women told me her husband begged the ship's officers to do something," said Commander Simpson, "but nothing was done."

revelations made by some of the bank officers questioned. Some of the bankers could give no information because the men we suspect had no deposits in those banks. Others, however, gave us a wealth of information. It was the most fruitful session we have had since the investigation began.

TO QUIZ MORE BANKERS

"Other bank officials will be summoned and we will continue along this line if we have to call representatives of every bank in the city."

A. T. Moore, manager of accounts of Mellon National Bank; John W. Griffin, cashier of the First National Bank of Crafton, and James M. Boggs, cashier of the Real Estate Savings and Trust Company, 516 Federal street, North Side, were the first bank officials to testify before the grand jury room in answer to District Attorney Gardner's bank account subpenas.

The banks are in the downtown, Carnegie, Dormont, Mt. Lebanon, Crafton, the North Side and the South Side, the district attorney said. The lottery heads are alleged to have split large returns from the sale of tickets in the Pittsburgh district and their bank accounts are expected to show just how much of their income came from this source.

WANTED MAN APPEARS

Harry Jacobs, of 3406 Forbes street, alleged proprietor of a Rankin gambling house, who had been sought since the place was raided last Saturday by county detectives, went to the grand jury room voluntarily today and testified. He was ordered detained by District Attorney Gardner when he left the grand jury room.

City Detective Vincent Cavanaugh was called for the probers this afternoon, to tell what he knows about the gambling and lottery racket.

Other witnesses questioned today were Justice of the Peace Arthur F. Reed, of Greentree Borough, who had been recalled; G. W. Speers, of 17 Broadway, Coraopolis; Mrs. Mary Shaffer, of 95 Castle Shannon road, and Henry C. Reiker, of 107 Popular Grove street, Carrick. All were questioned regarding the lottery operations.

R. T. Duffie, of 1464 Spring Garden avenue, North Side, who was arraigned in Central Police Court a few days ago for the alleged sale of lottery tickets, was summoned before the grand jury this morning. Duffie was fined $100 by Judge John J. Orie in Central Police Court.

The desire to see the bank accounts of the lottery heads came as a result of the testimony of Arthur F. Reed, Jr., Clarence Reed and their cousin, C. W. Wall, all of Greentree borough, yesterday, it was reported. The three had spent Wednesday night in jail and yesterday talked "freely" of what they knew of the lottery, Gardner said.

TALK FREELY, SAID

The night in jail brought Gardner the desired evidence from the Reed boys and young Wall, who had operated a printing shop over the office of Justice of the Peace Arthur F. Reed, Greentree borough, where lottery tickets in wholesale quantities had been printed. It is rumored the boys told who ordered the tickets and to whom they were delivered.

The young men chatted freely in the grand jury waiting room about their night behind prison bars. They said "Al" Forney, racketeer now serving a jail sentence, taunted them by holding a turkey drumstick through the bars of his cell nearby to show them what he was eating. Forney, like all prisoners, is allowed to receive one basket a week and yesterday was the day he got his treat.

County detectives were out last night with subpenas for W. L. Reinecker, Joseph Lauer and Leo McCormick, wanted for questioning in the lottery probe. Search for them yesterday had failed to reveal their whereabouts and a rumor drifted into the Court House that the trio had gone to Canada on a hunting trip.

District Attorney Gardner has about given up hope of being able to summon "Jakie" Klein as a witness, having received information that Klein is running a hotel in New York.

"Guest" Arrested In Theft of $54

Dan Martino, of 1001 Mohler street, East End, told police that Paul Billings, 45, of 7020 Spencer street, had been a guest in the Martino home, but that when Billings entered today and departed with $54 he did so without invitation. Billings was arrested.

600-Lb. "Fat Lady" Is Laid in Coffin Made to Order

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 16.—(A.P.)—The body of Mrs. Pearl Huntzinger Smithie—"fat lady" in a circus sideshow—who died here Wednesday, was en route to the home of relatives in Indianapolis, Ind., today, after undertakers had been forced to have a special casket built.

Mrs. Smithie weighed 600 pounds and a Little Rock casket firm hastened to build a casket 39 inches wide, 20 inches deep and six feet three inches long, which required 50 feet of strap iron fittings.

'BEARS' ASKING FOR MERCY

pectation of an enormous increase in brokers' loans to be shown at the close of yesterday's market by the reserve board. Instead of $100,000,000 increase, the board showed an expansion of only $1,000,000.

USING OWN MONEY

This meant only one thing—that the buyers of stock were not borrowing from the banks or from any one else. They were using their own money to pick up their favorite shares and displaying the utmost confidence in the present scale of stock prices, though it is up 100 to 500 per cent over a year or two ago.

Then, when the big traders and the little traders rushed in to buy more stocks at or near yesterday's closing prices, there were no stocks offered.

"Now," said the bulls, "if you want our stocks, pay for them, and pay high."

The bears paid.

The favorites came out on the tape in a score or more of 10,000-to-25,000-share blocks, the wildest opening in Wall street history. First appeared Montgomery Ward with a 10-point jump over Thursday's final price; then Sears, Roebuck, up 8½. A block of 10,000 United States Steel, the "bunching" of overnight orders, sold at 171½, up 2¼.

Bethlehem Steel, which was gradually groomed for a new flight, opened the day with a 3-point jump to 77½, also on a 10,000-share block. Chrysler Motors jumped 4½, Westinghouse Electric, 4½; Wright Aero, 3; Greene Cananea Copper, 8; Radio, 5.

In the first 30 minutes the turnover was 893,000 shares or at the rate of 8,930,000 shares for the full day. Brokers groaned and gesticulated under the pressure of frenzied buying and the tape clogged up helplessly as buying orders flowed in.

PROFIT-TAKING WAVES

Waves of profit-taking swept through the market at intervals, carrying several issues down $1 to $5 a share below their high levels, but fresh buying support was invariably supplied and new leaders brought forward.

In the first three hours sales averaged more than a million shares an hour, the ticker more than an hour late.

The curb market also was the scene of riotous trading, total sales crossing the 1,000,000 share mark in the first two hours of trading for the first time in history. A wide assortment of oils, utilities and specialties shot up 4 to 13 points.

SALES 6,700,000 SHARES

With the ticker still running about an hour after the close of the market, it was estimated that total sales for the day were more than 6,700,000 shares, about a million shares greater than on Monday, the previous record day. The curb market rolled up total sales of 2,151,800 shares in contrast to 1,335,100, the previous high record made on May 14.

NO EXTRA SESSION—HOOVER

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN, International News Service.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 16.—President-elect Hoover today completed preparations for his South American goodwill tour, confident that no extra session of Congress would be necessary in March.

The meeting of the National Grange in Washington, which has declared against the principle of the equalization fee, has presented to Mr. Hoover again the question of a conference of farm leaders on agricultural policy.

Since his acceptance speech, Mr. Hoover has recommended a program in which "the farmers themselves should have a part."

Following his conference with Rep. William E. Hull, of Illinois, a member of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, Mr. Hoover gave attention to the agricultural problem today for the first time since his election.

Rep. Hull expressed the opinion, after his talk with the President-elect on San Juan Hill, that the results of the presidential election would affect the "farm-relief" completion of the short session as well as the new Congress.

"How can you have farm relief when the farmers themselves are divided on the program?" Rep. Hull said, in response to a question touching upon the probabilities of an extra session immediately after March 4.

Six stenographers were added to the Hoover staff today, to assist in the herculean task of answering the heaps of congratulatory letters and telegrams which have flooded in upon the President-elect since last Wednesday. Mr. Hoover has decided that every message should be answered before he leaves Palo Alto next Sunday night.

Thirty-seven people will make up the Hoover party.

JAWORSKI NOW FIGHTS DOOM

cell, smoking. He is able now to sit in a chair at intervals.

"The last time I talked with Jaworski, after his brother, Sam, had pleaded guilty to helping Paul and Jack Vasbinder to break jail, he reiterated his unconcern over his fate," said Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren. "But he said the same thing before he shot his way out of jail a year ago last August. Fear of death will bring a change of heart in any condemned man."

Hit and Run Auto Victim Succumbs

The victim of a hit-and-run motorist, William Bendlow, 79, of 924 Berdella street, Elliott, died this morning in the South Side Hospital. Bendlow, a laborer, was struck by an automobile in Craftmont street, Crafton Heights last Monday. He suffered a fracture of the right hip and right leg.

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Nov. 16.—The body of an unindentified man was found beneath the Baltimore & Ohio bridge at Crowbridge yesterday by T. A. Taylor, master carpenter for the railroad company.

FIVE WOMEN SURVIVORS, UNNERVED, REACH PORT

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 16.—(INS.)—There have been many heart-rending tales floating up from the wreckage of the Vestris, but it remained for the last survivors of that fearsome tragedy to bring into port the most harrowing tale of suffering and grief.

In the naval hospital at Portsmouth today were five women, tossing on hospital cots and bordering on collapse. Three of them were widowed by the tragedy, and two of the trio went through the agony of seeing their husbands die in their arms.

The five women were brought to this port aboard the battleship Wyoming, Mrs. Terukio Inouye, wife of the Japanese consul at Buenos Aires; Mrs. Norman K. Batten, wife of the well-known automobile driver; Mrs. Mary Ulrich, of New York; Mrs. Elvira Rua, of New Bedford, Mass., and Mrs. Dolores Doril, of Brooklyn.

With them were three West Indian Negro members of the crew, Joseph Boxil, Gerald Burton and John Morris, to whom the women owe their lives. These Negro stokers performed in accordance with the best traditions of the sea, whatever charges may be brought against the conduct of the other members of the Vestris crew.

DIE HANGING TO LIFEBOAT

It was Mrs. Inouye and Mrs. Batten who saw their husbands die by their sides, as all struggled in the water around a faulty lifeboat that repeatedly capsized. Mrs. Rua was torn from her husband's side in the confusion of the disaster, and although he went down she escaped the horror of seeing it.

All the women were in a pitiful state when brought into Norfolk. Mrs. Inouye was carried from the Wyoming on a stretcher. She was utterly broken. The others were able to walk with assistance.

It was lifeboat No. 8 that was the center of one of the real tragedies of the disaster, Maj. Inouye and his wife, and Norman Batten and his wife, all made this boat, along with Mrs. Ulrich and Mrs. Rua. The men had to bail constantly to keep the craft afloat. Finally even their bailing would not suffice, and over it went in the heavy sea. Then it became a question of clinging to the overturned craft.

Half a dozen times, the survivors said, they succeeded in righting the boat, only to have another wave capsize it again. This went on hour after hour.

Finally all were exhausted, and at the end of 15 hours, most of the time spent struggling in the water, the Japanese officer's head rolled to one side and he died while his wife struggled to keep his head clear of the water.

Officers said Inouye probably died of exposure and exhaustion. It was necessary for the Wyoming rescuers to tear his wife from the body when they arrived.

The death of Batten, the race driver, was in most respects similar.

MEN WEAR SELVES OUT

Naval officers said the women survived because they had not struggled so fiercely against the heavy odds and worn themselves out.

It was during the struggle with the overturned boat that the Negroes came along, clinging to an improvised raft, fashioned with broken boxes and timbers. They kept the boat afloat, and kept up the spirits of the women.

One woman, unidentified, died before the Wyoming hove into view. Her body slipped from the side of the boat and went down.

Mrs. Batten said she had endeavored to get into one of the lifeboats that passed near her as she struggled in the water, but that somebody shoved an oar in her face and thrust her off.

AMELIA RETURNS TO PITTSBURGH

AMELIA EARHART WOODY MILLER BALDWIN CURTIS ROBERT DICK DOUGLAS, JR.

"LADY LINDY" HERE; FLYING STILL HER ONLY ROMANCE

Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flier, arrived in Pittsburgh this morning.

And it was a very feminine Amelia who stepped from the big Pullman in the Pennsylvania Station and said: "I am happy to be here again."

The leather coat, helmet and other masculine attire that graced her on her previous visit here, shortly after her conquest of the Atlantic, are gone. They have been replaced by the latest and smartest of feminine modes.

As she responded to greetings from the reception committee, she looked more like a blushing debutante than a daring aviatrix. A bright blue turban fenced her happy smile. Her neat, brown fur coat was open, disclosing a glimpse of a gay scarf and a dress of blue. She wore a corsage of lilies of the valley.

But the only romance in her mind was the romance of aviation. And though she appeared all very charming and very feminine, it was in the way of a man that she refused to talk about herself and said, abruptly, "Let's talk aviation." She did admit, however, that there's no inkling of any wedding bells for her, and, as for the ideal man, she wanted to know: "I, there such a thing?"

In Miss Earhart's party were George Palmer Putman, publisher, and Robert Dick Douglas, Jr., Boy Scout, who was a member of the recent Martin Johnson expedition to British East Africa.

Shortly before noon, Miss Earhart addressed the Western Pennsylvania Conference for the Cause and Cure of War in the Carnegie Music Hall. Later she attended a luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce. This afternoon she is scheduled to talk at a reception in the Joseph Horne store.

Miss Earhart will be in Pittsburgh until Sunday. In her own words, she is going to make use of the key to Pittsburgh that was presented to her on her last visit here.

CHEVROLET TO BUILD 'SIX'

DETROIT, Nov. 16.—The Chevrolet Motor Company will introduce a new six-cylinder automobile to the country November 24, W. S. Knudsen, president of the company, announced here today.

The new Chevrolet Six, according to Mr. Knudsen, will retain the valve-in-head principle. The motor will be of the high-compression type with a non-detonating head and will develop 32 per cent more power than its predecessor. New features that contribute to this added power are an improved combustion chamber, a newly designed cam-shaft, accelerator and fuel pumps and four exhaust and three intake ports.

From an appearance standpoint as well as from inherent design, the car is completely new with a wide range of attractive colors and fine car appointments. It will continue on the 107-inch wheelbase. With the introduction of this car General Motors will retire from the four-cylinder car field, the announcement continued.

EYE GRAFTED!

MAN GIVES CORNEA, SAVES OTHER'S SIGHT

SURGERY WINS!

OPERATION SUCCESS, SIGHT GIVEN BLIND

PART OF EYE REMOVED AND GRAFTED

Eyes, probably the most important parts of the human anatomy, are such delicate organs that physicians and surgeons exercise utmost caution in working over them. Picture the excitement in medical circles when Dr. Ben Witt Key, New York Eye and Ear Clinic, announced transplantation of the cornea of one man's eye to another. The diagram above shows the part of the eye that was removed and grafted.

MODEL OF EYE, SHOWING THE CORNEA

PATIENT CAN SEE AFTER EYE-GRAFTING OPERATION

The operation was performed in New York by Dr. Ben Witt Key, of the New York Eye and Ear Clinic. Charles E. Greenblatt, 32, of Brooklyn, and Bert Ferguson, 32, were the patients.

Greenblatt's eye had been rendered useless by a tumor on the back of the ball. The cornea was good. Ferguson's cornea had been injured and had clouded his vision until he could hardly see.

When the cornea becomes fogged the eye is useless as in the case of a camera with the lens obstructed. Dr. Key placed both patients side by side and removed Greenblatt's defective eye. The removal of the cornea required the utmost care and precision. There could be no mechanical means of grafting the new cornea as "grafting" is usually understood. The tissue was transplanted with swiftness and precision and left there to remain through its own adhesive properties.

Ferguson now is able to see objects fairly clearly at a distance of 10 feet, whereas before the operation he was almost totally blind. Greenblatt lost the sight of his diseased eye as he would have done in any case, and Ferguson's vision is improving daily. It will require several weeks for the transplanted cornea to heal properly and Ferguson's sight improves accordingly.

Dr. Iago Goldstone, chairman of the committee of information of the New York Academy of Medicine, and the New York County Medical Society, explained the intricate operation in the following statement:

"Ferguson can see through the transplanted tissue, but not as well as through a normal eye. He can see objects about 10 feet away, but it can be imagined how even this is a boon to a man who was growing blind and who could scarcely see at all before the operation. It will require possibly another two or three weeks before it can be determined whether the operation is definitely successful."

3 Convicted for $100,000 Theft In Distillery

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—David Pollock, garage owner, was found guilty of conspiracy in connection with the looting of the McGinnis Distillery at Tennery, Md., of nearly $100,000 worth of whisky, by a jury in Federal Court yesterday. Milton Hawkins, Harvey Jones and James Morsell, Negroes, alleged to have acted as truck drivers in the robbery of the distillery, were also convicted of the conspiracy charge.

The robbery of the distillery took place on the night of January 2, requiring the entire night. Seventy barrels and 60 cases of whisky were taken from the place.

Another case against both Giese and Pollock is pending in Federal Court, in connection with a large beer seizure more than a year ago.

TESTIMONIALS AT GLORY BARN

Testimonial night will be observed this evening in Glory Barn, Carson street, when scores of persons will tell of how they were benefited through faith healing and acceptance of Christianity. Evangelist John W. Sproul has invited all those who have attended previous services to come once more and listen to the testimonials.

Sunday's afternoon and evening services will be part of the Booster Day program when many friends of the evangelist plan to attend from cities in which he has conducted previous revivals. Dr. Percy Lunch, of McKeesport, will speak at the Sunday gatherings.

Last night Evangelist Sproul spoke on "Jesus Manifesting Himself." More than two score persons professed acceptance of Christianity and a dozen others went forward to be annointed for physical ills. Mrs. James Crosby, of 1229 Sheffield street, North Side, was annointed and afterward told the audience that she had obtained the first relief in many years from a stomach ailment.

BUS IN CRASH HERE; THREE INJURED

Six persons on a large coast-to-coast bus bound from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia narrowly escaped serious injury this morning when the bus was struck by a laundry truck in Penn avenue, near Lang avenue, East End. Three men riding on the truck were injured. After being treated at the Pittsburgh Hospital they were taken home.

The injured are Edward Hays, 42, of 1218 Boyle street; G. D. Gillis, 23, of 231 South Mathilda street, and Frank Collier, 28, of 4821 Lytle street. Gillis suffered probable fractures of ribs on the left side and the others were cut and bruised. Edward Lewis, of 449 Trenton avenue, Wilkinsburg, the truck driver, and H. D. Shim, of Planco, N. J., the driver of the bus, were arrested on reckless driving charges.

The bus is operated by the Nevin Bus Lines Company. It was damaged only slightly.

RUNAWAY AUTO CRUSHES MAN

Crushed against a wall of a building in Lemon way by an automobile, the brakes of which became released, Charles Schneider, 45, of 42 Reed street, was killed late yesterday. Schneider was employed as a window cleaner and was walking in the alley when the machine ran down from a parking station at Cherry and Lemon ways and pinned him against the wall. He was pronounced dead at Mercy Hospital. The automobile, police say, was unoccupied.

Fireman Dies in Leap As Train Hits Truck

Leaping from his locomotive when it struck an automobile truck at the Dixmont crossing, William Gore, 33, of New Castle, a Pennsylvania Railroad fireman, was fatally injured. He died early today in the Sewickley Valley Hospital, where he was taken late yesterday.

The engine struck a coal truck driven by Howard Davidson, of Clinton, and the truck's gasoline tank exploded. The flames shot back along the locomotive and Gore leaped to the ground. His skull was fractured. Davidson was not hurt.

Archbishop to Talk At Laymen's Dinner

The Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, archbishop of Cincinnati, will be the principal speaker tomorrow night at the fifth annual banquet of St. Paul's Laymen's Retreat League in Duquesne Council House, Knights of Columbus, Fifth and Bellefield avenues. The other speakers will be Francis P. Matthews, Omaha, Neb., and the Rev. Stanislaus Grennan, of Union, N. J., provincial, the Passionist Fathers. William A. Ryan, president of St. Paul of the Cross, United Laymen's Retreat League, will be toastmaster. He will be introduced by Henry S. Carr, president of the local league.

Stealing a Ride Costs Boy, 12, His Leg

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Stealing a ride on the rear end of a trolley car cost Steve Zenglewicz, 12, his right leg and possibly his life. The boy jumped from the car and ran in front of another before the motorman could stop.

Morgue Prepares To Bury Ashes Of 275

Preparations are being made by John P. Black, superintendent of the county morgue, for the burial of ashes of 275 cremated bodies. The ashes will be interred in Highwood Cemetery, North Side. This is the first burial of ashes since 1925, when an accumulation of ashes of two years was buried. The ashes to be buried next week will include those of all bodies cremated from January 1, 1925, to December 1, 1927. The ashes will be placed in a large wooden rough box and lowered into one grave.

SEES VESTRIS RESCUES

A vivid description of the rescue of passengers from the British steamer Vestris, after the craft had sunk last Monday, was given today by John T. Lippert, 58, of 300 Hays street, Mount Oliver, an eyewitness.

Lippert was a passenger on the German steamer Berlin, returning from Europe. The Berlin received a wireless appeal for help from the Vestris shortly before noon on Monday and proceeded at once to the scene.

The Berlin, first of numerous vessels to arrive at the spot, did not get there until after dark and was handicapped, Lippert said, by its lack of a powerful searchlight.

The next morning a huge film of oil was found, and bodies, hats and debris were sighted.

"I saw three dead bodies," said Lippert, "and I also was a witness of the rescue of Carl Schmidt, a German, who was floating in the sea, supported by a life preserver. He was the twenty-third of the Vestris survivors that the Berlin rescued. The other 22 were found in a lifeboat. Schmidt had been in a lifeboat, too, but it had capsized, and the others were drowned."

U.S. INSPECTION OF VESTRIS FLAYED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The steamboat inspection service of the United States Department of Commerce was called on the congressional carpet today and accused of "woeful neglect" in the Vestris disaster.

Representative Sol Bloom (D.), of New York, declared reports indicate the Vestris never should have been permitted to depart on her fateful voyage.

CONGRESS MAY ACT

He asserted that he has in the past protested against lax inspection which has existed for 25 years, and probably will demand a congressional investigation as a result of the Vestris tragedy.

The head of the inspection service, D. N. Hoover, has directed inspectors to take testimony of the survivors of the Vestris.

"We should hold responsible the inspector who allowed that ship to go out," said Bloom. "Any person who takes a voyage knows that the ship and its equipment have been inspected and has a right to place confidence in the inspector. Reports indicate that the Vestris would not have passed inspection.

PASSES TWO INSPECTIONS

Records of the inspection of the Vestris made by three Department of Commerce inspectors and agents of Lloyd's, the English maritime insurance organization, show the liner was regarded in perfect condition before she sailed.

The ship presumably was gone over from stem to stern, as the reports were made on boilers, engines, lifeboats and other lifesaving equipment, hull, plating, pumps, watertight doors, double bottom and water-tightness of the ballast tanks.

SCALPERS FOILED IN PLOT TO CORNER WELFARE SHOW

Ticket scalpers have been defeated in an effort to "corner" the pasteboards for the great midnight show to be given at the Stanley Theater Friday night, November 23, by the Variety Club of Pittsburgh, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, for the benefit of the Welfare Fund.

Steps have been taken to foil any other attempts that these gentry may make to gouge the public and turn to their own personal profit an affair designed for the sole purpose of aiding the needy and unfortunate.

Foreseeing the huge demand for tickets for the midnight entertainment, which is to be made up of the cream of the shows at all the Pittsburgh theaters next week, speculators tried to gain a virtual monopoly of the tickets, with a view to selling them at a higher price than the tariff of $1 that has been fixed by the Variety Club for all seats, regardless of location.

But the speculators and their agents were detected, and refused the large blocks of seats that they offered to buy. Now all concerned with the show are on guard against the scalpers.

Eugene L. Connelly, who has been appointed jointly with Dennis A. Harris as general chairman of the Variety Club's committee to put on the show, made the following statement today:

"We intend to prevent scalping. Already scalpers have attempted to get tickets. None have been and none will be sold to them. The committee has asked Director of Public Safety James M. Clark to assign an ample force of policemen to the Stanley on the night of the Welfare Fund show, with instructions to arrest anyone attempting to sell tickets on the sidewalk or at any place but the theater box office."

The Variety Club has appointed James G. Balmer as director of seating for the show. Experienced ushers from the Alvin, Nixon and Pitt theaters will guide the crowd, which is expected to number thousands of people.

Fred Stritt, monologist, coming to the Davis next week, is to be master of ceremonies at the midnight show.

The Felicia Sorel Girls, coming to the Penn Theater next week, telegraphed:

"Twelve of us all ready to help swell the Welfare Fund. We are with The Sun-Telegraph on the party."

Fireman Killed as Head Hits Bridge

Leaning from the locomotive of a Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad train as it crossed the Wabash Bridge early this morning, J. G. Grossman, 38, fireman, of Wooster, O., was fatally injured when his head hit a bridge support. He fell back into the cab and was taken to the South Side Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Cleaner Scalded as Water Vat Breaks

Scalded about the body while at work in the Sanitary Cleaning Company plant at 2016 Wylie avenue early today, Samuel Fine, 40, of 1929 Wylie avenue, was reported to be in a critical condition in the Passavant Hospital. A vat containing scalding water broke, and the water poured over Fine.

DEDICATE BOYS' CLUB TODAY

The new building of the Boy's Club will be officially opened and dedicated with special services today and tonight. Prominent Pittsburghers interested in welfare work will participate in the ceremonies to be held in the new building, the old headquarters of the Lawrenceville Y. M. C. A. at Butler and Forty-fifth streets.

Mayor Charles H. Kline will formally unlock the door at 7 o'clock.

Throughout the day the building will be open to visitors who will be given the opportunity to see the full activities of the club. The dedication will take place tonight, beginning at 7 o'clock. The speakers will be Charles D. Armstrong, honorary president; Gen. A. J. Logan, director, and Robert D. Klees, of Chicago, managing director of the Union League Foundation for Boys.

12 Vestris Survivors To Resume Journey

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Undaunted by their fearful experiences at sea, 12 survivors of the steamship Vestris plan to sail for South America again shortly.

The steamship company refused to make public the names of the passengers, as they said they did not wish them to be annoyed by publicity. Their fare is being paid by the steamship company.

COUNCIL ORDERS TROPHY FOR CITY GRID CHAMPIONS

A silver trophy to be presented each year to football team winning the city championship was ordered from Grogan and Company, Sixth avenue and Wood street, at a meeeting of the finance committee of Council.

Coincidentally, action was deferred on a letter from the Chamber of Commerce inviting Council to make the presentation of the prize at a dinner December 7 in the chamber's dining room. The chamber will also award a football trophy.

It developed that the city's trophy could not be completed in less than six weeks and President James F. Malone was authorized to request the Chamber of Commerce to postpone its dinner so that a joint celebration could be held.

The city championship was won this year by Carnegie Tech by defeating University of Pittsburgh, 6 to 0.

It has taken half a century of continuous effort to build up the financial resources, manufacturing facilities and organization that make it possible for us to give you the inimitable style, the rich materials, the tailoring precision, and the incomparable value you find in Richman's Clothes, today.

After all, there is just one reason why we have become the world's largest manufacturing retailers of men's clothes—Richman's Clothes invariably satisfy even the most critical buyer. Their costly appearance—the sterling quality of the pure wool fabrics, procured at lowest prices through Richman cash buying power—the thoroughly good tailoring put into every garment by skilled workers who own a big interest in this business—the long wear at a low price—all contribute to the satisfaction you, too, will find in Richman's Clothes.

You can pay only one price at Richman's — $22.50 for any suit, overcoat, or tuxedo suit, which includes a brocaded silk vest.

You can buy Richman's Clothes only in the Richman store — to make sure you are getting all the style, quality and value your money can buy, look for the big Richman sign above the door before you enter.

Weather Conditions.

The pressure continues high over the Southeast, but with diminished intensity. The Lake region low is now in the far Northeast and the Southwest low developed eastward to Texas, its trough formation extending northeastward to Lake Michigan. It is causing cloudy weather throughout the interior of the country, and rain is falling in Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Kansas. During the last 24 hours rain occurred in the Ohio Valley states, the Lake region and over the entire Plains states section. Thunderstorms occurred during last night in Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Illinois and Oklahoma.

Another low appears over the Canadian Northwest. It is separated from the southern low by a ridge of high pressure that extends from Western Ontario westward to a rather marked high over the Middle Pacific coast. The temperature changes were unimportant.

River Conditions.

The rivers are practically stationary. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.1 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.7, and Dam No. 6, 8.0. The dams are up.

SAYS IT ENDED 6 YEARS' SUFFERING

Harmarville Lady Claims Ten Herbs Relieved Rheumatism and Indigestion.

"Ten Herbs ended my rheumatism and indigestion, with which I had suffered for six years," was the recent statement of Mrs. Margaretha Charlton, of Harmarville, Pa., (near Pittsburgh) to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine.

MRS. MARGARETHA CHARLTON

"Rheumatism seemed to be all through my system, and at times I could not raise my arms without pain and stiffness," continued Mrs. Charlton, who is 62 years of age. "I also had a severe case of indigestion. There were many things that I could not digest and at times even the lightest food caused me to belch gas and a hot, sour liquid. I was troubled with shortness of breath. My tongue was coated and there was a bad taste in my mouth. I had bilious spells and a blurring of the eyes. Sometimes I would become so dizzy that I would almost fall over. There were sharp pains across my back and if I would bend over I could hardly raise up again. I had to use physics three or four times a week, because of constipation.

"I was surprised at the relief Ten Herbs gave me. I have never felt better in my life than I do now—even friends tell me how well I look. Indigestion is gone, I am free of gas, coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, and shortness of breath. Rheumatism has disappeared and so have the bilious headaches, blurring of the eyes, dizzy spells and the pains across my back. Constipation has been corrected and I have regained a lot of weight. I gladly recommend Ten Herbs to the public."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

DRUGS GREATER PERIL THAN ALCOHOL, WOMAN WARNS

100 IDLE DRILLS RESUME SEARCH FOR 'BLACK GOLD'

SHAWNEE, Okla., Nov. 16—(AP)—Nearly a hundred whirling drills were tearing through the surface of the earth today in the Mund and Moss pools of the Greater Seminole Oil area in a race for "black gold."

From a scene of virtual inactivity to one bustling with life and industry, the fields were instituted yesterday by the resumption of drilling operations which operators had ordered to hold down production of the flush Seminole area, the two pools which have been held responsible for their disc wells. Increased production of oil in other parts of the Seminole area was acting as a depressant on the entire petroleum market.

Temporary communities of tents and rough shacks sprang up almost over night as an army of field workers moved in to man the drilling machinery. It was estimated that the newcomers, including wives and their families, numbered approximately 10,000.

Lang to Continue Adding St. Lights

The Department of Public Works was instructed to continue the installation of new street lights requested by council upon petition from property owners. Action was taken yesterday in reply to an appeal from the department as to a policy in view of a deficit in the lighting appropriation. During discussion of the problem, Council passed a motion from P. J. McArdle instructing the Department of Public Works to install street lights undergoing grading, paving and curbing improvements as soon as the project is completed rather than later, when the new pavement would have to be disturbed.

Janitor Held for Theft of Auto Accessories

During the period of five months he had been employed as janitor in the General Motors Corporation, 5700 Liberty avenue, Thomas Wilcox, 48, Negro, of 2243 Ridgeway street, is alleged to have stolen spark plugs, windshield wipers and other auto accessories valued at several hundred dollars, detectives say. Wilcox was arrested at the plant yesterday by City Detectives Edward McEntee and Clarence Bealer. The sleuths stated that Wilcox admitted the thefts.

He leaves his parents and a brother.

WANTS ARMY AND NAVY TO PREVENT DOPE SMUGGLING

By DAVID P. SENTNER,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Dope addiction, spreading like a black weed, is an infinitely greater peril to American civilization than the use of alcohol and demands at least an equality in suppression measures with the prohibition law, Sara Graham-Mulhall, world famous leader in the war on drugs, declared today in an interview with International News Service.

"I believe the Army and Navy should be called out to patrol our 27,000 miles of coastline and stop the smuggling of misery and destruction into our country," said Miss Mulhall.

"There are approximately 5,000 prohibition agents compared with 300 narcotic agents. The government has appropriated $13,000,000 for prohibition enforcement against $1,000,000 for halting the drug traffic.

CHILDREN LURED

"Meanwhile, American children are being lured into addiction, the scandal of narcotic indulgence among young college boys is being suppressed because of the shame that publicity would inflict on reputable colleges, and our young women are being exploited in a new form of white slavery, which begins and ends with the power of opium.

"The white slaves of a previous generation were ignorant girls," Miss Mulhall continued. "The white slaves of opium are American-born daughters of good families.

"After these young women of intelligence and breeding are trapped by the drug, the traffickers force them into the degraded adventures of opium vampires. To capture rich men, or the sons of wealthy parents becomes their share in the work of opium rings. These decoys are also used to entangle other attractive girls in all walks of life in the black habit which leads to death."

The record of 500 suicides in one year among American youth was cited by Miss Mulhall. She said that 214 were boys averaging only 16 years of age, and 286 girls averaging 15 years of age. She said that the proportion of drug addicts among this grim procession could not be accurately discovered.

LEADS TO SUICIDE

"But suicide is the delirium that seizes the drug addicts of whatever age if they cannot get the drug they need," she said.

Miss Mulhall told of how school children were slyly taught the use of heroin by drug peddlers. Poppy seeds are put in candy, she said, and the children are also urged to try "some headache powders" to help them in examination time.

Drug addiction is also on the increase among "society," said Miss Mulhall. Addicts among the upper classes receive their doses from private physicians.

"The wealthy or intellectual addict is the more serious menace to society," Miss Mulhall pointed out. "He spreads the vice in a more subtle way with the ease with which he can get the drug through family influence or through his wealth."

The outstanding centers of drug traffic are New York, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco, St. Louis, New Orleans and certain parts of Kentucky, Miss Mulhall said.

"We must have as many narcotic agents as prohibition agents," said Miss Mulhall. "No civilization can last if it is partially drugged. Even with the scant 300 narcotic agents they have made relatively more arrests and seizures and more progress than the thousands of prohibition officers. And the government has received more revenue in fines and seizures in connection with enforcing the drug laws than they have appropriated."

Miss Mulhall is attending the annual conference of the Narcotic Rehabilitation Association here. She said that a resolution calling upon Congress for nearer equality in anti-drug appropriations with the prohibition department would be put before the conference.

PUSH BILL IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Vigorous efforts will be put forward at the short session of Congress to secure passage by the Senate of the Porter bill providing for the establishment of two Federal farms for narcotic addicts.

Introduced and sponsored by Representative Stephen G. Porter (R.), of Pittsburgh, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, this measure is regarded as the first step in the formulation of a new and more comprehensive Federal plan for stamping out the drug menace.

By establishing the proposed farms where addicts may be detained to undergo a thorough corrective course of treatment, it is hoped to accomplish two purposes. The first is to rehabilitate those persons who have acquired the habit and the second is to prevent them from mingling in prisons, sanitariums or other institutions, with other persons who might easily fall victims to the habit by contact with them.

PASSED BY HOUSE

The Porter bill passed the House during the closing days of the last session by an overwhelming vote. The Senate then referred it to the Judiciary Committee, which immediately designated a subcommittee to consider the bill and report it back to the Senate.

This subcommittee is composed of Senators Waterman (R.), of Colorado; Deneen (R.), of Illinois, and Overman (D.), of North Carolina. An early report by this subcommittee will insure it a place on the Senate calendar and enhance its chances of passage at the short session. Once passed by the Senate, it is considered virtually certain that President Coolidge will give it approval.

The measure authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to select the sites and authorize the building of the two institutions. Federal prisoners known to be addicts would be detained there for treatment until the authorities believed them cured. Offenders against state laws might also be transferred there under certain conditions.

Persons not convicted of federal offenses, but who wished to take a course of treatment, likewise would be admitted with the consent of the authorities.

CITY QUESTIONS VACATION PAY FOR $12 MECHANICS

The Department of Public Works' policy of granting two weeks' vacations with pay to mechanics working on a daily basis, whose pay ranges around $12 a day, was criticized yesterday by Council.

The practice was revealed when the department attempted to explain an item of $7,500 for vacation pay which was included in a reported deficit of about $50,000 in the Bureau of Streets.

It was brought out that 118 employes, many getting the highest daily rate of pay, were idle because the bureau has no work and the department asked Council to appropriate approximately $7,000 to pay them for two weeks. Most of the employes in question have not worked for the city for more than six months.

Members of Council questioned the practicability of granting vacations with pay to such class of employes and raised the inquiry as to what private concerns followed that policy.

Councilmen pointed out that the vacation idea was primarily to award employes who worked for an institution for at least a full year. They said the policemen were given two weeks' vacation which represented about 4 per cent of the year in ratio to their working time.

The department was asked to report on the ratio under the pending request.

Highway Workman Killed at Crossing

STRASBURG, O., Nov. 16.—George Ranica, 39, truck driver, was instantly killed when his automobile was demolished at Coles crossing, a mile west of Jewett, by an east-bound Pennsylvania passenger train just after he had emerged from a covered bridge. He was en route to work on a state highway near Jewett.

BROOKHART IMPLICATES POWER TRUST IN RADIO TANGLE

CHARGES FARM STATIONS ARE DEPRIVED OF TIME

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The so-called "power trust," under investigation by the Federal Trade Commission, was brought into the complicated radio broadcasting situation today by Senators Brookhart (R.), of Iowa, and Norris (R.), of Nebraska.

After attending hearings of the commission revolving a number of mid-western stations, both senators declared that an attempt was being made to deprive the farmer broadcasters of their share of radio time.

"BIG FELLOWS" HOGGING

There is a general feeling that the "big fellows are getting the best of it in the radio set-up," Senator Brookhart said. "It appears that new legislation undoubtedly will be necessary.

"The principal issue in the Middle West broadcasting situation is the power trust monopoly.

"The public utilities corporations have no business to charge up the cost of their radio broadcasting operations to their consumers," Brookhart declared. "This is now being done. The consumer is actually paying the cost of broadcasting programs."

"WATER POWER TRUST"

Brookhart favors legislation that would prohibit the radio Commission from allocating channels to the public utilities corporations. He said that this could be done and that he may offer a bill to that effect.

Senator Norris believed that the "Water Power Trust" is in control of some stations, and is endeavoring to increase their power and broadcasting time, at the expense of smaller stations through the Mid-West.

Burglars Thirsty, Take 17 Pints Of Liquor

Thirsty thieves broke into the drug store of Parr & Fleming, Franklin and Sansome avenues, and stole 17 pints of liquor, according to a report made to the Wilkinsburg police. Entrance was gained to the building by breaking a cellar door. The whisky was taken from a locker in the cellar from which the lock had been pried off. From appearances of the cellar the thieves made an unsuccessful effort to reach the store proper.

M'KEESPORTER ELECTED W. & J. SENIOR PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 16.—Washington and Jefferson College students at their first elections of the year selected Kenneth Gilchrist, of McKeesport, varsity football fullback, president of the Student Assembly, the highest position of honor in the institution.

R. H. McMunn, of Irwin, varsity football end, was elected vice president and John H. Davidson, of Washington, secretary and treasurer. The various class election resulted as follows:

Senior president, Merle Chuck, Washington; vice president, C. F. Schaum, Pittsburgh; secretary-treasurer, Wylie W. Warrick, Pittsburgh; historian, Joseph C. Moody, Wilmette, Ill.; junior president, tie between Charles C. Ross, Clarion and A. H. Slater, Pittsburgh, to be decided at another election; vice president, Forrest Dowds, Rochester, Pa.; secretary-treasurer, W. N. Hawkins, Detroit; historian, D. W. Brierland, Pittsburgh; sophomore president, Andrew C. Cochran, Pittsburgh; vice president, John V. Pollock; secretary-treasurer, C. P. Aiken, New Brighton; historian, D. C. Shaw, Pittsburgh.

Freshmen president, Maurice Armstrong, Washington; vice president, John W. Butler, Charleroi; secretary-treasurer, Ernest K. Gowdy, Pittsburgh; historian, Cyrus W. Moorehead, of Mooreheadsville, G. P. Rowland, Coraopolis; Andrew Cochran, Pittsburgh, and W. T. Rom, Greensburg, were elected assistant editors of "Pandora," the college student annual. Robert E. Cole, Washington; and William A. Shafer, Stroudsburg, were chosen assistant managers of "Pandora," with a tie vote for a third position between M. N. Buchanan, Greensburg, and William Watson, Butler.

Theater Going Up On Church Site

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Jacob and Isaac Silverman, Altoona, announced they had purchased the Central Presbyterian Church property here and would begin construction February 1 of a new theater with a seating capacity of 3,000. H. C. Hodgen and A. D. Rice, theater architects, of Philadelphia, were engaged to design the playhouse.

ALARM TRAPS 2 IN BUILDING

Two youths were arrested hiding on the rafters of the brass shop of the Mazefsky Waste Materials Company, 2932 Penn avenue, last night after they are alleged to have forced entry through a skylight. A burglar alarm brought police to the place. They found Joseph Shunko, 16, of Penn avenue, and Alexander Zukowski, 17, of 3603 Butler street, hiding on the rafters of the building. The pair was lodged in the Penn Avenue Police Station.

AIR CRASH GEM WORTH $18,000 STILL SOUGHT

Although successful in recovering more than 700 diamonds and other precious stones lost in the mail plane crash on the side of Bear Mountain, near Dog, Nevada county, October 9, postal authorities are continuing the search in the hope of finding a large diamond valued at $18,640, the largest and most valuable of the $120,000 registered mail shipment.

Postoffice Inspector William H. Tafel, who is conducting the search, was in Pittsburgh yesterday attending Federal court. He declared any persons found in possession of any of the missing stones will be prosecuted the same as if they had stolen letters in their possession.

From dirt lifted from the vicinity of the spot where the mail plane crashed and buried, and stored in bags on horseback to the Franklin postoffice, the postoffice inspector and assistants have recovered 641 diamonds worth $360. More than two tons of dirt have been carried down the mountain side and the basement of the postoffice resembles a placer mining camp.

There the dirt passes through boiling water, and then is shaken through mesh screens and after being dried is again sifted and examined by postoffice clerks using magnifying glasses. Because of the bog and mud where the stone fell 18 inches of dirt is being lifted and taken to the postoffice "mining camp."

The day following the crash of the plane flying on the New York-Cleveland route, piloted by William C. Hopson, who was killed, 61 diamonds were recovered by Wesley L. Smith, superintendent of the airport at Cleveland, who flew to the scene of accident. Later Inspector Tafel found or recovered from searchers who stampeded the place 641 diamonds and stone and 40 rings, until members of the state highway patrol were placed on guard.

One stone, the Alexanderite, recovered by the inspector, shaped like a robin's egg, weighing 18 carats, and named after Czar Alexander II of Russia, is worth $7,000. The inspector said it is a precious stone, but not a diamond, and was discovered in 1833 in the Ural Mountain.

KILLER FOUND GUILTY

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 16—Ruben Britchey, 58, of Caneysville, Pa., charged with the killing of Leonard Kobler, at the foot of Plum street, this city, was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter by a jury in Erie county court. He was remanded to the Erie county prison to await sentence by Judge Uriah P. Rossiter.

Defense attorneys attempted to prove that their client was a victim of mistaken identity.

Willett H. Mosher, of Buffalo, N. Y., an expert in firearms, testified that the bullet inflicting death was probably from a rifle, identified as the property of Britchey.

Group of Misses' Coats

—Specially Priced

It is a group from which to pick prizes, for at this one price we have reassembled broken lines of misses' much higher-priced coats.

Most of them are individual models . . . here a red coat . . . there several black ones . . . a few coats trimmed with leopard . . . a single one with a rich beaver collar . . . a gray coat with fluffy gray wolf trimming . . .

. . . We can't describe them all, but do see them, yourself, if you are searching for a handsome coat at a moderate price.

'Woolsheer' Frocks

For Misses

$19.75

With this store a great exponent of the vogue for sheer woolens, naturally, a special event in "Woolsheer" frocks at Horne's means something!

The frocks are wonderfully smart ones of featherweight tweeds plain or bordered, novelty wool georgette, sheer flecked woolens, finest reps . . . a wide variety in one and two-piece styles.

In navy, grayed blue, oxford gray, green, wine, beige, tan and brown tones.

"Stadium" Coats

Of English Kamel-Rah

$79.50

This is a great season for the deep-fleeced, snug type of sports coat, and Horne's "Stadium" coat of Kamel-Rah is the aristocrat among them. Its fabric is finer, its tailoring is perfect, it has the air of a thoroughbred, so that one does not mind paying $79.50 for it.

G. O. P. WOMEN DEMAND VOTE REFORM

HARRISBURG, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women yesterday outlined, through the medium of resolutions, the legislative program which it will support at the 1929 session of the State Legislature.

Further reforms in the election laws; ample financial support for a comprehensive program of construction of welfare institutions, and a constitutional convention to rewrite the basic laws of the commonwealth, were urged.

By way of setting an example in the carrying into effect of the recently passed constitutional amendment permitting optional use of voting machines, the council used the machines to elect their officers. Mrs. Walter King Sharpe, of Chambersburg, was elected president of the council, succeeding Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, of Philadelphia.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Worthington Scranton, of Scranton, first vice president; Mrs. Hannah M. Durham, Allentown, second vice president; Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, Pittsburgh, third vice president; Mrs. Charles F. Stauffer, Lancaster, fourth vice president; Mrs. H. C. Kirkbride, Norristown, recording secretary; Mrs. William W. Livingood, Robesonia, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles F. Etter, Harrisburg, treasurer.

The following were elected directors: Mrs. H. Tatnall Brown, Jr., of Haverford, daughter of Gov. John S. Fisher; Mrs. Charles P. Chick, Uniontown; Mrs. John D. Farnham, Wilkes-Barre; Mrs. Augusta Brown Fleming, Erie; Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, Pittsburgh; Mrs. J. Willis Martin, Philadelphia; Mrs. Samuel B. Scott, Philadelphia; Mrs. H. M. Turner, Towanda; Mrs. Clifton A. Verner, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, Philadelphia, the retiring president, and Dr. Mary M. Wolfe, of Laurelton.

The convention adopted resolutions deploring the failure of voters to approve the welfare and forestry bond issues in last week's election, and urging the legislature to make appropriations to meet these needs. Gov. John S. Fisher was urged to set aside $10,000,000 in his budget, to provide for welfare buildings.

The Legislature was also called upon to make adequate appropriation for reforestation and preservation of timber land and water supply in the state.

A resolution was adopted urging jail sentences for major violations of prohibition laws and for all second offenses against these laws.

The legislature, in accordance with the recently passed amendment to the constitution of the state, was urged to pass enabling legislation providing for optional installation of voting machines; to pass legislation requiring all voters in first and second class cities to sign the voting list before receiving a ballot; and to continue the children's commission created in 1905.

Other resolutions urged the calling of a constitutional convention to revise the constitution of the commonwealth; extended congratulations to the successful candidates, Auditor General Edward Martin, David A. Reed, Charles Waters, and Judge William D. Porter; and commended various officers of the council for their work last year.

FAYETTE CITY BANKER DIES

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 16.—Andrew Brown, aged 82, president of the defunct Fayette City National Bank and First National Bank of Webster, died in his home at Fayette City Thursday night. He was a leader in the civic, religious and business life of the community and Fayette county. He was the oldest elder in the historic Rehoboth Presbyterian Church and had served as Sunday school superintendent. His wife, two sons and two daughters survive.

GIRL JAILED AS CHECK PASSER

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 16.—Mrs. Helen S. Sargent, 23, and pretty, who posed as a prison reform agent here, was sentenced to the Marysville Reformatory for Women, for from one to three years, for passing bad checks. She inspected the city and county jails here and declared them a disgrace. Quoted widely in the newspapers she cashed a bad check on a local hotel. She was arrested in Columbus.

SORT LAST MINUTE ZAIN ADS TODAY

MOUNTAIN OF MAIL RECEIVED AT FINISH

Attesting the popularity of the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test, which closed at midnight last night, thousands of letters containing advertisements by amateur writers, submitted in competition for the $1,000 grand prize offered by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the special prizes offered by certain of the 39 co-operating firms, were received in the final hours. Here are a few of the many persons engaged today in assorting them. Competent judges will pass on the ads today, and the prize winners will be announced Sunday.

ZAIN AD JUDGES WILL NAME WINNERS SUNDAY

The great $15,000 Zain Ad-Test is over, so far as the submission of advertisements is concerned. Competent judges are passing today on the ads received. The prize winners will be announced on Sunday.

Striving for the grand prize of $1,000, a veritable army of amateur writers wrote advertisements about the business, products and service of the 39 local business concerns co-operating in the test.

A mountain of mail poured into the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph during the final hours of the test, some not coming in until the last minute. At midnight last night the last eligible ads were received.

Numerous clerks were engaged yesterday in opening the letters and assorting the advertisements for the judges.

Gets Radio Programs Over His Telephone

Rheumatism, Neuritis, Pain

With applicator attached to cork, just brush "Heet" over the pain area, whether in knees, feet, legs, hands, shoulders, back, neck or body. Instantly you feel this harmless, glorious, penetrating heat draw the pain, soreness and stiffness right out of any aching or swollen joint, muscle or neuritis-ridden nerve.

"Heet" contains two soothing, penetrating ingredients too expensive to use in ordinary liniments or analgesics. "Heet" is a clean, pleasant liquid, doesn't stain, blister or irritate the skin and costs only 60 cents at any drug store.

2,000 INSPECT WAREHOUSE

The new service warehouse of the Joseph Horne Company, Manchester boulevard and Shore avenue, North Side, was officially inspected last night by 2,000 persons, guests of the store officials. The building will be open for public inspection tonight. The new warehouse is designed for a second unit to be added to conform in area to the present one.

The entire motor fleet of the downtown store is kept at the new warehouse, which is less than a mile from the store itself. The five scattered warehouses that formerly were operated by the store now are centralized in the one large structure. Specially-built elevators have been arranged to move the trucks and their load directly to and from the various floors.

The building machinery is housed on the ninth floor and the rest of the building contains the various storage rooms, workshops, offices, packing rooms and repair departments.

Veteran Sleuth to Sail With Hoover

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 16—(AP)—William S. (Bill) McSwain, since 1921 head of the Portland offices of the United States Secret Service, will be in charge of the secret service guard which will accompany President-elect Herbert Hoover on his South American trip. During his connection with the secret service, McSwain has served two presidents in this capacity. He traveled with Warren G. Harding and was with President Wilson when he made his trip West.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 16—Father and son, James Brunetti, 52, and Samuel Brunetti, 18, of Bobtown, are being held in connection with the theft of 35 chickens from the Glenn Morris farm in Center Township. Brunetti has been a chicken buyer in this district for years.

WITH WEEK TO GO, NEARLY HALF BUDGET PLEDGED

With another week to go the campaign of the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh today had to its credit almost one half of the amount required for the joint financing of 25 philanthropic agencies of Allegheny county. The noonday checkup brought the total of the subscriptions to $401,336.46.

The success of the community plan espoused by the Welfare Fund yesterday was forecast also by two enthusiastic gatherings of the workers, who voiced their determination to carry their enterprise to a triumphant conclusion.

At a meeting today in the William Penn Hotel the final reports for the week were made, and when the industrial groups and special teams resume their labors Monday they will find themselves in the midst of an army of workers conducting the county-wide house-to-house canvass and the solicitation in stores, shops and mills. The house-to-house canvass starts at 2 p. m. Sunday and will be the greatest money-raising campaign ever conducted in Pittsburgh in behalf of welfare organizations.

DIVISIONS REPORT

Horace F. Baker presided at today's meeting, and an address was made by Mrs. John W. Lawrence, chairman of the home meetings committee. At the opening of the meeting, not including today's reports, the standing of the respective divisions in the campaign was as follows:

First division, Joseph Dilworth, chairman, $67,112; second division, Horace F. Baker, chairman, $71,490; third division, G. G. Coolidge, chairman, $22,190; fourth division, women's special teams, Mrs. Harry J. Miller, chairman, $176,750. To the fourth division is included $43,347 raised in the preliminary house-to-house canvass in Swissvale by Mrs. Alexander Laughlin. To date the team showing the greatest activity is that devoted to public utilities, with 447 contributions. C. S. Mitchell is captain, and the amount collected is $22,573.

A rally in Pittsburgh Carnegie Music Hall last night brought together more than 2,000 workers. Community singing, brief addresses on the urgent needs of the respective agencies in the Welfare Fund and entertainment features stirred the audience to enthusiasm.

HOWARD

Absolutely the smartest models; finest tailoring ever seen at $22.50, and we can prove it!

Your choice of striped, figured or flowered Silk Vest free with Howard's Tuxedo. Coat faced and lined with genuine Satin.

Howard's Blue Whitney Overcoat, made from genuine Metcalfe Mills Whitney cloth. Satin lining replaced free if it wears out within 2 years.

A Word About Fashions:

We find that the men in big cities no longer care for the rustic type of clothes. That's why Howard offers new, metropolitan designs—from London and New York—in the models, patterns and colors that well-turned-out men are wearing. And the variety is amazing!

Howard's Wales is offered in a 12-ounce Serge, beautiful quality, with 2 pairs of trousers, at the Howard price of $22.50.

Here Is the Acid Test:

We say to you: "Howard Clothes are without question the finest clothes that any organization can afford to sell at $22.50 or any price like it." We mean exactly that, and here's how we can prove it to your own complete satisfaction: You ask any floor man at 233 Fifth Avenue to show you the Howard line. Ask him to explain the handwork we do on the collar, for example (a correctly fitting collar is very important). Find out what kind of fabric it is and how it will wear. Then select any competitive garment you choose and let us show you the superior points of Howard Clothes.

Bring your wife along or your sweetheart or mother—women know a lot about good clothes. Try on a Howard garment, look in the mirror; get your friends' comments. Do this in the interest of better clothes. We won't urge you to buy, but we want you to know our story. Talk is cheap, but test the clothes. We'll abide by your decision.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

BEIGE SUEDE SIZE SIX

By FELICIA WAYNE

THE girls at the store thought she was "bugs." Always talking about a knight on a white horse, and the end of the rainbow, and the land of heart's desire. Always mooning about being happy some day and "believing." "If you believe," she would say, "if you really believe, it'll come true. But if you just play believing, then it'll only half come true."

Often the girls at the other counters would watch her as she stood up, very straight and tall, and bowed to the customers as though she were a queen just about to lend a royal ear to some request. Mary very rarely had urgent requests — that is, almost everyone who approached her asked for gloves. All kinds of people they were, but mostly women. It got so that Mary could tell, by the kind of gloves they asked for, what they were like. She knew, for instance, that black silk gloves meant a tall lady, who reminded you of a stone statue, and who had very thin lips. White kid pull-ons almost always went to plump ladies who had yellow hair and wore three rings. Long white gloves were for brides and black kid for girls with large, fleshy hands and big feet.

Mary would amuse herself, for hours at a time, by looking down when a customer addressed her. She would wait until she heard the order, then make up her mind what kind of a person she was, and then look up, to find out if she had guessed right. It was such fun on days when she was tired and unhappy. Then she didn't have to talk to the other girls, or listen to their sharp comments.

And jealous girls can say sharp, biting things. Mary wondered what she had ever done to merit such unpopularity. She didn't know that the other girls hated her for her innocence, her unspoiled loveliness. She only knew that she was different from them because she "believed."

She was "believing" particularly hard one afternoon because things hadn't been going so well. As she was facing the little cash register she heard a voice say, "A pair of beige suede gloves, size six, please." As usual, Mary didn't look up. She thought to herself, "That's the first call I've had in six months for beige suede. Let me see—well-dressed, quiet—" Her curiosity prompted her to look at him before her estimate was complete.

And he was well dressed and quiet. But he was more than that. He was tall, with stooping shoulders, and he had gray eyes that looked a little hurt, and his mouth was wide and firm. Mary looked up at him at first furtively, then in open wonder. For she recognized that he, too, was a "believer." Yet the man didn't seem to notice Mary's admiration—or Mary. He took the package said "Thank you" just like the "unbelievers" and departed.

And yet—he came back the very next day. For more gloves. Beige suede, size six. And this time Mary noticed that he did seem to be interested. He even chatted a little—mostly about hands. He told Mary that she had interesting hands, and that he was a sculptor. When he left the girls teased Mary. They asked her whether this wasn't her "knight on a white horse," and didn't she think he was going to take her for a ride some day.

Yet even they ceased to jeer when the "knight" came in for gloves a few days later. This time he said nice things to her. That her eyes were "pools of liquid delight," that her "spirit was proud and unbroken." Mary didn't quite understand these things, but she thought they were beautiful—and that the sculptor was w-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l. When he came to the store again Mary was so thrilld she could hardly talk intelligibly.

That afternoon he asked her to meet him for tea. She went, radiant with happiness, and wondered why a brilliant artist could be interested in an ordinary salesgirl. But that the artist was interested was evident even to the other girls. He came to the store again and again, ordered beige suede gloves and chatted with the girl who sold them.

One day he sent Mary a box of yellow roses, and an invitation to dinner and the theater. She wore a rose on her dress and carried the note with her to the store. When she told the other clerks about it, their faces took on a hard, cynical expression. They muttered phrases like "don't mean right," "rich men want something for something," "some girls get taken in easy." But Mary "believed" and nothing they could say would convince her that her sculptor was dishonorable.

So with a heart as light as a sunbeam, Mary went to dinner with the "knight." They said very little during dinner that night, and even less at the theater. Each seemed to be thinking. . . .

After the play, the sculptor told Mary he had a surprise for her, but that she would have to trust him implicitly. "I do trust you," Mary said simply. So they went to his apartment and Mary took off her hat and coat and sat down in an easy chair, just as though she were at home. She knew what the girls at the store would think about her being alone in a man's apartment at midnight, but she didn't care. She only knew that something had happened to her—something unreal and wonderful.

And pretty soon she knew, she knew. For the sculptor just looked at her very hard, and then he said, simply, "I love you, Mary."

Mary cried at that. No one had ever said it before, and it was so hard to believe. But the sculptor left her for a moment, and when he came back he had a huge bureau drawer in his arms. "Perhaps," he said shyly, "this isn't much of a proof."

Mary looked into the drawer and laughed tremulously. It was filled to the top with beige suede gloves—size six.

Will Contest Goes On Trial Monday

NEW CASTLE, Nov. 16.—Trial in the controversy over the will of the late Mrs. Nellie M. Dean, widow of J. J. Dean, involving an estate in excess of $125,000, will start Monday before Judge James A. Chambers. A jury has been selected from the panel attending court this week. The point at issue is the validity of the alleged will probated following the death of Mrs. Dean.

Dawes and Artists Visit His Ohio Farm

NEWARK, O., Nov. 16.—Vice President Charles G. Dawes, Cartoonist James T. McCutcheon and party of 30, are at Dawes' Wood Farm, south of the city, home of Seeman G. Dawes. They were joined at the farm by W. A. (Billy) Ireland, artist of the Columbus Dispatch, and a party of 15, who motored there. The two cartoonists will plant twin trees along the "Plank road" on the farm, the plan being that notable men of the country should each plant a tree. The entire party dined at the Granville Inn, near here in the evening.

Hold Man Charged With $90 Holdup

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 16.—Bert Whiteman, 51, Canton township, is in jail here charged with having robbed Carl Erickson of $90 at the point of a revolver. Whiteman will be given a hearing tonight.

7 FIREMEN OVERCOME FIGHTING DOWNTOWN BLAZE

WOMEN ESCAPE FLAMES; DAMAGE PUT AT $15,000

Seven firemen were overcome by smoke, a score of employes rushed, and $15,000 damage caused by fire in the basement of the Pennsylvania Electrical Repair Company, a three-story brick building at 129-31 First avenue, last night.

The employes, including eight women, were about to leave the building when dense smoke from the cellar forced them into the street. The fire is said to have started when an armature fell into a vat containing 100 gallons of varnish. The varnish poured out and ignited from a gas burner. Firemen responding to an alarm had difficulty in entering the structure because of the heavy smoke. They finally managed to enter the basement.

Those overcome were: Victor Modjeski, 28; William Brophy, 45; Arthur Robinson, 24; Joseph Horne, 32, and William McClelland, 28, all of No. 1 Engine Company; William Rea, 30, of No. 19 Engine Company, and Jacob S. Hummell, 35, of No. 32 Engine Company.

All were taken to Mercy Hospital in police patrols. Modjeski's condition is regarded as serious. The damage was estimated by Deputy Fire Chief Frank Loxterman.

Spiritualist Wife To Bare Missing Flier's Fate!

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Walter G. R. Hinchliffe, whose husband flew to his death last March in attempting to fly across the Atlantic with the Hon. Elsie Mackey, announced today that she had become interested in spiritualism and would tell the full story of the life met by the fliers in a lecture on Wednesday.

Mrs. Hinchliffe said she had been in communication with her husband and her lecture would reveal all the details he told her of what happened to the ill-fitted plane and its occupants after they disappeared flying to the west on March 13 and were never heard from again.

FRENCH EDISON TO TALK HERE AT COAL MEET

Two evening meetings, planned primarily for the general public, will be held next week during the international conference on bituminous coal, according to an announcement from Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, and chairman of the coal congress.

The first of the evening sessions is announced for Tuesday night in Carnegie Music Hall, with John Hays Hammond, consulting engineer, of Washington, D. C., Dr. Edwin E. Slosson, director of Science Service, Inc., and Dr. E. W. Smith, of London, as the speakers.

The second meeting will be held Friday night in Carnegie Music Hall with Georges Claude, the French inventor and scientist, "the Edison of France," as the principal speaker.

Dr. Slosson, who lectured at a similar meeting at the first international conference on bituminous coal two years ago, will discuss "The Synthetic Kingdom." Dr. Slosson is considered one of the few men in the country who can interpret science for the layman.

Hammond will preside at the Tuesday evening meeting and Dr. Smith, who is technical director of the Woodall-Duckham Companies in England, will give an address on "The Technical Lessons of the World Power Conference of 1928."

At the public meeting Friday night, Claude is expected to devote a portion of his address to a discussion of his latest researches in extracting energy from the sea.

CAN'T ENFORCE BLUE LAW, SAYS JOHNSTOWN MAYOR

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Mayor Joseph Caufiel issued a statement last night in which he denied that he had instructed the city police department to notify owners of restaurants, gasoline stations and other places of business to close under the blue laws next Sunday, but explained that the officers had been instructed to notify the business people "that Council wanted all laws, including the Sunday Law, enforced."

"Laws change as does everything else in this busy world," the Mayor's statement adds, "and while the blue laws were good in their Puritanical day, they have become antiquated and could not possibly be enforced in the modern age. If Council insists upon the Sunday closing law, they will have to secure an order from the court, for I will not attempt to enforce the old blue laws, evoking inconvenience to the public."

Last night 24 of the leading druggists in the city district held a meeting at which a committee was named to call on the Mayor today. Many of the druggists said they had been notified by the police department that they would have to close their business places next Sunday. Others said they had learned unofficially that Mayor Caufiel would not force the closing.

The Mayor said he knew nothing about the meeting of the druggists.

Chamberlin, Noted Scientist, 85, Dies

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Prof. Thomas Crowder Chamberlin, originator of the planetesimal hypothesis of the formation of the earth, died here yesterday of bronchial pneumonia and heart disease. He was 85 years old. Prof. Chamberlin, a noted geologist, held that a giant star passing close to the sun from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 years ago drew in its wake fragments of the sun, which eventually came together and formed the earth. Other planets, he believed, were formed in the same manner. Prof. Chamberlin elaborated on his theory in his latest book, "Two Solar Systems—the Sun's Children," published just three weeks ago.

Boston Minister Speaks Tonight

The second of a series of weekly addresses will be given tonight by the Rev. Dr. Horace Westwood, of Boston, who will speak in the First Unitarian Church, Ellsworth avenue. His topic will be "Immortality in the Light of Modern Thought." A question box will be conducted following his talk.

HIT BY AUTO, GETS VERDICT

David E. Shetron, 1235 Liverpool street, a railroad brakeman, won a $3,500 verdict in Common Pleas Court against Vose Babcock, a son of County Commissioner E. V. Babcock, for personal injuries received August 3, 1926, near the Mount Royal Cemetery.

Shetron claims that Babcock's car, which had skidded, struck him and injured him badly about the body. The testimony in the case, tried before Judge James R. Macfarlane, showed that Shetron had gotten out of his car, thinking that he had struck another car, when he skidded near the scene of the accident where he was hurt. He found he was mistaken. The Babcock car then came along and it, too, skidded, resulting in Shetron being hurt, so he alleged.

MAN SAVED BY POLICEMAN

Burned seriously about the face, arms and legs early today, W. W. Irwin, 57, 1812 St. Mark's place, probably owes his life to Patrolman James Watkins, who dragged him from danger from a fire in a small shed at a parking lot at Liberty avenue and Eleventh street. The victim was treated at the Mercy Hospital and then taken home.

Irwin, a watchman at the parking lot, was filling a small oil stove when it exploded, showering him with blazing oil. Patrolman Watkins was nearby on the street and heard the explosion. He rushed into the small shed and dragged Irwin to safety. The officer also beat out the fire in the shed.

Labor Men Indorse Retirement Plan

The passage of the Dale-Lehlbach bill, providing for optional retirement of Federal employes was indorsed by the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union at a meeting last night. Resolutions of the indorsement were signed by W. A. Crissman and P. J. McGrath and sent to President Coolidge, Pennsylvania's representatives in Washington and members of the Civil Service Committee of the Senate.

Man and Girl Found Prowling Arrested

Arrested while wandering in an alley in the rear of East Ohio street early today, William Knieling, 29, of Forty-second street, and Alice Leffler, 18, no home, were lodged in the North Side Police Station. The pair were unable to give a good account of themselves and were charged with being suspicious persons.

Dr. Day Speaks at Church Dedication

The Rev. Dr. Albert Edward Day, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, was the speaker last night at special services for men featuring the fifth day's program of the dedication of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Homestead Park. S. L. Kennedy presided. Services will be held daily until Thanksgiving.

Driver Hits Child, Rushes Victim To Doctor

Catherine Merkel, 10, 79 West Climax street, was slightly injured when she was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Winifred F. Fletcher, 28, 439 Zara street, Knoxville, at Beltzhoover avenue and Climax street, Allentown, yesterday morning.

Miss Fletcher took the girl to the office of Dr. J. Stewart, 611 Warrington avenue, who gave her first aid. After taking the girl to her home, Miss Fletcher reported the accident to the Mt. Washington police. She was not arrested as the accident was unavoidable, according to the police officials.

PGH. WOMAN HIT BY AUTO DIES

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 16.—Mrs. Marie McCallister, 54, of 230 East Twenty-sixth street, mother of R. L. McCallister and John B. McCallister, of Pittsburgh, and sister of Mrs. H. Rodenbaught and Mrs. A. C. Oakley, both also of Pittsburgh, died at St. Vincent's Hospital last night as a result of injuries received in an accident while she was on her way to attend church services.

Mrs. McCallister was struck by an automobile at Twenty-sixth and Wayne streets. Cassimir Ware, 3513 Buffalo road, driver of the machine, was releaced, pending an investigation.

Great to Be a Radio Football Fan! Rah! Rah! Rah-dio! Fay King Yell

By FAY KING

BOY, I've gone collegiate—and HOW!

Never having gone to high school, let alone college, rah-rah days and campus crushes didn't get me till I joined the Air College.

Now every Saturday finds me rooting for at least eight college teams, and I never know which alma mater is going to matter until all the games are over.

I may start my college yell with Rah! Rah! Rah! and end it with Razz!

Being a cheer-leader in my own chair, I can root in four different states at the same time.

It's great to be a football fan over the radio, if you haven't got a fur coat.

Rah! Rah! Rah-dio!!

Envoy Angered by Hoover-Bid "Slight"

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 16.—(AP)—It is understood here that Manuel Malbran, ambassador to the United States who is returning to Buenos Aires, will offer his resignation. It is said Senor Malbran has stated he was "disgusted" with the procedure of the foreign minister in sending an invitation to President-elect Herbert Hoover to visit Argentina direct instead of transmitting it through the embassy.

McCULLOCH'S STORES for GOODWILL

GOOD WILL! Intangible only in that you cannot see good will or put your hands on it. But the McCulloch Stores, over a period of many years, have made a very tangible thing of it.

Good will—THE good will—of the populace of Pittsburgh has been achieved by a liberal measure of value; a liberal measure of service; all with no price premium.

And so today the McCulloch Stores, stretching out over Greater Pittsburgh, build higher and higher, on the firm foundation of GOOD WILL, which right methods in past have laid.

Watch the papers every week and you will note that the name "DQW" will gradually succeed the name "McCULLOCH" in all the stores. Already two NEW stores have been opened under the name of "DOW."

News From Hollywood Studios Combined With Notes From Theaters

"SHOW PEOPLE," STARRING MARION DAVIES, IS HIT OF YEAR IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—"The almost perfect comedy," "one of the greatest pictures ever produced," "Marion Davies in her greatest success" are some of the encomiums heaped upon Marion Davies and "Show People," which opened this week at the Capitol Theater and will be held over at the big Broadway house next week.

"Never before have such uniformly good reviews been bestowed upon a picture by New York critics. Without exception they classify 'Show People' as one of the outstanding hits of the year.

"The following excerpts are taken from the reviews in the leading New York newspapers:

Times—"So clever is the comedy in 'Show People' that it would not be at all surprising to hear that many in the audience had sat through it twice."

The World—"One of the most continuously entertaining and amusing picture plays of the year is at your disposal on the Capitol screen. Miss Davies has done no better work in pictures. 'Show People' is a film of such speed and variety, combining so many moods and so much of realness that it deserves the very best of reception and probably will get it."

Laugh a Minute, Says American

New York American—"If you care to enjoy that proverbial laugh a minute, heed our advice and take a trip to the Capitol this week where Marion Davies' latest starring vehicle 'Show People' is holding forth. From the initial close-up to the final fade-out, there is a series of hearty giggles, and if you don't come away from the picture declaring it to be one of the brightest comedies you've ever seen, we'll eat our new chapeau."

Daily News—"Simply swell entertainment. It is corking good comedy, proving Vidor's ability at funny stuff as well as dramatic; also that Marion Davies holds the position of filmdom's most hilarious comedienne. With 'Show People' King keeps his crown, and Marion keeps you chuckling for a solid 80 minutes."

Daily Mirror—"'Show People' at the Capitol is the greatest picture of both its stars, Marion Davies and William Haines, a lusty comedy with the Chaplinesque quality of amazing pathos. It shows Hollywood as it has never been shown before, laughing at it yet sympathizing with the understanding of it."

Evening Graphic—"It offers Miss Davies an opportunity to do some of the best work of her career. Vidor has handled every situation so deftly and he has such enthusiastic aid from Miss Davies and her supporting cast that 'Show People' cannot fail to excite the box-office response it deserves."

"Good as Year's 10 Best Comedies

Evening Journal — "If anyone should ask you to name the 10 best comedies of the year, the answer is 'Show People.' There are some grand bits in a picture that is made up of one hilarious situation after another. Marion Davies in 'Show People' is a treat. You'll want to see the picture again and again."

Evening World—"If there is any doubt in the mind of any movie fan that Marion Davies is by far the greatest artist of the screen, let that fan drop into the Maj. Bowes' house this week and look over 'Show People,' in which William Haines shares honors with the star. It is one of the funniest and yet the most artistic efforts in many a moon."

Evening Telegram—"The inimitable Marion Davies is bewitching audiences anew at the Capitol this week in a riotous comedy conceived by Laurence Stallings and Agnes Chelstine Johnston, directed by King Vidor and entitled 'Show People.' It happens once in a decade of film-going that spectators unclasp their hands—or somebody else's—and burst out spontaneously in a tumult of applause. And they're doing it at the Capitol this week, not once but many times, as this sparkling entertainment uncoils. Judging by the present layout 'Show People' will romp home easily in this department's list of the 10 best pictures of the year."

Brooklyn Eagle—"A stimulating satire. 'Show People' is heartily recommended. One of the worthiest comedies of the year."

Sun—"A diverting film. Certainly 'Show People' leads the way."

HERE AND THERE :-: WITH FOLKS :-: OF MOVIE WORLD

Jean Arthur visits a new radio broadcasting station in Los Angeles and is told about watts and tubes and things by the station technician.

Ernst Lubitsch, director, scratches his 'cello in the snow of one of his movie sets.

William J. Locke, British novelist, is receiving an earful about the movies from Mona Rico, one of Lubitsch's "discoveries."

Mr. Locke, who is to write a story for Norma Talmadge, finds Hollywood a quiet, peaceful community.

LASS HAVING NAME OF MARY TO BE LEADING WOMAN FOR HAROLD LLOYD

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16.

HAROLD LLOYD must think that Mary is a grand old name, for that is what his leading woman will be called. As to the other half of her name there is still some doubt. But it will be either Brian or McCallister. The choice has narrowed down to these two Marys, and in a day or so Harold will make his final selection. Mary McCallister, you may remember, played opposite "Red" Grange during his brief picture career. And Mary Brian has been heroine to any number of screen heroes.

Don't be surprised if Harold calls his new picture "T. N. T." He is seeking an "explosive" title, and this is the most favored suggestion that has yet been made. There are others, though, and then again he may have an inspiration that will bring a better one. So far the picture is called a "wow" at the studio, and, as Harold is his own "severest critic," this means a lot of laughs in the film.

Upon Director Richard Wallace, Paramount has bestowed about as great an honor as is in its power. Richard has been selected to wield the megaphone while Maurice Chevalier, the expensive French import, makes his first American film comedy. It is essential that the foreign star be launched upon his Hollywood career with a real smash-hit, and Paramount believes that Richard Wallace can provide the Babe Ruth touch. Incidentally, Dita Parlo has not been signed for the feminine lead in the picture, and there seems to be growing doubt that she will be.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation.

IN BAD HEALTH FOR SIX YEARS

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Gave Her Strength

Arapahoe, Okla.—"I want to tell you just what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in bad health for about six years. My nerves were all to pieces. I could not sleep and wasn't able to do my housework. Now I feel so much better! I sleep like a baby. I can do all my housework, washing and ironing and feel fine all the time. I help my husband some in the field, too, so you see we have something to praise the Vegetable Compound for. I will gladly answer all letters asking about the Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines."—Mrs. Luther Hibbs, Box 565, Westwood, California.

JURYMEN IN HOTEL DURING RUM TRIALS

U. S. GUESTS ARE HOUSED — CONSTANTLY UNDER GUARD

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT "TAKES" JURYMEN FROM COURTROOM TO LUNCHEON

This is the jury in the North Side rum conspiracy trial in Federal court returning to the courtroom from its noon lunch at the Hotel Pittsburgher, where its members are living as "guests" of the government for the duration of the trial, which may last four or more weeks. Quarters have been provided on one of the upper floors. Joseph Schroeffel, West View, and Charles Harper, Industry street, special court bailiffs, are in charge of the jury and maintain a constant guard.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

BY HAVEY J. BOYLE

OLE HUMPY BENNETT was in town the other day. He visited Joe Taggert of the Baltimore and Ohio. Ole Humpy is the last reminder of the worst railroad wreck in the history of American railroading. 'Way back in 1876, on the night of December 29, 85 persons were killed when a train on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern crashed through a bridge at Ashtabula.

It was a roustabout kid, who was what was then called a news hawk, who, at the age of 18, found himself in a hospital, some hours after the wreck with grave doctors and nurses trying to appear unconcerned, looking at him with that curious air persons have when watching another person close to death. The kid couldn't live very long. But by some miracle, despite a back that never more would be straight, the kid clung on.

WITH the kid sufficiently recovered to talk business, an eagle-eyed claim adjuster dropped in and offered to settle with the kid by agreeing to pay him a dollar a day for the rest of his life. The adjuster was of that old type for whom a hard bargain rounded out a swell day. The kid signed up. That was 52 years ago. Well, every day in those 52 years Ole Humpy has been drawing a dollar a day—and you should hear him chuckle now. When the bargain was first struck it didn't appear as if the kid would get more than $7—$8 at the most.

"Never been sick a day in my life since that accident," says Ole Humpy. Since his kid days Ole Humpy has knocked around circuses and carnivals and many a canvas man in America knows Ole Humpy, whose home is in Newark, but whose work draws him every summer to Asbury Park, N. J., where they pitch rings for canes—the one you ring is the one you get, says Humpy, laughing.

ONE happy recollection Ole Humpy carries of his days of convalescence. A great man named Vanderbilt, who didn't have the instincts of a harsh, old school claim adjuster, yet a man who owned a big part of the railroad, called on the kid. The elderly and magnificent millionaire gave the kid $3,000 cash, but what seemed even better, at that moment, were the grand instructions as the boy's eyes glistened up from the white pillow. Said Mr. Vanderbilt to the nurse: "Take him out today and buy him anything he wants." You should hear Ole Humpy the other day chuckling as he told of the countless things he bought that day at the expense of the fine Mr. Vanderbilt.

"Yes, that was bad luck for a kid that was an orphan," says Ole Humpy, as he picks up his cane, making ready to leave, "but I got no kick comin'. Heh, I forgot to tell you I haven't missed attending Methodist Church a single Sunday since I got better. Why, this cane here was given me for steady attendance all these years—look at the inscription on it." The inscription, somehow, told the story of how a lone, forlorn kid, out of the pages of a Dickens, suffered a tough blow, came up smiling, and kept his faith.

* * *

"THE cane you ring is the cane you get," chuckled Ole Humpy as he walked away. There might be a bit of philosophy in that.

REPAIRS CLOSE WEST VIEW SCHOOL

Three hundred and twenty-five children of the Highland public school, West View, will enjoy a two-day vacation the latter part of next week, while changes in the hallway are being made.

The borough school board authorized the respite when contractors for a new 4-room annex reported that tearing out wooden stairs which are to be replaced by a fireproof stairway, would make holding of school impracticable. No time will be lost by the pupils, however, as the two days will be made up in the Christmas vacation period.

The new addition will be placed in use the week after next. Several classes have been utilizing the auditorium, pending completion of the annex, as present classrooms are taxed to capacity.

Police to Clear Dithridge Street

The safety department was ordered to remove obstructions on Dithridge street between Fifth avenue and Baird street that reduces the roadway to one traffic lane. Action was taken yesterday on a motion from Councilman John S. Herron.

Herron explained that building material for a new structure is piled considerably beyond the curb and on the opposite side of the thoroughfare automobiles are allowed to park all day.

Fete Burgess

W. A. WYMAN

Burgess William A. Wyman, recently elected by Thornburg council, will talk on "Borough Problems" at a luncheon in his honor being arranged by his Pittsburgh friends. W. M. Jacoby and W. T. Mossman are on the committee in charge of the affair. The date will be set at a meeting of the committee early next week.

WOMAN IS HELD TRESPASSER, LOSES SUIT

Judge Harry H. Rowand, of Common Pleas Court, granted the Pennsylvania Railroad a compulsory nonsuit in the case of Mary Bergoch, Verona, against the company for $20,000 damages for a broken leg, on the ground that she was a trespasser on the company's property.

In 1926 the woman was chased by two railroad policemen, who ordered her off the tracks. She ran, climbed on a fence and fell, breaking her leg. When taken to the Columbia Hospital she made a statement to the attendants saying that she had been picking up coal on the company's tracks. This record was produced in the case and was made the basis of the nonsuit.

This is the case in which Mrs. Catherine Hull, 247 Blackstone street, a juror, failed to show up yesterday morning to try the case, the court and jury deciding to go ahead without her. The case never reached the jury.

Receive Donations For Needy Families

Thanksgiving donations for needy families are being received by a committee of women of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, consisting of the chairmen of the different circles of the Ladies' Aid Society. They are Mrs. Minnie M. Hubbard, Mrs. J. M. McCrory, Mrs. C. C. Phillips, Mrs. S. E. Evans, Mrs. S. E. W. Burnside, Mrs. H. H. Wakefield and Mrs. H. A. Bole.

Scalds Fatal to One-Year Old Child

Frances White, 1 year, of 3441 Carson street, died yesterday of pneumonia in St. Joseph's Hospital the result of burns. On November 3, while playing in her home, she put her hands in a bucket of hot water.

Murray Ave. Zone May Be Changed

Council is considering a proposal to change the zoning classification of property at the southeast corner of Murray avenue and Lilac street.

An ordinance introduced would change the site from an "A" residential to a commercial district, from a 35-foot height to a 45-foot height district and from a second area to a third area district.

Dormont Limits Speed Between Safety Zones

As the result of numerous accidents occasioned by the installation of safety zones in Dormont, borough officials have decided to enforce the state law limiting speed between safety zones to 10 miles per hour.

Notices to this effect have been posted at each zone and instructions have been given the police to strictly enforce the order.

"DADS," SONS TO MINGLE IN N. BOROUGHS BANQUETS

"Dads" will mingle with the "boys" at banquets held under auspices of the North Boroughs branch Y. M. C. A. next week in observance of Father and Son Week.

The banquet for Bellevue will be held Monday night in the Y. M. C. A. Building at 6:30 p. m., with the Rev. William L. Wishart, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church, Washington, Pa., as the speaker. S. L. Hosack will sing, accompanied by Graham Petrie. John Culler, Emsworth, will be the boy speaker.

Other banquets scheduled follow:

Emsworth—Tuesday night in Emsworth "Y" department; J. S. Fruit, principal Mt. Washington schools, speaker; music by Raymond W. Harris and John Luker; Graham Petrie, Bellevue, boy speaker.

Avalon—Wednesday night in North Boroughs "Y"; Prof. C. C. Klein, of Fifth Avenue High School, speaker; music by Edwin L. Marsh and John Luker; John Hunter, Ben Avon, boy speaker.

Ben Avon—Thursday night in Ben Avon Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Dr. John B. Magee, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, speaker; music by Walter E. Close and James Swaney; Claude Tejan, Avalon, boy speaker.

Policeman Awarded Damage Verdict

Policeman Sylvester C. Stroehr, 77 Pius street, was awarded a verdict for $5,000 damages in his suit against Clarence Aydelotte for personal injuries. The defendant made no appearance in the case, which was heard before Judge John A. Evans, and prosecuted by Attorney H. Fred Mercer, representing the plaintiff. Stroehr was struck by the defendant's machine while directing traffic at Second avenue and Market street, August 13, 1925, and asked $15,000 damages for internal and other hurts.

South Hills Club Will Hold Bridge

A bridge luncheon will be held by the South Hills Country Club tomorrow afternoon. Covers will be set for 60. Miss Blanche Kirkpatrick will act as hostess.

Dead

J. W. OLIVER

James William Oliver, 56, first vice-president, Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, is dead today at his home, Sewickley Heights.

HIT BY AUTO, CHILD NEAR DEATH

Ellen Mitchell, 4, 3415 Carson street, is in the South Side Hospital in a serious condition suffering from a fracture of the skull, laceration on the left side of the face, which required four stiches to close and, bruises on the left leg and left eye, which she received when struck by an automobile, Wednesday.

According to the South Side Police, Robert Ferris, 30, 3009 Clarmont avenue, driver of the automobile was driving east on Carson street and when at South Thirtieth street, the girl stepped off the sidewalk and ran directly in front of his machine. He took her to the South Side Hospital in his automobile and then reported the accident to the police. On account of her serious condition, Ferris was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

Idlewild St. Man Hurt in Auto Crash

When his motorcycle collided with an automobile in Bennett street yesterday, Frank France, of 7224 Idlewild street, suffered severe injuries to both legs. He is in Pittsburgh Hospital. William V. Daly, of 205 Tokio street, Wilkinsburg, driver of the automobile, was not arrested.

Homestead Man Files Divorce Libel

John Snyder, 444 East Fourth avenue, Homestead, sets forth in a libel in divorce filed in Common Pleas Court that his wife Margaret Lehew Snyder whom he married December 13, 1924, deserted him on January 8, 1925. They lived together less than one month.

DORMONT WOMAN HUNTS THIEF WHO TOOK COAT

A case of misplaced confidence has come to light in Dormont, and as a result a woman is looking for a valuable winter coat and Chief of Police Albert Ruehling is combing the neighborhood for a sneak thief.

The woman appealed to Chief Ruehling yesterday, but thus far he has found no clues to sharper or the coat. This is the way the coat disappeared:

Wishing it renovated for colder weather, the owner called her dry cleaner to come after it. In the meantime she was called from home, but left a note to the cleaner pinned on her front door, saying he would find the garment at the neighbors. Her neighbor friend reports a strange man called, asked for the coat and took it away.

Inquiry at the cleaners divulged they had no knowledge of the garment. The supposition is that some itinerant seeing the note on the door called at the neighbors, got the coat and disappeared.

Versailles Twp. Asks New Road Opening

A new feeder to the East Pittsburgh-McKeesport boulevard was petitioned for in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday by property owners of North Versailles township, who asked for the opening of a new road from the boulevard to the State road at Fite station. W. M. McJunkin, E. E. Phillips and F. S. Haller were appointed by Judge James B. Drew as viewers to pass on the matter.

Hospital Asks Pay For City Service

Mercy Hospital has presented to the city bills totaling $531.50 for service to employes injured while on duty, according to a resolution forwarded to Council. The employes are Patrolmen George Lindner and John Pfeuffer, and Hosemen Edward Worthy and Howard Smith.

McKeesport Woman Files Divorce Libel

Agnes Colbert, 1106 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, married to James Colbert in 1908, has filed a libel in divorce in Common Pleas Court. She charges Colbert with cruel and barbarous treatment.

St. Lawrence Church Ladies Hold Sale

The ladies of St. Lawrence Church will hold a card party and bake sale in the school hall, Penn and Atlantic avenues, tomorrow. Many beautiful prizes have been secured for this event.

Breaks Teeth on Ice Cream, Asks $10,000

As two of his teeth were broken while eating ice cream, the plaintiff having bitten on a piece of tin, suit has been brought against the makers of the cream, the Meyer Powers Co., by Thomas F. Lloyd for $10,000 damages.

Lloyd says that August 8 last he bought a pint of ice cream in a Frankstown avenue drug store, which cream, he alleges, was made by the defendant company. The tin was covered with a fabric when he bit into the cream and tin. Now he says that every time he sees ice cream he suffers nausea. He also avers through his counsel, George S. Goldstein, that as a result of his injuries his nervous system has been shocked.

GEORGE MURREN

For 23 years, through many administrations and department shakeups, George Murren has been a familiar figure in the county detectives' office. Today he is chief of his department, having succeeded Robert H. Braun when the latter was elected sheriff.

MAN IS HURLED FROM AUTO; 3 HELD

Manuel Mejais, 31, Ridge avenue, Philadelphia; Augusta Perry, 35, and Roberto Sanches, 22, same address, are being held in the Wilkinsburg Police Station on suspicious person charges.

The men are all Mexicans. They were arrested by Louis Moore, of the State Highway Patrol, on complaint of Rafino Gaudenias, 25, of Philadelphia, who complained to the Greensburg police that he had been thrown from a machine by the three men. The men held were taken from an automobile bearing a Connecticut license on Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, after the highway patrolman had followed them from Greensburg.

According to the police Guadenias was one of a party which left Philadelphia for San Francisco in a machine. After eating lunch at Greensburg he is alleged to have told police there that a man was murdered and would be found in the car. Greensburg police held the man and notified the State Highway Patrol and Officer Moore was sent after the car. When arrested the men admitted that Gaudenias had been a member of the automobile party that was an its way west.

According to their story Guardenias refused to continue the journey further and left.

Cadet Major Is Named at Tech

Robert R. Lockwood, of Oswego, N. Y., a senior in the department of electrical engineering, has been appointed cadet major of the R. O. T. C. at the Carnegie Institute of Technology. Maj. J. G. Taylor, head of the military department, announced today. The office is the highest in the battalion.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 16.

Everybody has been wondering what Mr. Coolidge will do after March. Well one thing certain—after issuing that Armistice Day speech, he had no idea of being made ambassador to England or France.

I see they have promised this Rothstein murderer now if he will come in and give up they will give him a medal and his gun back.

I think if he holds out they will do by him the same as the other prominent guests, they will give him the keys of the city.

Why does every peace envoy always go on a battleship? No wonder Lindbergh's trip was so well received.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

STOLEN LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow, who immediately becomes interested in her. Bill comes home and discovers Joan is close at hand. He visits her and offers to marry her. Later he disappears after having an argument with his employer. Joan becomes engaged to Curtis. Joan constantly thinks of Bill and plans to break her engagement, but changes her mind. Curtis' mother arranges a dinner in honor of Joan and invites her Aunt Evvie, who disgraces her with her manners. Joan sets the date for her wedding and as the time goes on Curtis becomes bored with the many dinners and parties and asks her to elope with him, but she refuses. Joan tells Curtis about her old love affair with Bill and wants to break their engagement. Curtis leaves town to try to forget her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

AND besides—there was Blanche, who had housekeeping rooms in an old house way out on Fifth street.

"Sure!" she said when he telephoned, "Bring the chicken, and I'll get busy on it. I got six bottles of good beer Ferd brought in on the last trip. . . . No, he ain't in port now, not until the 22nd. Gee, I'm glad you're in town. I was kinda lonesome, Gloria has been talkin' about you, too. Only this morning she said to me, 'Mamma, why don't Uncle Curt come no more?'—the poor kid, she likes you!"

So Curtis came.

Blanche put both arms around him and kissed him soundly. "I am glad to see you—what's the matter with your old him that they don't send you up here any more? You're a stranger—and go, Curt—I have missed you—"

That was the nicest thing about Blanche, her warm sincerity. She was a big girl, with cheeks like apples, and a wide, welcoming smile. There was something fresh and wholesome about her. You'd never take her for what she was. Not that Blanche thought of herself as anything but a good wife and mother.

Curtis stayed two days. He bought a blue broadcloth coat with a diminutive squirrel collar for Gloria. The blue just matched her eyes. He felt almost happy for a moment when she put her thin little arms tight around his neck and squeezed him—"Dear Uncle Curt!"

"You shouldn't have!" Blanche scolded affectionately. "Still it does look sweet on her. Turn around, Lovey, and let Mamma see the back. Ain't you the proud baby? Curt, if I've told you once, I've told you 20 times, I'm no gold-digger, you don't have to go and spend all your money . . . I declare I never saw a fellow as crazy about kids as you are. You ought to get married and have about six yourself!"

The hot tears stung his eyes. Blanche understood him. Blanche appreciated him. She knew all he would do for the girl he married, how generous he would be, how kind . . . All he would have done for Joan . . . if she hadn't spoiled it . . . wrecked his life . . .

He couldn't be happy with her now, she had made that impossible, but neither could he be happy without her. Might as well go back and see her again, talk to her . . .

So he came back.

He came to Maisie's flat in the evening, after the dishes were done.

When Maisie saw him at the door she snatched her old coat off the hook on the back porch and hurried down the back stairs to Mis' Harvey's. They didn't even know she had gone.

"Curtis!" Joan whispered. "You've—come back!"

"Yes," he said huskily. "I've come back. I couldn't stay away. I love you, Joan—I love you—"

He held her close, so close that he could feel her heart beating against his. She was so pathetically glad to see him. She put out her slim, cool hand and touched his cheek. "I missed you terribly," she said. "I'm so glad you've come back."

For a moment he thought guiltily of Blanche. Funny that they should say almost the same thing . . .

"Have you—decided?" she asked, very low.

No pleading in her voice, no humility — just the question — "Have you decided?"

"Why couldn't you let me have one moment of happiness," he burst out suddenly, "without reminding me—reminding me—"

She hung her head. "I'm sorry, Curtis. It's all I've thought of. It's very hard—waiting—"

She reached out her arms to him again, but the first moment of ecstasy was gone, gone as if it had never been. She only knew that her head was aching, and in some inexplicable way she had failed him again.

"Did you have a nice trip?" she asked at last—politely, as she would a stranger.

"Oh—fair."

"Your mother has been worried," she went on hurriedly. "She'll be glad you're back—"

"Joan—for heaven's sake, don't make conversation. You'll drive me crazy. I'm nearly crazy now. I've thought and thought until I don't know where I am, or what to tell you. You don't know what you've done to me—how this thing affects me—would affect any man—. Sometimes I think I judged you too harshly—that you aren't to blame at all—Joan, tell me you aren't—tell me it was all a nightmare that never happened—"

He half choked and went on. "You see how it is—I'm hardly responsible . . .—Johnnie, you'll have to tell me the whole story—tell me the whole thing—who this—this fellow was—"

"No, no—I couldn't—you mustn't ask that—I couldn't—"

"You owe it to me. What did you tell me? Nothing. Don't you realize the position in which you have put me? I don't know what to think. I know it wasn't your fault—I know—"

She held up her hand to stop him. "I won't lie, Curtis. It was my fault as much as his. I—I loved him—"

He began to walk up and down again, as he had on that other night, in the apartment that was to have been their home. Up and down, up and down, restlessly, ceaselessly.

And she sat with her hands folded in her lap, waiting. Like a prisoner in the dock.

"For the last time, Joan—will you tell me who it was?"

"No, Curtis. It wouldn't be fair. If I tell my part, and pay the price—that I have to pay—that's all right. But I mustn't drag him in, too—don't you see—that I couldn't do that?"

"You're being very gallant," he said bitterly. "I wonder if he has been equally so. Men talk of light women . . . light women! And I'm talking about you—Oh, Joan—don't you see what you've done—how unfair it is to me? I might meet him—shake his hand—invite him to our home—"

She covered her face with her hands then. She couldn't face him. To think of him knowing Bill, as he might some day. He knew Rollo Keyes, it wasn't impossible. . . .

"Will you tell me?"

"No, Curtis—no—"

But her bent neck, her quivering shoulders softened him. There came a sudden rush of tenderness, a desire to protect her, to stand between her and the world. His arms tightened about her, and she clung to him and cried.

"We'll just let it go on then," he said soothingly. "See how it works out. Try to forget it—"

"To forget it!" she echoed. "To forget we have to decide? We can't—we've got to know—"

"We have two months yet. Plenty of time. We'll see . . . I'll find a way . . . there must be a way—"

"You mean," she said finally, "that you aren't going to tell me now? That you won't tell me whether you still love me and want to marry me or not? You want me to go on this way—not knowing—surely you don't mean that—"

"I mean that I'm not prepared to make any definite decision this evening, Joan. It won't be any worse to break in a month from now, if break we must, than to do it now—"

She bit her lip. "I—I can't go on that way, Curtis. I want to do what you want—but—I can't do that—"

CHAPTER XXIX.

"I CANNOT give you up, Joan."

All the blood drained from her face, until even her lips were white. "You mean — that you—still want me, Curtis? That you can—go on with it?"

"Yes—that's what I mean."

She cried then, silently, in his arms.

When at last he left her she called him back. "Curtis!"

"Yes, Joan?"

"Curtis—I want you to know—that I'll try to make it up to you—try to make you glad—"

"Dear, I know, I know—" But Maisie was coming . . . he blew her a kiss, and disappeared down the dimly lighted stairway.

"Wasn't that Curtis I just met going down?" Maisie puffed, out of breath from her climb. And starry with happiness—

For the first night in weeks she slept, dreamlessly, soundly, like a child. In the morning Maisie sang, as she beat up the eggs for omelette. She could hear Joan whistling, as she splashed in her bath.

"Well, thank goodness — that's blown over . . . Joan-nee! You hurry up, you're gonna be late again!"

But Curtis had no song in his heart. Nothing but worry and fear. All night he had tossed and turned and moaned in anguish. Hating himself for a coward. Hating Joan for making him a coward. Hating the world, and whoever he was, who had brought all this upon him.

"I can't marry her now," he thought, despondently. "I can't make her my wife—I'd go mad thinking about it. . . . And I can't give her up—I tried that—I can't do it—Oh, my God, what can I do?"

He went to work haggard and worn, resolving to take the day, and tomorrow if need be, to think, to think of a way out . . .

Joan was so sorry he was ill. So loving and sweet and sympathetic, so pathetically anxious to please. Even Mrs. Barstow noticed it. Joan's softened, chastened mood. "She's going to be all right after all," she thought. "Of course, they did quarrel—and she's trying to make up to him! . . . Well—thank goodness, he didn't get one of those aggressive modern flappers . . . after all, he might have done worse!"

And to Joan she said, "Remind me to go over the list with you, Joan—the invitations will be ready in a few days."

"What invitations?" Curtis asked quickly.

"The wedding invitations, dear. Now don't frown—I know you dislike hearing of the details, but these things are all necessary—"

"I wish to goodness I'd never let you start it. I hate a circus wedding!"

"I dare say you do," his mother returned, quite undisturbed by the outburst, "it is a masculine failing. However, you'll have to endure it . . ."

"Suppose I never do get courage to tell her, and end by walking up the aisle after all?" he thought in a panic. The cold perspiration stood out on his forehead . . . Married to Joan . . . married to this girl who had belonged to someone else.

He thought of Blanche. Blanche and the stocky, blue-coated man who was her husband.

"Barstow?" the seafaring man had said, gripping his hand. "Why, you must be the lawyer that fixed up that little estate my wife had from her mother. Well, well! She told me little Gloria took a real fancy to you. Say, you must come out and have dinner with us some night. The wife is a great little cook!"

Poor, stupid sailor, not knowing . . . not guessing . . .

And if he married Joan he might one day do that thing. Take a stranger's hand and say, "Come out to the house some time—I want you to meet my wife!" He giving the invitation proudly, and the stranger thinking . . . what he had thought when the seafaring man in Seattle talked to him . . .

Don't Broadcast COLDS

Protect others! Protect yourself! At the first sign of a cold take HILL'S CASCARA-QUININE tablets. They stop a cold because they do the four necessary things in one:

1. Break up the Cold
2. Check the Fever
3. Open the Bowels
4. Tone the System

That's the quick and complete action you need, and only HILL'S supplies it.

Just Wash the Dirt Away!

Off comes the grease and grime! There's no need to rub and scrub when Old Witch does the work

DON'T WASTE time rubbing and scrubbing when you can wash away the dirt—without a single bit of hard work.

You just pour a little Old Witch in a basin . . . add water and soap . . . when there's any cleaning job to do.

It softens water. Saponifies grease. Instantly removes every clinging particle of dirt and grime. Actually turns grease into soap.

It's goodbye dirt when Old Witch washes walls, stoves, bathtubs, mirrors, windows and woodwork. There's no other cleanser like it sold in grocery stores today.

And best of all, it keeps hands dainty and soft . . . never coarse, rough or the least bit red-looking. It's the only type of cleanser yet discovered that is actually kind to housework hands.

But please don't make the mistake of thinking Old Witch is only good for general cleaning. It's a big help on washday. Gets clothes snowy white . . . the easy scrubless way.

But one word of caution before you buy. Remember all cleansers are not alike. You'll discover that when you try Old Witch.

Be sure to get the genuine . . . remember Old Witch is what you ask for. Tell your grocer nothing else will do. A large-sized bottle costs 35c, so you see it's not expensive.

AMMONIATED CLEANING FLUID

AH!

Epsom Salts Now Like Lemonade!

All the splendid physic action of a dose of epsom salts without the awful taste and nausea. "Esponade Salts" is real epsom salts combined with fruit derivatives, giving it the taste of sparkling lemonade. Try it when bilious, headachy or constipated. Generous bottle costs but little at any drug store. Don't merely ask for "tasteless epsom salts" or you may get a soda imitation. Always ask for "Esponade Salts" and look for the name, American Epsom Association.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

VANDERBILT OWN PILOT ON SCIENTIFIC WORLD CRUISE

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—W. K. Vanderbilt, New York millionaire, today came to the beginning of one of the greatest adventures of his life—his first trip around the world. He sails as captain, pilot and navigator of his palatial yacht, Ara, in search of rare and unknown specimens of marine life.

With him are several enthusiasts in the work, including Mrs. Vanderbilt. The Vanderbilts and members of their party arrived at 2 a. m. aboard the Vanderbilt private car from New York and immediately set off for their estate on Fisher's Island, where the Ara awaited them.

Aboard the vessel were steel cables for fishing at a depth of two miles, dynamite to use against elusive specimens at greater depth, and what is regarded as a complete line of other fishing tackle. Nets of various kinds for use in shallow water as far down as one mile were aboard, while thousands of feet of whale line also was taken along, although little whale fishing is expected.

The Ara sails for Panama Canal on the first leg of a trip that Mr. Vanderbilt has planned for many years. Thence her course will be set by the skipper, who will be sole occupant of the chart room, for the Pacific Islands and the Orient. He had given specific orders that if for any reason the course should be altered, he must be called night or day before such a change is made, pending arguments on an appeal.

CORPORATIONS DISSOLVED

Judge Thomas J. Ford, of Common Pleas Court, signed decrees dissolving the River Transport Company and the Mon-Yough Coal Co. The decree of the former is to go into effect with the filing of a certified copy of the company's charter.

Butcher Boy Killer Is Given Life Lease

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(INS.)—Leo Pat Kelly, "butcher boy" slayer of Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, his society mutton sweetheart, will not hang on November 23, it was announced today. The State Supreme Court has vacated the order for Kelly's execution on that date pending arguments on an appeal.

Menu for Sunday's Dinner

By PRUDENCE PENNY

Onion Soup
Roast Loin of Pork
With Baked Potatoes
Cauliflower Baked With Cheese
Apple Sauce
Deep Apple Pie
Coffee

I DON'T know exactly what it is about onion soup, but it has a very decided, not unpleasant appeal!

So we'll have onion soup to start off our Sunday dinner, and here's the way to go about making it:

Fry three large onions, sliced very thin, in a large tablespoon of butter, until a golden brown. Then add a half cup of flour and stir until browned. Add boiling water gradually, stirring until the mixture is perfectly smooth; then add salt and pepper to taste. Stir well and boil for one minute.

Before serving, add a quart of milk which has been warmed, and rubbed with mashed potatoes (two large potatoes smashed fine will be enough) until a smooth paste. Allow to simmer a few minutes. Have a few pieces of toast, diced, in the soup tureen, and pour in the hot soup. That will be good soup, too!

THIS is exactly the weather for Roast Pork! Remember, too, that the potatoes may be roasted along with the meat, for potatoes roasted with pork have a most delicious flavor. Wipe the pork, sprinkle with salt and pepper, place on a rack in a dripping pan and dredge meat and bottom of pan with flour. Bake in a moderate oven three to four hours, basting every 15 minutes with the fat in the pan.

IF the family taste runs to Parmesan Cheese, this is the time that the cauliflower. And if American cheese is the popular culinary substitute that, put a cream of cauliflower into a baking dish. Then sprinkle it with a mild grated American cheese, and put it back into the oven to brown, or put the well-cooked cauliflower on a dish for serving, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese, then cover with buttered crumbs, and put in the oven to brown. Served either way, you will find the cauliflower delicious.

With the markets flooding the country with apples, it would be a shame not to serve this fruit plentifully. So we'll finish our dinner with a deep apple pie, and send the family forth satisfied and grateful!

SPANISH OMELET—Two tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 tablespoon flour, 1½ cups strained tomatoes, ½ teaspoon [illegible] tablespoons chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped sliced ripe olives, ½ teaspoon chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 4 eggs, 4 tablespoons milk. Melt butter, stir in flour, add tomatoes, and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add vegetables, seasonings and sugar, and cook 5 minutes. Separate yolks and whites of eggs. Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored, add milk, and pour slowly into tomato mixture, stirring constantly. Beat whites of eggs until stiff but not dry, fold into tomato mixture, and pour into a well-buttered baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes, or until firm. Serve at once.

HERE'S a suggestion for [illegible]

Creamed Crabmeat in Bread Cases
Parsley Potatoes Pickles
Tomato Jelly Salad Hot Rolls
Toasted Cocoanut Balls

CREAMED CRABMEAT IN BREAD CASES—For [illegible] loaf of Boston [illegible] cut slices [illegible] around the inside of each slice [illegible] if you prefer, sauté a few [illegible] onion in the butter before adding the cream sauce), and [illegible] Into each [illegible] Blend one tablespoon flour with 1½ tablespoons butter, add 1 cup of milk. Worcestershire sauce, and add one cup of crabmeat seasoned with salt and pepper.

With a cookie cutter cut rounds of stale bread, and with a smaller cutter remove the centers of every other slice. Dip half and brown in a slow oven. Put the whole slice and the hollowed-out slice together to form a pattie, and fill with creamed crabmeat.

TOMATO JELLY SALAD—One package lemon flavored gelatin, 2 cups strained tomato juice, ½ cup water, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon paprika.

Heat tomato juice to boiling, and pour on gelatin. Stir until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved, add vinegar and seasonings. Pour into moulds. Serve with salad dressing on lettuce leaves.

TOASTED COCOANUT BALL—Half cup shortening, one and a half cups sugar, two and a half cups flour, half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, one cup water, 4 egg whites, one tablespoon lemon juice.

Cream shortening — Add sugar gradually, sift flour, salt and baking powder and stir in alternately with water. Add stiffly beaten egg whites and lemon. Bake in small muffin pans in moderate oven (350° F.). When cool cover with icing, holding cake on toothpick in shower until iced. Roll in cocoanut. Place on flat pan under flame of broiler until toasted a delicate

CANDY RECIPES

LET the children make these delicious candies.

PLAIN FONDANT—Two cups granulated sugar, 1¼ cups water, 2 tablespoons white corn syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Put sugar, water and corn syrup into saucepan and boil to 238 degrees, or until a little dropped into cold water forms a soft ball. Remove from fire and cool to lukewarm. Work down the crystals that may form on sides of pan with a fork. Pour out on platter and work with spoon until fondant becomes white and creamy. Add vanilla, and work with the hands until no lumps remain. Put into a bowl or glass jar and cover with waxed paper to exclude air. Fondant should stand a day or two before using.

MAPLE FONDANT—Two cups sugar, two-thirds cup maple syrup, three-fourths cup water, one teaspoon vanilla.

Put sugar, syrup and water into saucepan and cook, following directions given under plain fondant. Cook mixture to 240 degrees Fahrenheit.

FONDANT FOR MINTS—Melt plain fondant over hot water, adding about one cup at a time.

Like our famous milk chocolate bar...

the milk's already in it!

AS you open a tin of Peter's Milk Cocoa, notice the lovely appetizing color—the light, fluffy texture. You can fairly see the milk in it!

Taste it—just as it comes from the tin. How creamy it is! As smooth and mellow as our famous milk chocolate bar.

Because it is made like our milk chocolate. Choicest cocoa is pulverized to a velvety smoothness. Then blended with fine table sugar and rich, full-cream milk by the same secret process Daniel Peter used to make the original milk chocolate.

Only the purest, freshest, full-cream milk is used in Peter's. Rigid inspection and scrupulous care safeguard its purity and freshness until—within twenty-four hours after milking time—this high-grade milk is blended into Peter's Milk Cocoa.

So finely, so smoothly blended is Peter's, that no cooking is needed. You just add hot water—to replace the moisture that is removed from the milk.

That's why you get in Peter's such a fine, rich chocolate flavor. No "cooked taste" of boiled or heated milk—no scorching—no scum.

So easy! Made instantly right in the cup. No bothersome cooking—no pans to wash up.

WITH ORDINARY COCOA YOU MUST BUY 3 THINGS

WITH PETER'S YOU NEED ONLY HOT WATER

Fresh, full-cream milk and fine table sugar are already in it. Made right in the cup.

The site selected for the preparation of Peter's Milk Cocoa is in the heart of a famous dairy region. This insures an unfailing supply of the purest, freshest full-cream milk. The purity and freshness of the milk are safeguarded by the most scrupulous care.

Menu for Sunday's Dinner

By PRUDENCE PENNY

It is convenient to use a double boiler in melting fondant. Keep the water in the double boiler just below the boiling point. Stir the melting fondant as little as possible, only enough to blend it. Stirring makes the fondant grainy.

When fodant is melted add desired coloring and flavoring. Use flavoring oils rather than extracts, as they are more concentrated and smaller amounts will give the right flavor. In this way the consistency of the fondant is not changed. Be careful not to get the colorings intense—light green is associated with peppermint flavor, pink with wintergreen, etc. When the fondant is flavored and colored drop it from the tip of a teaspoon on waxed paper. An attractive variation of plain mints may be made by putting melted sweet chocolate between two mints.

COCOANUT FONDANT ROLLS—Candied cherries, shredded cocoanut and blanched almonds chopped may be worked into plain fondant—shaped into rolls and cut in one-fourth-inch slices. Avoid working the mixture more than enough to combine the ingredients or the fondant will be discolored.

BRAZIL NUT SLICES—Two squares unsweetened chocolate, two tablespoons butter, two cups sugar, one cup maple syrup, one-half cup rich milk, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup Brazil nuts (toasted), few grains salt.

Melt chocolate and butter in saucepan over hot water, add sugar slowly, mixing thoroughly, and stir in maple syrup and milk. Stir constantly until boiling point is reached and sugar dissolved. Cook to 234 degrees Fahrenheit or soft boil. Pour out on large platter, let stand until cool. Add salt and vanilla, and beat until candy begins to get firm. Knead in nuts cut in large pieces. Shape into rolls and cut in diagonal slices. Keep moist by wrapping in waxed paper.

COCOANUT PINE CONES—One cup medium brown sugar, one cup granulated sugar, three-fourths cup water, one cup dark corn syrup, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, four and one-half cups shredded cocoanut.

Chop cocoanut, and toast in a shallow pan in a slow oven until a delicate brown. Put all the ingredients, except the cocoanut into a saucepan and cook, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cook until a little of the mixture forms a firm ball in ice cold water (245 degrees Fahrenheit). Remove from fire and add cocoanut. Mix thoroughly. Drop from a teaspoon on waxed paper or marble slab and shape into slender pine cones by hand. Work quickly, as this mixture soon hardens.

ORANGE SHORTCAKE—Two cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons shortening, ½ to ¾ cup milk.

Sift the dry materials until well blended. Rub in the shortening, using a fork. Cut in just enough milk to make a soft dough. Put in greased cake pan, press with back of hand to shape of pan and bake 12 to 15 minutes in hot oven.

LEMONADE—One cup sugar, 1-3 cup lemon juice, maraschino cherries, 1 pint water.

Boil sugar and water for 12 minutes. Cool and add lemon juice. This may be bottled and kept on hand to use as needed.

To serve, place ice in glasses and add one or two maraschino cherries. Pour over some of the lemon syrup and add water to suit individual taste. Garnish with a slice of lemon.

ICED COFFEE DE LUXE—Two cups strong, freshly made coffee, whipped cream, 2 cups milk, powdered cinnamon, sugar.

Mix coffee and milk, sweeten to taste, and place in pitcher in refrigerator to chill. Place ice in each tall glass, pour over them the coffee mixture, top with sweetened whipped cream and dust with cinnamon.

SPICE CUP—Two and a half cups orange juice, 1 cup pineapple juice, 2 cups water, ½ cup sugar, grated rind of 1 lemon, ice cubes with mint cherries, 1 tablespoon strained honey, 6 whole cloves, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon allspice, 3 pints ginger ale.

Combine orange juice, pineapple juice, water and sugar. Add grated rind of lemon, honey, cloves, nutmeg, cinnamon and allspice. Mix and let stand for three hours. Strain through cheese cloth and add ginger ale. Stir briskly and serve in glasses containing ice.

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

YOU haven't arrived in society these days unless you have been blacklisted by the D. A. R.

The debutantes of Colonial days have now slapped the official blister of coventry on William Allen White, Senator Borah, Dr. Starr Jordan, Jane Addams and the Siamese twins.

"We are with you to the last man."

Signed, the Daughters of the American Revolution.

We have been waiting for our invitation to the blacklist, the membership of which is increasing rapidly.

We don't know how many daughters there are. But everybody seems to be a step-son to them.

The trouble with the daughters is that they also want to act like papas.

There is nothing secret about the scraps in the D. A. R. when two of the girls infuriated with behaviorism they start right in talking on the dotted line.

And, although the sufferings of the Colonial army amid the snow and ice of Valley Forge have long since been over, the daughters still keep on throwing snowballs.

The arguments in the D. A. R. are mostly about armies, hats, navies and so's your old man.

All of which shows a charming touch of feminity.

They have been fighting now for the past 10 years. Seems that their charter calls for quarrels to preserve harmony in the organization.

We don't know the age of these colonial squabs. But their fathers fought in the revolution. That was 150 years ago.

MRS. SHERRILL, MRS. JACOBY, MRS. HAMMOND

Mrs. Alvan W. Sherrill, Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby and Mrs. J. Sydney Hammond were in the cast for Essex Dane's "Wrong Numbers," which the drama committee of the Twentieth Century Club presented yesterday afternoon in the club house. Mrs. H. Allen Machesney is chairman of the committee and Miss Eleanor Grier, vice chairman.

Sheraden Women Honor President

THE Sheraden Woman's Club had a busy time of it today. This morning some of the faithful turned out for the awarding of prizes in the poster contest which the club had conducted in the schools. The posters had been made to advertise the club's play, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which was given recently at a benefit for the scholarship fund. This afternoon there was a large attendance of members and guests at the president's day reception in the home of Mrs. R. T. Lewis, Sherwood avenue, honoring Mrs. Bruce Cobaugh. Mrs. Carl M. McKee, leading the program, introduced Mrs. William E. Strickler, soprano, who was accompanied by Mrs. T. F. Fitzer, and Mrs. J. Charles Wilson, Pittsburgh's well known club woman, who gave readings with her customary charm and artistry.

MRS. ROBERT F. METCALFE, of Howe street, president of the Pittsburgh chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, left yesterday for the national convention, which is being held in Houston, Tex., November 17-25. The national society, now numbering 125,000 members, is one of the largest women's club in the country and has a chapter in Paris, France. The chief objective of the organization is the maintenance of the Randolph Memorial Home at Richmond, Va., where the widows and orphans of the Confederacy are sheltered. Mrs. Heber Ker, Jr., of the Pittsburgh chapter, served as convention chairman of transportation for Pennsylvania.

3-Minute Dessert

. . . that hungry husbands always like and finicky children thrive on

HAVE YOU HEARD the news? About this delicious new gelatin dessert that any woman can make in 3 minutes?

It's simply amazing. No trouble at all. You just stir in hot water . . . and let your ice box do the work.

Here's gelatin with body. With that real fruit aroma. Nothing flat or tasteless about it.

It's much more delicious than any you've ever used before.

You can actually detect the difference the minute you try Royal. The piquant flavor of strawberry . . . the sharp tang of lemon . . . the succulent orange. There it is . . . fresh . . . sun-ripened . . . the real flavor of real fruit . . . to add zest to your meal and health to your menu.

Remember doctors recommend gelatin because it's so rich in protein . . . the energy-giving, muscle-building nourishment needed in daily diet.

So be generous with Royal Fruit Flavored Gelatin. Let your children have all they want. Serve it frequently . . . at least once a week.

You can place the utmost confidence in Royal. As you know, it's made by the same people who make Royal Baking Powder . . . a pure cream of tartar product that's been on your pantry shelf for years.

Get Royal Gelatin in the beautiful red package at your grocer's. It comes in five delicious fruit flavors. Tell your grocer nothing else will do.

Barbara Book Selects November 26 as Her Wedding Date

MOST folks like company, we all know. You know the old saying that misery likes company? Well, everyone knows from his own experience that joy is fond of company, too, judging from the social calendar I'm tempted to think social events have the gregarious instinct, too. Of course any matter-of-fact person will at once point out scathingly that social functions are arranged by people, and would naturally reflect the social nature of the human race.

Be that as it may, events of the same nature, such as debutante parties, seem to have a magnetic attraction for each other. If one debutante party is announced, before many hours a number more are being planned for the same week. And when a January wedding date is announced, you may be sure there'll be more.

Just a few days ago we announced several important wedding dates for January, and since then nearly every day I've told you about another of equal interest.

AND today I'm going to tell you about a wedding date not for January, but the very end of this month. And I daresay there'll be more weddings in early December.

Last month, don't you remember, the Robert Donnell Books announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Dr. Burleigh Cruikshank, of Boston, Mass.?

Barbara has now named her wedding date—Monday, November 26. The ceremony will be simple, I understand, the hour set being for 6:30 o'clock, taking place in the Book home. The Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell, of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Sewickley, will be the officiant. Only the immediate families and a few friends will attend the wedding, which will be followed by a supper and a small reception. The Cruikshanks will reside in Philadelphia, I believe.

Barbara has asked Mrs. Walter Brooke Stabler, who was Marjorie Harbison before her marriage July 2 to be her matron of honor. Her only other attendant will be her small cousin, Peggy Berger, as flower girl.

Of course Barbara came out here and is a member of the Junior League. She finished school at Dana Hall and her fiance is a Washington and Jefferson man.

ANOTHER bud of this season is making her bow today—Elisabeth Reed Orr, daughter of the A. Hamilton Orrs, of Stanton avenue. Her mother is giving a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club, a buffete affair, with the richly colored flowers of late fall decorating the table.

The debutante is wearing a simple gown of jade green chiffon, and carrying a bouquet of variegated flowers. Her mother is gowned in deep amber velvet with a hat of the same material.

A VERY small wedding of yesterday afternoon was that of Alice Walton Scully, daughter of Mrs. James W. Scully, of Western avenue, North Side, and Allen T. C. Gordon, of Pittsburgh. The ceremony was performed in the family home by the Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, and only the two families and a few friends were present.

The bridal gown was of white mousseline and rose point lace over ivory satin, made with long tight sleeves of the lace and a full court train of ivory satin. Her veil was of rose point lace made in cap effect with orange blossoms, and she carried calla lilies.

Mrs. Felix B. Snowdon was the matron of honor, and her frock was of beige chiffon. She wore a brown velvet hat and carried yellow tea roses. Erskine Gordon was his brother's best man.

After the ceremony there was a reception and dinner. Covers were laid for 30 at the bridal table, which was decorated with autumn flowers. Mrs. Scully wore fuchia crepe Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will make their home in this city when they return from their wedding trip.

MANY a society woman was seen yesterday at the large luncheon Mrs. Albert Pancoast, of Jackson street, gave in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. Luncheon was served at small tables placed in the club dining room, each decorated with an arrangement of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. Receiving with Mrs. Pancoast was her mother, Mrs. Henry Clay Bughman, Sr., of the Kenmawr Hotel. The hostess wore a gown of blue chiffon with a velvet hat to match, while Mrs. Bughman was gowned in gray georgette with a black velvet hat. There were 100 guests, I understand.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. JOHN B. CULLEN, of Melwood street, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Jane Cullen, and Leonard C. Flowers, son of John N. Flowers, of Irwin, which was solemnized Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock by the Rev. R. B. Johnson. YOU don't buy a new talking-machine or a new radio every week. While you're about it, you may as well get the most for your money—the most in entertainment and the most in quality and reputation. The questions to ask yourself are:

1. Who made the talking-machine and who is back of it?
2. Who made the radio and who is back of it?

The very words "Victrola" and "Radiola" tell you that these instruments are made by long-established, responsible concerns; manufacturers with every facility for furnishing the best; manufacturers who keep step with the newest and best in the science of sound-reproduction.

Happily, it costs no more to get the genuine. Just keep this in mind when tempted by so-called bargains; by claims that often go beyond the bounds of common sense. The instruments illustrated herewith are but a few in the great Victor line. See them—first.

THE Woman's Defense League burned its books, disposed of its property and disbanded formally at a luncheon meeting held in the Garden Tea Room yesterday. The league was formed during the war by Lillian Russell Moore for rifle practice and for welfare work among the families of disabled soldiers. The organization was most active during the war, taking part in all drives, preparing for service and raising funds. Range shooting, however, has been its only activity for the last few years. Mrs. Edmund Englert, who has been president for the last four years, was presented with a leather bag. The League's sinking fund has been given to the University of Pittsburgh as a memorial emergency loan fund. The knitting machines will be given to an old ladies' home and the flag to one of the city's philanthropic institutions.

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Perfect Woman

VERILY, verily, my Daughter, in her secret heart every woman chanteth this song:

Lo, by many men have I been found charming, and by a few men have I been loved.

But unto ONE man only am I the Perfect Woman.

Behold, I am the incarnation of his masculine Ideal, the dazzling vision of his dreams, the sweet, domestic Madonna of his reveries.

HELEN ROWLAND

I am the inspiration who spurreth him to greater heights of achievement—the gentle sedative that sootheth his spirit and refresheth him in his weariness.

I am that impossible combination of all the virtues of a saint and all the fascinations of a siren, which every man seeketh all the days of his life.

I am the Flawless Being who never treadeth upon his prejudices and never getteth upon his nerves—the dainty "doll" who delighteth his eyes and whom he hath never beheld in kimono and cold-cream.

I am the woman whose voice is always of silver, whose ways are always charming, whose words are always full of wisdom—the woman who never chideth, who never naggeth, who never criticizeth, who never maketh a mistake.

I am the Queen-who-can-do-no-wrong!

I am the woman at whom he never findeth cause to LAUGH, and all of whose little follies and weaknesses are "cute" in his eyes.

I am the bright Star that danceth before his vision when other women weary him, the Perfect Companion for whom he sigheth when other women bore him, the stimulant beside whom all others are as veronal.

Yes, I am the Paragon, beside whom all other women are but "seconds" and "also rans."

* * *

I am the soul-mate unto whom he longeth to bare his heart and confide all his secrets—the "little pal" who always "understands."

* * *

I am the woman who will never grow old, whose charms will never fade, whose kisses will never grow stale, whose novelty will never wear off, whose variety will never become monotony.

I am the woman of whom he will never grow TIRED!

I am the fragrance of all flowers, the ghost of all dead springs, the spirit of all poems, the vision of all his dear desires.

Yea, verily, I am the woman he "just missed!"

The woman he "ALMOST kissed."

The woman he "nearly married."

Lo, I am his MIGHT-HAVE-BEEN!

Horoscope

Saturday, November 17

THE lunar aspects for this day point to a rather routine state of affairs with things moving satisfactorily in accustomed grooves. Those in the employment of others may have some advancement or recognition, and labor and industry generally may make progress in a quiet way. But new projects may be best deferred until a more constructive planetary government.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a fairly routine year, with things progressing slowly and surely, that is in employment and in industry, but new ventures had best be postponed until a more auspicious reign.

A child born on this day may be steady, industrious and faithful and may look for its best rewards for this diligence and patience in the employment of others rather than on its own account.

This universal geometry tells us of an Universal Geometrician whose divine compass measures all things.—Fabre.

Footprints -:- By Madge Geyer

LITTLE Miss Robinson Crusoe, marooned on the Isle of Love is scared to death. She and Dan Cupid have been some time there in solitude, enjoying every second of the time, and now—look what's happened! Of course, Dan runs to her to show her the tell-tale footprint in the sand—just as though he didn't expect it. For he has and has planned almost to the second just when it would be discovered.

Now she knows that never again will she occupy her island all to her ownself. What's worrying her, though, is what HE will be like! Will it be the man of her dreams? When will he show himself to her? Oh, a thousand things dash through her brain in a second, but—well, footprints! But the sands guard their secret and it will be only when Dan so wills it that the mystery will be cleared up.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Consoles Marion in Her Fears

SO STRONG is my love for Lillian that until the moment of Marion's sobbing outburst, I had seen but one angle, and that hers, of the three-sided problem which the return of her husband to his place in life had presented for solution. My urgent advice to Harry Underwood to remain in Lillian's life and try to conquer Marion's aversion to him had been based upon my belief that Lillian needed her husband's love and care, and that Marion's jealousy, unspoken though it was, should not be permitted to spoil her mother's peace of mind.

I still held to that opinion, but for the first time, with a great rush of pitying tenderness, I visioned the desolation which was in the heart of the child before me.

It was Lillian's own fault, I told myself hotly. Ever since Tom Morton's death had restored his little daughter and hers to her care, she had spent herself without mercy in the endeavor to give her child all the happiness possible. She had succeeded only too well. Marion's physical condition, her athletic prowess and her mental equipment were tributes to her mother's wisdom and her efficiency in selecting the best teachers for her.

But emotionally Marion was wrapped in cotton wool. Her mother's love and companionship had been all-sufficient for her. She had no companions of her own age, and the last year, when she had been sent away to school for the first time, had marked an experiment, the success of which had hung in the balance for months, and had been assured at last only by the rare tact and wisdom of the head mistress and her assistants in the school.

No wonder that she resented the coming back into her life of a stepfather she never had known! With no sense of disloyalty to Lillian, rather with the knowledge that in listening to her child's call, I was giving her the best possible aid, I rose from my chair, gathered Marion into my arms and sat down in the big chair again, holding her as I so often had done when she was a little thing.

"Just cry it all out, darling," I murmured, and as she buried her face in my shoulder, and sobbed convulsively, I pondered how best to answer her heartbroken cry that her mother wasn't her mother first of all any more, that Harry Underwood came before everybody.

I made no attempt to stop her weeping, for I guessed she had rigidly repressed any show of emotion for so long that her nerves were in need of the outburst. But when at last she lay quiet, exhausted, I spoke, slowly, carefully choosing my words.

"Marion, do you know anything of your mother's life with your own father?"

She raised her head and looked at me with pitifully swollen eyes.

"No, except that she was—unhappy—and that he kept me away from her—after they—were—divorced—until he died. That's part of it, Auntie Madge. I hate being a 'divorce child.' That's what they call the girls at school who have two sets of parents."

"But you haven't," I said, glad to get away for a second from the main issue. "Your own father has been dead for years. Neither your mother nor your stepfather has any other entanglement. As far as the girls are concerned, I should think it would be much pleasanter for you to have them know that your mother and stepfather were living amicably together, instead of being separated as they were."

"I hadn't thought of that." She jumped to the new question with the facility of the very young. "I've never said anything about him, but I suppose I could explain him by saying that he had been traveling or ill."

"Exactly," I returned, catching back a smile. "And right here, I want to tell you something which I wish you to believe. You never have known me to tell you an untruth, have you, Marion?"

"You know that, Auntie Madge," she replied earnestly.

"Then I expect you to believe me when I say that you come first with your mother, as you always have done, as you always will do. Your stepfather has only second place in her heart."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Sensible to Guard Against Illness

A WISE man of olden times said this: "It is too late to be on guard when we are in the midst of evils." Seneca was not thinking about health, but the text can be applied to it. It is too late to prevent illness, when the attack is actually upon us.

DR. COPELAND

After wicked abuse of the body, after violating the well-known rules of health, tardy regrets are useless. It is while you are in the vigor of manhood or womanhood, when you are enjoying the good things of life, that you should keep in mind the ways to guard against disaster.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure—everybody quotes that old saying. It seems easier to recite it than it does to apply it.

I would not have a death mask at the feast of life, but one need not be constantly mournful and unnecessarily apprehensive of disease. It is possible to be perfectly happy and content, even when taking sensible precautions against sickness.

Almost unconsciously we fish a speck out of the glass of water and set aside the piece of shell left in the egg. These common accidents and incidents of the table do not disturb the appetite or make us miserable.

In the same spirit we can dodge the things common sense tells us are harmful. If we are on guard against the practices which hurt, we have left aplenty to make us happy.

Everybody knows that when one member of the family has a head cold, it won't be long before all the rest will suffer. This ailment is not of great consequence to the person in the active years of life. But in the extremes of infancy and old age, a cold is a serious disease. It may lead to disastrous results.

It is too late to guard against the cold when the whole family is in the midst of it. But to be on guard the instant one member of the household or of the office shows unmistakable signs of infection will spare its spread to everybody else.

It is quite unnecessary to recite the evils of overeating. Where is there a prson who does not suffer sometimes from headache, colic, sickness at the stomach, loss of sleep, and perhaps violent illness, from eating the wrong food or eating too much food?

It requires character to resist appetite. Have you character? Or are you an easily lead, weak-minded, yielding, incapable of withstanding the appeals of palate and stomach?

We send children to school in order that they may become reasoning human beings. We praise the "discipline" of the school and its effects upon the building of character.

What have you to say about the strength of your character when you are unable to refuse the second helping of green corn, or the second plate of delicious oysters? What is wrong with you when you take a third cup of coffee just before bedtime?

These foods, are good foods. I approve them fully, but there is no need to tell you how important it is to be sensible about their quantity and the time they are taken.

Seneca is right. It is indeed too late to be on our guard when we are in the midst of evils. The time to be on guard is before the evils arise and in order that they may never come.

Answers to Health Queries

A. R. Q.—What is the cause of my skin being partly yellow in color? It is also dry and cold most of the time. What should I do?

A.—I would suggest that you have a thorough examination by a doctor. You may have gall-bladder trouble or poor circulation.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Address

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Would you be kind enough to tell me the proper way of addressing announcements of a wedding?

2. Is it ever correct to send the announcement to a married man and not include his wife's name in the address? SYLVIA.

ON the inside envelope write only the name—with as few abbreviations as possible, only Mr. and Mrs. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Stevens.

If possible, address a separate one to each member of the family old enough to be sent formal invitations and announcements. But, if you cannot do this, send one to the daughters of the family:

Miss Stevens
Miss Maude Stevens

(This form gives a bit more special compliment than the more inclusive, "the Misses Stevens.")

Each son of the family should receive a separate invitation.

The outside of the envelopes have, of course, both the names and addresses, and again, with as few abbreviations as possible. The one for the "heads" of the family is:

Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Stevens,
22 Englewood Avenue,
Englewood, New Jersey.

2. No, this would be a very thoughtless and rude thing to do. Men and their wives are sent "Mr. and Mrs." invitations and announcements of a formal nature. Unless, of course, there is some special reason why this would not be the kind thing to do.

BROADCASTERS DEPEND ON FANS TO RIGHT CHAOS

STATIONS MUM ON CHANGE; FEAR COMMISSION WRATH

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

RELIEF for Pittsburgh fans who are having trouble tuning in local stations under the new wavelengths, was promised by the engineering committee of the Pittsburgh Radio Council yesterday. If listeners are unsuccessful in getting stations after shortening their antennae or inserting a wave trap, they are invited to carry their complaints to this committee. Letters may be addressed to R. F. Clark, chairman, Engineering Committee, Radio Council, Chamber of Commeerce Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

In a quiet little room on the third floor of the Commerce Building, the engineers gathered in an informal pow-wow to discuss the wavelength reallocations. Howard Clark, manager of WJAS, and Allan Machesney, chief engineer at WCAE, had very little to say regarding the changes. Clark said WJAS is satisfied so far and Machesney said he liked the new wavelength for WCAE, but could comment no further.

The reticence on the part of station owners and operators may be explained by the fact that it will not improve their chances any if they talk against the reallocation plan. Both WJAS and WCAE are now in good broadcast channels and it is feared they will lose these advantages if they ask the Radio Commission for something better than they now have. Fans themselves must force any changes that are to be made.

"Up to date sets have no trouble tuning in local stations without interference," John J. Way said. "If a set will not bring in KDKA, WCAE, WJAS and KQV distinctly and exclusively after experiments have been made with a short antenna and a wave trap, then the set is ready for the antique pile. Get a new set."

The committee's attention was called to the fact that many "up to date sets" are having trouble getting Pittsburgh stations. It was declared then that the chief trouble lay not in the set but in the readjustment of broadcasting station equipment.

We invited the engineering committee to inspect the hundreds of letters that have been sent to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. These letters, some written by engineers, do not reflect any great amount of confidence in the Radio Council's findings.

Is it likely that the wavelength of WCAE will be changed? It is very likely and most probable, if we are to judge for ourselves.

While an ironclad secrecy is maintained by the staff at WCAE regarding their attitude on the new wave, the news has emanated that everything is not so well on 245.8 meters. This belief is strengthened by the heaves and sighs of an overworked postman as he trudges to the desk of the studio manager several times each day with a bundle of letters containing—not flowery phrases of praise, but—genuine dyed-in-the-wool brickbats. We had the opportunity of looking at some of these letters. It is amazing the number of new words that have been created by the wavelength shakeup.

HIGHLIGHTS TONIGHT

President Coolidge will speak over WCAE at 8:30 tonight. Amelia Earhart, first woman to cross the Atlantic, will give a short talk from KDKA at 6:15 o'clock.

Mascagni's opera, "L'Amico Fritz," will be given over WJAS at 10 p. m. Other features over local stations are listed in detail as follows:

Reallocation A 'Lemon,' Says Radio Fan

R. D. Brodie, of Forest Hills borough, feels that "radio fans have been handed a lemon in the reallocation by the Federal Radio Commission." In a letter to the Sun-Telegraph he says: "If you are able to get any kick out of a dog fight come out some evening and listen in." KDKA, WJAS and WCAE come in all over the dials of his set. Brodie's home is one mile from the KDKA broadcasting station.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All druggists.

HOTEL SWINDLER SUSPECTS GET JAIL "RESERVATIONS"

SLEUTHS, NOT BELL HOPS, MEET 'EM!

Two traveling gentlemen who the police say have swindled almost every hotel in the country are locked up in Pittsburgh today. When the two arrived at Webster Hall last night they found a welcoming committee of city detectives awaiting.

With the arrest detectives say they have uncovered a new racket which for six months has brought complaints from hotels over the country. This racket involved trading on the names of Al Smith and United States Senators David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania; Pat Harrison, of Mississippi and Charles S. Deneen, of Illinois.

HAD "RESERVATIONS"

According to evidence introduced at the hearing in Central Police Court today, the "Continental Construction Company of New York," a fake concern with office space at 15 Park row, would make reservations for the two travelers a week in advance and ask for credit. When the "representatives" arrived one of their first moves would be to cash a check for $100 or more and then move on.

The pair had made reservations at all Pittsburgh's big hotels. Webster Hall officials, however, were suspicious, and investigation warranted the suspicion—hence the waiting sleuths.

Detectives said they found among the travelers' papers a "sucker list" of 1,600 hotels in the United States and Canada and copies of letters written to the three Senators and an answer from Senator Deneen.

It seems the pair, using various aliases, wrote Senator Harrison asking an audience inasmuch as they were constituents of his and wanted to whoop things up for Al Smith, the recent presidential candidate.

SOUGHT CONSULOR JOB

In writing, the detectives said, they told Pennsylvania's Reed that they were constituents of his and wanted to join the government's consular service—the same plea they made to Senator Deneen.

When hotel credit managers were rather backward in cashing checks the gentlemen who yearned to do their country good in the consular service used copies of these letters to impress their victims, the sleuths testified.

The prisoners are docketed as Ralph Harrison, 40, of 17 Gates avenue, Monticello, N. J., and John F. Rourke, 34, of 210 Star street, New Haven, Conn.

Magistrate John J. Orie held them and promised to turn them over to postal authorities.

HUNT MIDGET CONVICT

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—William Rinker, 26, Wood county midget, who has completed seven years of a 10-year sentence for larceny, escaped from the state prison here Sunday, it became known today. Search for him has been launched all over the state.

Rinker burrowed through the brick wall of his cell, backed his way through the wooden roof of the cell hall and dropped over the wall.

BANKER LOSES $20,000

BERLIN, Nov. 16—(AP.)—William Hanway, a New York banker, discovered yesterday that he had been victimized by a hotel thief to the extent of $20,000 worth of jewelry and letters of credit. He made the discovery when he missed his passport. On telephoning to his wife at the hotel, he learned that the jewels had vanished overnight from an unlocked trunk.

E. T. Caffery, Oil Man, Dies at Washington

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 16.—E. T. Caffery, 50, widely known oil operator died suddenly at his home here from a heart attack. Born at Bired, McKean county, he came to Washington while a youth and entered the oil business. He operated in Western Pennsylvania at first, but later spread to the Kentucky, Kansas, Ohio, Illinois, Texas and Oklahoma fields, in all of which he was heavily interested. He leaves his widow and one son, Robert, well known baseball pitcher, once with the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Snow Falls in Sun-Blistered Desert

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The first snow of the season greeted citizens of Prescott yesterday and Tucson, in the heart of the sun-blistered desert country, wondered at the spectacle of snow and hail pelting pedestrians during a rainstorm.

Hills near Prescott were snow-clad, and the white mantle blanketed the roofs. Low hanging clouds and a considerable drop in temperature came with the snow.

SIDELIGHTS ON RUM RING TRIAL

"tall man," and a "skinny man." The identities may develop through the course of the trial.

Although most of the government witnesses so far, other than prohibition agents, are men of foreign birth, only two needed the help of an interpreter, Joseph C. Cancelliere, a court interpreter, was called upon to assist Frank Alimiso, an Italian, who testified he formerly had a grocery and fruit store at 3038 Preble avenue, but now conducts a "cigar store and sort of a saloon." Steve Frankovich, a witness, frankly declared he ran a "moonie joint" near the Woods Run Police Station.

Michael Nakonecny, proprietor of a restaurant at 3039 Preble avenue, a witness, who told about the unidentified uniform policeman leaving a "Joe Green" card with him, said that John Harkins, a defendant, entered his place of business a few days later and greeted him with: "Hello, Mike! I am 'Joe Green.'"

The witness was one of the many that testified of having received cards.

Mrs. Mary Bobanick was the only feminine witness appearing thus far in the trial. She is the widow of A. J. Bobanick, who died in January, and following his death she continued the business of selling moonshine in their store at 2925 Preble avenue, she testified. Her testimony included statements that she was "buying from the city" and "selling for the city," cloaking her tale of moonshine dispensing with an official air.

When Theodore Zulinka, of 2826 Preble avenue, testified he conducted a confectionery store and dealt in "dry goods." "Did you have anything to do with the sale of wet goods?" asked Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith. "Yes, I sold some stuff," was the reply.

Arnold Thornburg disclosed that he was an employe at the Western Penitentiary when the federal indictment was handed down in the liquor conspiracy case, and was discharged when his name was discovered in the list of defendants. He had been at the penitentiary two months and ten days, he said.

Julius Bassompierre stated in his testimony that after having been employed as a waiter at the Fort Pitt and Schenley hotels and the Duquesne Club, he opened a saloon at Taylor and Irwin avenue, North Side, where he served lunch, soft drinks "and so forth."

"What do you mean by 'and so forth?'" asked Assistant United States Attorney Smith.

"It was sold at from 25 to 50 cents a drink," Bassompierre answered.

Match Co. Offers Big Loan For Concession

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The Swedish-American match trust, having obtained a match monopoly in Jugoslavia, in return for a loan of $22,000,000 to that country, has made a similar offer to the new Rumanian government of Julu Maniu. The offer is being held in abeyance pending the outcome of the present loan negotiations with international bankers.

Meantime it is announced the government soon will sign an agreement with certain French banks for a revolving credit of $25,000,000 for stabilization purposes.

SECOND OFFICER ON SHIP HALED

was being conducted by the steamship inspection department of the Department of Commerce, under supervision of Capt. G. F. Charlton and William H. Powers.

Charles Veschere, then assistant radio officer, was the first before Tuttle today. He testified that before the SOS went out, a message left the Vestris saying: "We may need help."

Tuttle announced shortly after the hearing started that anyone attempting to prevent the full testimony of witnesses as to the sinking would be most severely dealt with.

SURVIVOR CHANGES STORY

Capt. Frederick Sorenson, himself a follower of the sea, completely changed his story of the disaster when called before the steamship inspector's inquiry.

When he landed in New York Wednesday, Capt. Sorenson was among the most caustic of the critics who assailed the behavior of the Vestris crew in that zero hour in which death came out of the sea.

He had said then:

"The actions of the captain and crew were little less than criminal."

Today Sorenson said:

"I have nothing but praise for the heroic work of the crew in launching boats under such trying conditions."

Sorenson on Wednesday was quoted as saying:

"They put us off in leaky boats in such shark-infested waters because they were fools."

Today he testified:

"At but one lifeboat was in excellent condition."

He was reported as saying Wednesday:

"I was in a boat which had a hole in the bow. It was covered with a piece of tin. When the hole was stove in I do not know, but it was criminal to put that boat in the water."

Today Sorenson said:

"I was in a lifeboat that sank on touching the water. But the sinking resulted from damage sustained when the boat struck the side of the ship while being lowered."

Capt. Sorenson went further than that. He said that any damage done to all the lifeboats was due to the wreck itself. He had no fault to find with the equipment, he said.

Frank Johnson, chief officer of the Vestris, was among the four subpenaed.

As senior surviving officer of the foundered Vestris, federal officials looked for him to clear up much of the mystery that has clung around the steamer's sinking.

Tuttle said he had subpenaed whatever wireless messages, if any, were sent by Capt. William J. Carey, master of the Vetris, to the local offices of Lamport and Holt, or from the office of the captain, and also the files of the Radio Corporation of America to determine whether Carey had sent any messages to Sanderson & Son, local agents of the line.

LIFEBOAT SUBPENAED

A subpena also was issued for Lifeboat No. 13 of the foundered steamer Vestris, and Department of Justice agents were assigned to take it to the federal building from the pier where it was deposited by the rescue ship Berlin.

The lifeboat was wanted to check up on sworn statements of passengers as to its unseaworthiness.

STUDIES STOKERS' STORY

Shown an International News Service dispatch from Norfolk, Va., quoting Commander G. W. Simpson, executive officer of the battleship Wyoming, one of the rescue ships, to the effect that stokers aboard the Vestris blamed a cracked sea valve in the fire room as causing the list of the ill-fated liner, Tuttle immediately took steps to obtain sworn information bearing upon that point.

"I will communicate at once with the United States attorney at Norfolk and have him take in affidavit form the stories of the survivors who were landed there by the Wyoming," said Tuttle.

NONE OF 23 CHILDREN SAVED

The horrible fact that not one child of 23 aboard and few women of 29 or more were saved, has expedited the prompt action to make a searching inquiry into every phase of the tragedy. If it is learned that incompetent and untrained seamen were taken aboard the craft in preponderance of numbers, this will constitute a violation of marine law.

Six survivors of the Vestris, all passengers, were questioned in the first day of the hearing.

Among their charges were:

That there were general incompetence and lack of discipline among officers and crew.

That two filled boatloads were left hanging in their davits and carried down with the ship.

That no orders were issued to don lifebelts and that no competent officers were assigned to lifeboats.

That some lifeboats were improperly equipped and leaked like sieves at every seam.

That in some cases the launching tackle was out of commission.

That rescuing steamers passed several lifeboats, occupants being unable to signal because of defective flares.

The six witnesses were Fred W. Puppe, an electrical engineer of Brooklyn, whose wife and baby were lost; Jose Santa Anna, of Brazil, a former New York elevator operator who goes by the name of "John Santone;" Wallace M. Sinclair, of Bound Brook, N. J.; Herman Ruckert, a German paper manufacturer; Carlos Quiros, chancellor of the Argentine consulate in New York, and Walter Spitz, of Berne, Switzerland.

Most of the six passengers who testified were still highly nervous, and Mr. Tuttle said it was probable that few more of them would be called as he did not wish to harass their feelings further by making them recount the terrible ordeal they had been through.

'BRIDELESS HONEYMOON' MILLIONAIRE GETS WIFE

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Franklin Hardinge, the wealthy oil burner manufacturer whose "brideless honeymoon" was an item for the newspapers last February, is actually married now.

His bride's name is Peggy. Peggy who? Mr. Hardinge, the 60-year-old bridegroom, won't say.

In February Mr. Hardinge and Ann Livingston were engaged. The steamship tickets for their honeymoon were purchased; the bridal suite had been engaged.

The bridegroom-to-be presented his fiancee with a paper. She was to sign an agreement to disclaim all except $100,000 of his estate.

Miss Livingston refused, and the marriage was canceled. Mr. Hardinge sailed in the bridal suite alone.

Yesterday the telephone rang at the Hardinge home.

"Yes, this is Mrs. Hardinge," a soft voice answered.

Mr. Hardinge was asked about it.

"We're not going to make any statement now.

"Peggy's going home for Thanksgiving to announce it to her family. Her parents know nothing about it, you see.

"Peggy's father is quite prominent in Chicago and all over the country," he continued.

"Won't you even tell us Peggy's last name?" he was asked.

"Certainly," he said. "It's Hardinge."

Record Warmth Enjoyed by Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The mildest November 15 in the history of the Chicago Weather Bureau greeted Chicagoans yesterday when the temperature soared to 68 at 1 p. m.

The previous warmest November 15 was in 1896 when the mercury reached 62. The warmest November day on record here was November 7, 1915, when the temperature touched 75.

Colder weather, however, is in prospect, Weather Bureau officias said, although no unseasonable cold is in sight. It will likely be somewhat colder today.

The coldest November 15 took place in 1900, with a temperature of 14 above zero.

PROMOTION OF PEACE DECLARED WOMAN'S DUTY

It is woman's duty to see that the United States plays an important part in bringing permanent peace to the world. Such is the thought that is being stressed at the Western Pennsylvania Conference on the Cause and Cure of War in session today in the Carnegie Music Hall.

Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flier, was one of the speakers. She visioned aviation as a peace-time achievement and stressed the part that women now play in world affairs.

The conference is sponsored by the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War and has the co-operation of many women's organizations in Western Pennsylvania.

Mrs. A. H. Bowman, state chairman of the Cause and Cure of War Committee; Mrs. Ramsay Burton and Miss Josephine Schain, secretary of the National Committee, spoke at this morning's session. Following a luncheon in the Hotel Schenley the conference resumed this afternoon, with Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century, scheduled to give the principal address.

Dr. Gill Robb Wilson, national chaplain of the American Legion, will be the principal speaker at tonight's session.

WILKINS' PLANES POISED FOR TESTS IN ANTARCTIC

By CAPT. SIR GEORGE HUBERT WILKINS,
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York American, Inc., and by Universal Service. Reproduction in whole or in part is expressly forbidden.)

DECEPTION ISLAND, Antarctica, Nov. 16 (By radio from the whaler Hektoria via Port Stanley, Falkland Islands.)—Yesterday 10 husky coal heavers, under the direction of my able assistants, Styrm and Thorbjorsen, hauled our two Lockheed planes, the Los Angeles and the San Francisco, from the beach to a tiny lagoon, one kilometer distant, which will serve as the starting place for the first flight in Antarctic history.

On this lagoon there is a snow-covered slope 500 yards long, which makes an ideal place for a take-off.

Our mechanics changed the wheels on the airplanes for skis and made a few minor adjustments in the motors. They pronounced everything about the planes in readiness for the flight.

The steam from the smouldering fires beneath the beach of this volcanic island blows constantly across our camp and the surrounding terrain, yet the high hills are deep with snow and the valleys filled with tumbling glaciers.

For two days strong northerly winds have been blown across our runway. As soon as the wind changes or lulls, our first test flight will be made.

TECH DRILLS IN RAIN AT ELKHART

MAY PLAY ON MUDDY FIELD

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

ELKHART, Ind., Nov. 16.—Rain greeted the Carnegie Tech football squad when it arrived in Elkhart at 5 a. m. today to remain here until time to leave for South Bend, 18 miles away, to battle Notre Dame in one of the outstanding gridiron struggles of the day tomorrow, and indications were that the game might be fought out on a muddy or at least a soggy field.

Despite the unfavorable conditions, Head Coach Bob Waddell and Advisory Coach Walter P. Steffen, who drove over from his home in Chicago this morning, went through with their early plans for a workout on the local high school field this afternoon. The squad took the field shortly after 2 o'clock and ran through signals, while the punters and passers did their stuff with the wet pigskin. The squad is quartered at the Elkhart Hotel, while the general Carnegie headquarters are at Andy Weisberg's Oliver Hotel at South Bend. Andy is a former Pittsburgher and thus a fine host for the visitors. The players will be put up at the Oliver upon their arrival there shortly before noon tomorrow.

SLEEP ON TRAIN

Although their train rolled into Elkhart long before dawn, the Tartans were permitted to slumber on until 8 o'clock, or 9 o'clock Pittsburgh time, after which they repaired to their hotel for breakfast and a bit of relaxation before indulging in the afternoon workout. Graduate Manager Buddy Overend drove over to South Bend to take care of a few final business details in connection with the game.

There is no hope of late arrivals getting any tickets for the fray. It is a complete sell-out. Overend tried unsuccessfully to obtain a fresh supply of ducats for alumni and friends, but was told there were none available. About 30,000 will tax the seating and standing capacity of Cartier Field for the engagement. Many Pittsburghers, it is understood, are coming over on the special train, leaving tonight, and by automobile in the hope of being able to get into the game in some manner. Theirs is a forlorn hope.

Two changes are likely in the Carnegie lineup from that which started against Georgetown at Albany, N. Y., last Saturday. Thayer Flanagan, who started at one of the halfback positions, has a torn ligament in his right leg and hardly will get into the action. This means that the old reliable Letzelter will be on duty there.

The coaches today were undecided whether to start Moorhead or Eyth, both fleet runners, at the other halfback positions. Moorhead started last week and was relieved by Eyth and the chances are this order will be reversed tomorrow.

Notre Dame is the favorite to win by a slight margin in this part of the country. The fans hold Tech in high esteem, especially in view of what the Tartans have done to the Irish in previous meetings, but hold to a firm belief that no team can defeat Rockne's crew on their home field. At least, this hasn't been done in the last 23 years, and that would seem to be a firm foundation for the building of such a belief.

FANS TO SEE GAME

Hundreds of followers of the Carnegie Tech football team will leave by train and automobile today for South Bend, Ind., to witness the battle with Notre Dame tomorrow. A special train will leave from the P. & L. E. station at 11 o'clock. Countless Techites have been disappointed in being unable to obtain tickets for the game, which is a sell-out, and therefore have had to abandon plans to take in the spectacle.

The intense interest aroused here over the Carnegie-Notre Dame game will be somewhat rewarded when KQV will broadcast the play-by-play detail of the game.

American Pro Loop Opens November 22

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP.)—The schedule of the reorganized American Basketball League lists 168 games to be played by its eight members this season. Each team will play three home games and three on the road against each other club, according to the schedule announced today. The first part of the split season opens November 22 with New York playing at Rochester, and closes February 19. The second half opens February 11 and continues until March 24, including 56 games, half as many as the first section.

Four teams play their first game November 23. Brooklyn opens at Trenton and Fort Wayne at Cleveland. Paterson swings into action November 24 on its home floor against Rochester, while Chicago does not start until November 28 when it goes to Fort Wayne. Several of Paterson's home games will be played at Kingston, N. Y.

CITY SCHOOLS END SEASON TODAY

The city high schools will close their regular football seasons this afternoon with eight teams in action. Heading the program is the battle between Schenley High School and Westinghouse High School at the Westinghouse field. This contest is expected to have considerable bearing on the championship of the section.

Fifth Avenue High School will conclude its schedule by engaging Peabody on the Highland avenue gridiron, while Allegheny and Oliver will battle for the runner-up position in the Section II division. Perry High School will close a mediocre season by opposing Carrick at Carrick.

Other scholastic games in this vicinity find Braddock opposing Pitcairn at Braddock, Washington Trinity at Burgettstown, Greenville at Meadville, German Township at Point Marion, East Pike at George Township, North Union Township at Redstone Township, Bellevernon at Brownsville, Dunbar at East Huntingdon, Rankin at Munhall, McKeesport at Homestead, McKees Rocks at Duquesne, Dormont at Sewickley and Nineveh at East Washington.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Huge Arena Planned. Hockey-Boxing Boom. A. A. U. Row Unlikely | Georgia Tech Is Off. To Play Here in 1930. Balkline Going Out

SPORTS STRUCTURE TO SEAT 15,000

THE arrival here yesterday of Leon Rains, veteran fight promotor and matchmaker of Philadelphia for a series of conferences with Benny Leonard, the new local hockey head, marked the starting point in a movement that in all probability will not only give Pittsburgh more fistic attractions, and on a larger scale than ever before, but that will probably result in this city's getting a huge new arena for hockey, boxing and other sports.

Leon Rains

The building of an arena of that size was announced by Leonard as his ultimate object when he first took over the local hockey franchise, and the coming of Rains, with an announcement that he is to be associated with Leonard, indicates that Benny is determined to carry out his plans.

OF COURSE, there is no chance for any change in local conditions for either hockey or boxing during the present season, but unless something happens to upset the present intentions of Leonard and Rains, Pittsburgh next winter will have a sports building with a capacity sufficient to accommodate 15,000 or more persons.

The lack of such an arena has held Pittsburgh back as an indoor sports center, for under present conditions promoters have found that it is impossible to seat enough persons to enable them to stage attractions of the highest class without suffering a financial loss.

THE proposed new arena will remedy that, and open the way for a big boom in indoor athletic competition here, for not only will it provide the needed room for thousands of additional patrons, but it will be possible for the promoters to put on their hockey and fistic cards at lower prices. It is Leonard's idea to have an arena of such size that he will be able to sell 5,000 seats at $1 each.

Murray Hulbert

DELEGATES of the Allegheny Mountain Association to the annual national convention of the A. A. U., which is to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, express the belief that the big row reported as likely to develop between President Murray Hulbert and Frederick W. Rubien will not materialize. Hulbert and Rubien have been at loggerheads for some time, and it has been rumored that their differences would reach a climax at the New York meeting in a bitter fight that might split the national organization. The delegates from this district, however, are of the opinion that there will be no serious outbreak, and that the strife will be ended by a compromise between the warring forces for the general good of the body that controls amateur sports in the United States.*

AS ONE of the Pittsburgh representatives puts it, "the trouble between Hulbert and Rubien will in all probability die a natural

South Hills High School humiliated Langley High in capturing the Section II, City League grid championship yesterday. The score was 47 to 7, and the contest was tilted on the Oliver High field in Brighton road.

Pietsch and Ladley had two touchdowns each, while six-pointers also were scored by Critchlow, Davis, Riske and Kohl. Lambert kicked four placements and Jones, one of South Hills' real stars, a drop kick.

As a result, South Hills will play the winner in Section I for the city championship. The lineup:

South Hills—47.		Langley—7.
Parke	L. E.	Brooks
Whetzel	L. T.	Anderson
Waddill	L. G.	Keller
Brown	C.	Booth

NEW STUNT

Officials in the Duquesne University-Thiel College football game at the Stadium tomorrow—the city's only college game here then, by the way, with both Pitt and Carnegie Tech playing away—will experiment with a new wrinkle, suggested recently by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, that of signaling the spectators their decisions on the various plays, especially the reasons for the penalties. Photos of the signals were posed by Coaches Elmer Layden and Pat Ragan of the Dukes. It is believed the system will make the game more interesting from the spectators' standpoint.

PITT AND TECH AWAY

THE Pitt Panthers are battling Nebraska at Lincoln, Neb., tomorrow, and Carnegie Tech, undefeated so far this season, clashes with Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.

Both tussles stand out among the important football engagements of the day.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has arranged to cover them in its usual complete fashion.

Harry Keck, sports editor, will report the Tech-Notre Dame battle, and Jess Carver is with Pitt.

ICE STARS THRILL 7,000

By CARL W. SHATTO.

PITTSBURGH hockey achieved new heights at Duquesne Garden last night when the biggest crowd ever to witness an ice battle here saw a Pirate team that gives promise of developing into the strongest ever to represent this city go down to a 1-0 defeat at the hands of the Boston Bruins in the opening game of the National League's 1928-29 campaign. Throughout 67 minutes and 30 seconds of grueling play, the Bucs battled the Bears to a standstill, but when only two minutes and 30 seconds remained of the overtime period, the Cleghorn machine missed on one cylinder for one second, and in that one second Clapper, a Bruin spare, slipped the puck past Goalie Miller for the score that brought victory to a Boston team that had earned nothing better than an even break.

But when Manager Odie Cleghorn and Benny Leonard, new owner of the Pirates, who is endeavoring to give Pittsburgh big league hockey in really big league style, review the opening game today they should be able to find considerable sweet to mix with the bitterness which the sour ending of the great fight occasioned. And Leonard, particularly, should find little to grieve over, for a capacity crowd of close to 7,000 jammed and crammed its way into the Garden to make his debut as a promoter a startling success. Fifteen minutes before game time, the S. R. O. sign, so dear to the heart of any promoter, was hung out, and when play began every available foot of space was occupied by an enthusiastic fan.

TEAM SHOWS STRENGTH

And for Cleghorn, too, there is plenty of solace, for his club did not display a single glaring weakness. Joe Miller, former Pittsburgh amateur star, who is successor to Roy Worters as Pirate goalie, displayed form that was nothing short of brilliant; Toots Holway, filling the shoes of the departed Marty Burke at left defense, appeared to be one of the best as well as one of the biggest defense men in the game, and Mickey MacKay, forward, who arrived only yesterday from Chicago, played long enough to convince local fans that his fame as a great skater and stick handler is deserved. And, although his admirers did not realize it, MacKay was playing under a severe handicap. He had an abscess under his arm lanced just before he went on the ice.

Manager Cleghorn used MacKay at wing in both the regular and reserve front lines. Mickey displaced Cotton when in the starting trio, and McCurry surrendered his position to the new Buc when he was tested with the spares. And Mickey (he was that stranger wearing No. 7) showed plenty of punch. He is cer-

PITT PRACTICES IN OMAHA TODAY

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent

BURLINGTON, Ia., Nov. 16.—Aside from the fact that Luby Dimeolo, curly-haired guard, has not been scadging enough sleep on this jaunt the Panthers are taking into the heart of the Middle West, for the reason that he can't find fit repose in the little hammock in his berth, the Panthers are getting along very well as they roll onward to Lincoln, the home of the Cornhuskers.

In case it should slip your mind, the Pittsburgh boys are going to play a football game at Lincoln tomorrow with the undefeated University of Nebraska varsity. They spent yesterday in Chicago, viewing the city, working out in the afternoon at Stagg Field and dodging behind telephone poles or any other poles that happened to be handy every time they heard a car back-fire. Toby Uansa threw the lobby of the Hotel Windmere into confusion when he stalked in carrying a pineapple in each hand. The folks thought he was Scarface Al Capone.

IN OMAHA TODAY

This party is due to arrive in Omaha about mid-forenoon today. Creighton University will turn over its stadium to the Panthers this afternoon and a practice session will be held there. Dr. Sutherland will lead the team into Lincoln tomorrow morning, an hour or two before game time. As the time for the game nears, and Pitt draws closer and closer to the lair of the hefty Cornhuskers, Panther chances for a victory appear to fade.

Back in Chicago, folks broadcast far and wide the belief that the light Pittsburghers were due for an awful manhandling, the great weight and strength of the Huskers, together with the fact that they will

HEENEY THINKS HE WILL BE NEXT CHAMP

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 16—(AP.)—Tom Heeney thinks he will be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The brawny blacksmith, who took a terrific trouncing from Gene Tunney in the latter's farewell ring appearance last summer, says he believes he can enter any heavyweight elimination tournament and emerge the sole survivor.

"The bout I had with Tunney taught me a great deal," Tom said here yesterday when he arrived with his bride on the last lap of a round-the-world honeymoon tour. "I made a lot of mistakes in that fight that I'll never make again."

Heeney now is headed for New York, where he will start intensive training for what he hopes will be a busy winter campaign. Tom's biggest ambition is to get into the same ring with Jack Dempsey. "He is the greatest of them all," says the New Zealander, "and I never will consider myself a really experienced fighter until I have had a go with Jack."

Mrs. Heeney, the former Marion Estelle Dunn, of Spring Valley, N. Y., was asked whether she likes being married to a prizefighter. She didn't know about the prizefighter part of it, but she did enjoy being "married to Tom." What's more, she'll not interfere with Tom's business of fighting.

"That is his life," said Mrs. Heeney, "so why should I want him to change? He'd be like a fish out of water doing anything else. He can stick to the ring just as long as he wants to and I'll never complain."

RECAPITULATION.

Yale—27 victories, Princeton—13 victories, Ties, 9.

*The game of 1873 was played under the "Rules of 1873," a modification of the association code. The games of 1876 and 1877 were played under the intercollegiate rules, but a special rule was adopted that the score should be computed by goals only. Under the rules of 1882 two safeties equaled a touchdown. The game of 1884 was called before completion, Princeton having scored 5 points and Yale 6. The referee, under Rule 22, declared the contest "no game." The game of 1888 terminated similarly to the game of 1884, Yale having scored 4 points and Princeton 0.

REYNOLDS MAT VICTOR

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Jack Reynolds, Louisville, Ky., claimant to the world's welterweight wrestling championship, defeated Yaqui Joe, an Indian of Sonora, Mexico, in two out of three falls here last night in a match billed as having the championship at stake.

FEW LEFT FIELD STARS IN LAST 10 YEARS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

WITH the woods full of good centerfielders, it is a fact that the National League has not flashed five outstanding guardians of left field in the last 10 years.

The acquisition by the Giants of Fred Leach, of the Phillies, may mean that next season John McGraw will sport the best leftfielder in the circuit. In the event of a switch to leftfield by Lloyd Waner Dottie Bush would have a phenom in that garden, but there is no assurance that Bush will make this move.

McGraw showed the league the ranking leftfielder over a period of almost 10 years when George Burns galloped around the position. Later Skeeter Bigbee and Hazen Cuyler sparkled in the leftfield role for the Pirates, but there have been very few outstanding ball hawks in the plot in the past decade.

BURNS MASTER

Burns was the master since the days of Fred Clarke and Jimmy Sheckard. George had no weakness and he was graceful as a fawn. Besides his exceptional skill and grace, the Giant had the faculty of getting the jump on the ball. By getting away with the crack of the bat, George was able to make hard chances appear quite easy.

Leach has a style somewhat similar to that of Burns, but Fred is a bit more powerful than the former member of the New York entourage.

Both Burns and Leach were blessed with good arms, ability to hit and speed of foot. Burns was one of the best baserunners of the game; he was far ahead of Leach in this connection.

Little Sprout, of the Pirates, shaped up like a star in the game he played in the position for the home team.

HAFEY GOOD PLAYER

The Cardinals have a fine performer in Chick Hafey, but Chick's failing eyes appear to have retarded him, especially in the recent series. He had a remarkable season, however.

Chillysauce

The shades of night were falling fast
When through a practice gridiron passed
A football coach whose squad was fit,
But on whose banner this was writ:

"My team can't win."

A fan who chanced to stroll that way
Was fed up on such dope each day;
No longer would he be the goat—
He pulled the banner down and wrote:

"Baloney!"

Rogers Hornsby this week has received more space in the Chicago papers than the gangsters or the Chicago Opera Company.

Philadelphia is two up on Pittsburgh in indictments when the last score was recorded, but the Pirates are still a 3-to-1 shot over the Phillies.

Hornsby won a flag and world series in St. Louis and left. Bill McKechnie won a pennant and lost the series and there is more complaining. What is it that Missourians have to be shown?

The Cubs look like a million dollars, and so does Hornsby until he starts to chase a pop-fly behind the infield.

If Hughey Critz could hit like the Rajah, the folks in Cincinnati would have to increase the bonded indebtedness of Rhineland to pay his summer's salary.

Hornsby says Lefty Grimm is the best firstbaseman in the National League. Quite right, old top, and Chas is the best left-hand banjo player in either league.

URSINUS GRIDDER HURT

Carl Lindquist, Pitt, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Big round Goble, of Woodbury, N. J., left end on the Ursinus College football team, is a patient in the Montgomery Hospital in Norristown, suffering from a fractured vertebra. He was hurt Saturday in the game here with Drexel, but the seriousness of his injuries did not become known until yesterday.

DUKES PRACTICE AT STADIUM

DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY will have to provide the sole local football attraction tomorrow and Elmer Layden has his boys all set to do the job in style. He took them out to the Stadium today and put them through their first workout in that bowl, in preparation for Thiel to be grappled with there at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Although the Dukes are the home team in the encounter, their boys will be more used to the battle field. The workout today marks the first time a Duquesne team has set foot on Stadium turf while the Lutherans have been playing in the Cookland arena every year since it was built.

The Dukes will be hampered by the strangeness of the field and the grass on the Panther gridiron will be a big change from the hard, dry Bluff campus. The locals did not go good on the last grass they played on. This happened at Beaver Falls, and the Dukes lost to Geneva. The vegetation was not the least of the reasons for Duquesne's loss.

Layden has planned to use a running attack against Thiel and to desert the air. The nature of the field will hamper the ball-carrying backs and give a big advantage to Thiel. Even if Elmer turns to the air, his receivers will find the sward hard to get along on.

Most probably the game will resolve itself into a duel between Stanley Berkman, Thiel left half and Ganzy Benedict, Duke left half, with both heaving passes. Berkman is conceded an edge over Benedict in this department even by the most rabid Bluff rooters.

If Layden does much in the running way, it will be Devenny, Capt. Buff Donnelli and Benedict who will carry the attack to the Thiel men.

Elmer spent a lot of time earlier in the season on his passing game and stayed up nights thinking up trick formations. He got great success and took everybody over until they got on to him. Now the midnight kerosine is being consumed on thinking up tricky running formations. Thiel will be proof of the success or failure of Layden's attempts in this regard.

Abe Espinosa Sets Oregon Open Pace

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Slicing two strokes from par with a 70, Abe Espinosa, Chicago professional, led the way in the opening round of the $5,000 Oregon open golf tournament here yesterday.

Walter Hagen, British open champion; Mel Smith, Portland; Johnny Golden, Paterson, N. J., and E. D. Dudley, Los Angeles, were tied with 72.

Phil Taylor, Victoria, B. C., scored a 74. Other scores included: Harry Cooper, Buffalo, N. Y., 75; Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C., 75; Al Espinosa, Chicago, 79; Tony Manero, New York, 81; Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., 83.

DEDICATE BOYS CLUB TONIGHT

The Pittsburgh Boys' Club, formerly the Lawrenceville Y. M. C. A. building, will be dedicated tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Numerous improvements have been made on the building, located at Butler street in Lawrenceville, and a large crowd is expected to attend the opening ceremonies tonight.

The Pittsburgh Boys' Club serves as a haven for the under-priviledged boys of the Lawrenceville and Strip districts, catering to boys between the ages of 7 and 18 years. More than 2,000 are already enrolled as members and with the building completed a larger membership list is expected.

State Commission Suspends Boxers

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission today announced the following suspensions:

Cliff Stufft, of Ralphton; Andrew Stahura, Wilkinsburg, Pa.; and Bobby Burns, Pittsburgh, Pa., boxers, all 30 days for failure to honor contracts with the Palace A. C. at Windber, Pa., on November 10.

John Vivio, Pittsburgh boxer, 30 days, failure to honor contract with Majestic A. C. at McKeesport.

Charles (Tod) Smith, Canton, O., and Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, Pa., boxers, indefinitely, for unsatisfactory services at Beau A. C., Washington.

St. Vincent's Meets W. Va. Frosh Next

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 16.—St. Vincent's College will play West Virginia freshmen tomorrow on the college campus, which will coincide the schedule for that field, as the final game, November 24, with Slippery Rock, will be played in the Latrobe Athletic Park.

Tuffy Griffiths Wins

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Gerald (Tuffy) Griffiths, Sioux City light heavyweight, knocked out Jimmy Mahoney, of Chicago, in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

BIG INDEPENDENT GRID GAMES ON TAP

By TOM BIRKS.

WITH Oakmont scheduled to tangle with the Lawrenceville Mohawks, East Pittsburgh Firemen clashing with Port Vue Quakers, and McKeesport Olympics staging their second meeting with West View, the air is charged with expectancy with the followers of the respective clubs getting all worked up regarding the outcome of the games. Then at McChesneytown another club in the Ambridge Mystics demands recognition by virtue of an undefeated record and a tie game with Port Vue last Sunday.

Last Sunday every club classed in the race managed to stage a 0-0 game. If this happens next Sunday the whole thing should be called off, and abandoned until next year, then some of the managers might have a backfield together than can score.

Looking at the result of the games played this fall, it becomes more apparent that the Burns club carries the big punch. It is true Burns is out of the race, but it scores on East Pittsburgh and West View and that seems to be a bigger job than most of the clubs can carry. Only once this season was the New Kensington attack halted, that being the Springdale game, and with the backfield crippled, it is a wonder Springdale was held. When the third quarter started only one substitute was left on the bench for Jake Luffy to put in the game.

With no counter attractions up the river, Manager Roger Patrizio, of Oakmont, is looking for a banner crowd on Sunday when the Lawrenceville Mohawks hook up with Restelli's aggregation of gridiron material. The weather does not bother Oakmont, for if it rains the field does not seem to suffer. Restelli will match his skill against that of Ziggy Anderson and that should make it a game worth while. Oakmont is one of the few clubs that is steadily building for next season.

MAYBERRY TUBE CITY VICTOR

Howard Mayberry won the verdict over Eddie O'Dowd in the main bout of the regular Majestic Club boxing show in McKeesport last night. A full house greeted the evening's card, which was lively from the outset.

The first five rounds were devoted to the little fellows' feeling out each other, while the second five brought out give-and-take fighting, much to the satisfaction of the cash customers. Both received cuts over their right eye in the ninth round.

In the semi-windup, Young Gizzy, fighting brilliantly and all of the time, won the decision over Jack O'Banyan, although that boy didn't do so much shirking himself. It was six rounds for the Donora fighter.

Red Ryan substituted for Harry Spencer and opposed Walter Dickerson in the second six-rounder. He proved an able substitute, defeating Dickerson with little trouble.

Bob Collera knocked out Rock Preston in the second round of their four-round opening battle.

Independents to Meet

Another local derby will be played tomorrow afternoon when the Arnold Independents have the Blawnox gridiron machine as its attraction. Both outfits have been playing great football outside of the heavyweight class and naturally expect a win.

There is considerable rivalry between the fans following the clubs and a rooting battle is expected.

Walker Beaten

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—(AP.)—Gus Sonnenberg, of Providence, former Dartmouth football star, defeated George Walker, of Canada, in two straight falls here last night in the first of a series of elimination wrestling matches.

"Chesterfield—of course!"

Mild enough for anybody . . . and yet they Satisfy*

*MILDNESS is not the whole story of a fine cigarette.

Chesterfields are genuinely mild but they are something more. They stand out as the cigarettes that satisfy because they are made of high quality tobaccos; because they are blended and cross-blended in a way that can't be copied—and that blending produces a satisfying taste and fragrance.

They are "the mild cigarettes that satisfy."

CUDDY DE MARCO BOXES MAHAN TONIGHT

Cuddy DeMarco, Boxes Fred Mahan, a mute, who has been winning steadily, in a 10-round bout at Columbus, O., tonight.

Baby Joe Gans and Joe Glick clash in a lightweight elimination bout in Madison Square Garden tonight. Pal Singer meets Gorilla Jones and Lou Moscowitz meets Al Singer in other bouts on the card, which replaces the return battle between Joe Dundee and Young Jack Thompson for the welterweight title.

Islam Grotto will stage its first amateur boxing show of the season tonight in its hall, Pressley street and Madison avenue, North Side. Six bouts and other entertainment are listed. Cowboy DeLuca and Joe Blaner will appear in the main event.

Jack McFarland, of Wilkinsburg will box Battling Gizzy of Donora in one of the two 10-round bouts of a show in Johnstown next Thursday night. Howard Mayberry will box the best opponent obtainable in the other 10-rounder.

The third annual smoker and amateur boxing show of the Union Welfare Association, composed of employes of the Union Railroad, will be held tomorrow evening in Carnegie Hall, Braddock. Vaudeville acts are listed in addition to the bouts.

Cuddy De Marco, McKeesport and Charleroi lightweight, and Johnny Hayes, of Philadelphia, have been signed for the 10-round main bout at McKeesport next Thursday night. This will be the second meeting of the pair, Cuddy boxed Hayes in Philadelphia last year and was held to a draw.

De Marco claims he was a victim of a hometown decision in this fight and is certain he will be able to whip out this kink on his record when the two climb into the ring.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(INS)—Joe Sekra, of Dayton, O., and Yale Okun were being considered by matchmaker Tom McArdle today as a substitute for Napoleon Jack Dorval against W. L. TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 16—(AP)—Steve Rocco, Toronto flyweight, has been matched to meet Frankie Genaro, national boxing association champion, in Detroit, December 14.

BUC SIX LOSES

tain to give the locals' attack greater power.

Judging from last night's exhibition, the Pirates' defense is stronger than their attack. Miller convinced Pilot Odie that he can forget the goalie question; McCaffery appeared to be better than ever before, and Holway's exhibition was flawless. Using his 190 pounds to good advantage, the giant Toots dashed aside every Bruin thrust that came his way, and his play when on the attack was above criticism.

PLAY IS CREDITABLE

The passing of the front lines was not smooth and effective, but it was fairly creditable for an opener, and undoubtedly will improve greatly as the season advances. It must be remembered, too, that the Bruins are one of the strongest defensive clubs in the league. The best front lines in the circuit find the Hinchman-Shore combination a "stone wall."

The victory was the first that Boston has scored over Pittsburgh in almost two years. Two defeats and four ties was the best that the Bruins could get in six meetings with the Bucs last season.

The overtime period provided the first test for a new league rule. Prior to the revision of the laws, last summer, the game would have ended with Clapper's goal, but the new ruling is that the overtime period shall be of 10 minutes' duration regardless of whether or not a goal is scored in less than that time.

Hinchman, the Bruins' giant defense man, was forced out of the game after four minutes of play in the overtime session when he collided with the boards and received a nasty cut over his eye. He attempted to resume play, but the flow of blood was so free that it blinded him, and he had to retire.

FREDERICKSON FINED

Frederickson, Boston center, received an injury of an entirely different nature when, between the first and second periods, Referee Dr. Eddie O'Leary fined him $50 for using profane and abusive language in protesting a penalty which the official had meter out to Shore in the first few minutes of play.

Shore, who spent more time in the penalty box than any other man in the league last season, got off to a splendid start in his "title" defense. He was sordered to the penalty box four times last night.

Early comers were entertained with a band concert, and between the playing periods a sterling exhibition of fancy and figure skating was offered by the colorful New York team of Norval Baptie and Gladys Lamb. The steel blade artists scored a decided hit, and will be brought back for several return engagements.

Although the battling was fast and hard throughout, the Pirates all escaped serious injury. They will leave for Detroit tomorrow night, where they will play their second league game against the Cougars on Sunday. The Bucs' next home game is with the Canadiens, here next Thursday. The lineup:

Pirates—0.		Bruins—1.
Miller	G	Thompson
McCaffrey	R D	Shore
Holway	L D	Hitchman
Mike	C	Frederickson
Darragh	R W	Oliver
Cotton	L W	Galbraith

Pirate spares—Mackay, McCurry, Drury, White, Mackinnon and Smith. Boston spares—Clapper, Pettinger, Gainor, Green, Rodden, Weiland, Dennieny. Referee—O'Hara. First period—Scoring, none. Penalties—Hitchman, tripping; Rodden, tripping; Clapper, fighting; McCaffrey, fighting; Shore, tripping; Shore, checking. Second period—Scoring, none. Penalties—MacKinnon, tripping; McCaffrey, elbowing; Darragh, tripping. Third period—No scoring. Penalties—Shore, tripping; Hitchman, tripping. Extra period—Scoring, Clapper from Galbraith, 7:30. Penalty—Shore, tripping.

Anderson, Moore Win at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16—(AP.)—Eddie Anderson, Cody, Wyo., lightweight, won the decision over Tommy Murray, Philadelphia, in 10 rounds here last night.

Nick Broglio, Herrin, Ill., lightweight, outpointed Howard Mitchell, Cincinnati, in the semifinal.

death." This for the reason that Hulbert's reign in power will end at the time of the Gotham convention, as he is not eligible for re-election as president, in which office he has served three years. The rules fix the limit at two years, but Hulbert was allowed to hold over for one year longer to avoid disturbing the arrangements begun under his administration for the 1928 Olympic games.

It is believed the passing out of Hulbert will pacify Rubien and his supporters. An attempt may be made to put Rubien up for president by some of the more stubborn ones, but the chances are against its getting very far. It will not be surprising if Avery Brundage, of Chicago, former all-around athlete, is put forward as a compromise candidate and elected to the presidency. The A. M. A. delegates, who will leave tomorrow night for New York, are William S. Haddock, president; John T. Taylor, secretary and treasurer; J. Rogers Flannery, William Sinnendinger, A. C. Couch and Ralph V. Shinton.

CARNEGIE TECH'S proposed football game with Georgia Tech for next season is definitely off, but as a solace for the falling through of negotiations for a meeting either here or in Atlanta for 1929 the Skibos have been given a contest with the Golden Tornado to be played in Pittsburgh in 1930.

Not until a few hours before the Carnegie squad was getting ready to leave for South Bend last night did Graduate Manager Clarence Overend receive the long awaited final word from the Georgia Tech officials. The Southerners had been trying to rearrange their 1929 schedule so as to provide a date that the Plaid could accept, but they finally reported yesterday that their efforts had failed. However, they supplemented their regrets with an offer to play Carnegie Tech here in 1930, and Manager Overend immediately accepted the game for a date to be agreed upon later.

Edouard Horemans

Is Edouard Horemans, the Belgian cueist, present world 18.2 balkline billiard champion holding an empty title? This would appear to be true, according to the views of such an authority as Willie Hoppe, who once said in Pittsburgh that the three-cushion game was a joke and would never get anywhere, and that balkline was the only style of play that could be called real billiards, now declares that balkline soon will be only a memory.

"I AM afraid that we are seeing our last of balkline," Hoppe says. "Some of the conditions under which I have played lately are almost laughable. I find that the roomkeepers are no longer interested nor financially able to equip their rooms with the tools necessary for 18.2 or 18.1.

"Three-cushion has come to the front with such a rush that the old-fashioned favorites are virtually crowded out. The competition of the radio, dog racing, motion pictures, and so forth, has forced the billiard proprietors to featuring other branches of the game that are less expensive to maintain. As a result there are no longer any high-class younger players being developed. There appears to be even little interest among the championship class of players."

A PRODUCT of Wilkinsburg High School, later a member of the University of the 1926 Pittsburgh freshman eleven, is being strongly boomed by Ohio football critics for selection as an All-Ohio tackle this fall. He is Marshall Griffith, who has been starring in the line for the Ohio University team, of Athens, O., playing such a consistently brilliant game that he has become one of the outstanding gridders of the Buckeye A. A.

Griffith is one of the largest players in the college ranks, standing 6 feet 4 inches in height and weighing 240 pounds. He was a star at Wilkinsburg High School for three years, and in his last season on that team he earned honorable mention in W. P. I. A. L. circles. He matriculated at Pitt and earned his numerals on the Panther yearlings in 1926. The following year he enrolled at Ohio University. He was captain of the freshman eleven there last season, and this year he speedily became a luminary on the varsity.

Marshall Griffith

COACH DON PEDEN considers Griffith one of his brightest prospects. The former Wilkinsburg gridder is tremendously fast for a man of his weight, and he uses his height to good advantage in knocking down enemy forward passes, one phase of the game at which he is especially adept. He was a huge factor in Ohio U.'s victories over Rio Grande, Cincinnati, Ohio Northern and Marietta this season. Griffith also is practically certain to win a place on the Ohio University track and field team, and is likely to rank with the best weight men in the Buckeye State next spring. While at Wilkinsburg High he gave many fine performances in that branch of athletics.

THE defeat of the Pirates at the hands of the Boston Bruins, and that suffered only when the visitors scored the single goal of the game with but two and a half minutes of playing time left in an extra period, was the lone bit of disappointment at Duquesne Garden last night to mar the most auspicious hockey opening in the history of the ice sport in Pittsburgh. The crowd of almost 7,000 was the largest that ever attended a hockey game here, the closeness of the going and the thrills of three scoreless periods kept the fans in high tension, and in general the inaugural was of the made-to-order type.

In spite of their failure to get of on the right foot by winning the curtain-raiser, the showing of Odie Cleghorn's reconstructed team was decidedly pleasing and encouraging. The Bucs gave lots of hope for the future. Joe Miller, the new goalie, on whose work home interest was particularly centered, gave a splendid exhibition in the main, and it is doubtful if the goal that Clapper shot past him would have been stopped by the absent Worters. Toots Holway lived up to all that had been said of him, and even under the handicap of a troublesome boil Mickey MacKay gave evidence of class that means a gain in strength for the local outfit. On the whole the team holds out much promise.

Chicago Criticized By Northwestern

CHICAGO, Nov. 16—(AP.)—University of Chicago students are up in arms because of an editorial in the Daily Northwestern, student publication of Northwestern University, which suggested that Chicago quit Big Ten athletics "because of the indifferent success of its teams."

Some of the most irate planned retributive action, recalling the severance of athletic relations between Chicago and Northwestern two years ago, but University officials are doing their best to quell the disturbance.

SCHWAB TELLS STEEL MEN TO LAUGH

EDGEWATER GULF HOTEL, Miss., Nov. 16.—(AP.)—The homely philosophy of Charles M. Schwab, founder of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, has gripped the delegates attending the convention of the American Institute of Steel Construction, most of whom he has seen grow from comparative obscurity.

Standing before the steel men today, he said:

"Boys, listen to the old steel master from Bethlehem. I am getting old. Right now I am retiring from all of my other business except that of Bethlehem. I will never retire from that until my time comes to die.

"I have learned a lot since I started as a boy with Mr. Carnegie. I learned a lot about steel but more important, I learned a lot about life.

"Ah, that is the thing. Be happy, boys. Enter into your work good naturedly. If you succeed, laughs. But, better still, if you fail, laugh too. Forget your failures and build for the future.

"Money isn't much. I am poorer now than I was 40 years ago. Of course, we want money enough to pay our bills as we go along, but a whole lot of money is of no use. It is only a symbol of success.

"I was once asked if a big business man ever reached his objective. I replied that if a man ever reached his objective he was not a big business man. It is ever onward with successful business men until life flows out of his body.

"When the time comes to die I do not want to be surrounded by granite and marble. I want to be amidst steel beams and 'is' where I have been happy all my life.

"I will now leave you to go back to my business, but I again will say—be good natured."

This morning's session was devoted to a discussion of the beautification of steel bridges with the suggestion that prizes be awarded for the best designs.

PITT TRAVELS

be playing on their own gridiron and battling to keep an unblemished 1928 record spotless and secure, revenge for the whipping Pitt administered in Pittsburgh in '27, have combined to establish the Westerners as heavy favorites.

Having seen Pitt in action four times this year, and knowing the speed, wiry strength and smartness of the well-drilled Sutherland line and the elusiveness and hard running of the backs, I am inclined to think another upset is going to be served the boys tomorrow. The game is going to be a tough one, and whether Pitt comes through or not, the players cannot help but take some fine body lacings. Nebraska will strive mightily to wear down the reserve of the Panthers.

SURPRISE IN BRAINS

Through sheer superiority of weight, Pitt will have the edge on brains and in speed, and unless Nebrask is different this year than in years past, the Easterners are going to have the better-drilled eleven on the field at Lincoln.

Nebraska will find itself pitted against a starting line that needs take no back talk from any in the country. Game by game, Mike Getto and Joe Donchess, Honey Guarino and Charley Tulley are being welded together into a stone-wall defensive quartet to protect the ends of the line and spoil the foe's open running game. DiMeolo and Fox, light but alert and extremely fast and Monty Montgomery, make the center of the Panther line a difficult place to attack. Pitt has two or three keen secondary defense combinations built around Pug Parkinson's splendid backing up of the line and Toby Uansas praiseworthy play in the safety spot.

ONE BIG HOPE

Pitt's big hope tomorrow will be to get Uansa and Williams past the line of scrimmage, preferably off the tackles behind the fine interference of the reverse play and the triple pass and let 'em run through the Nebraska secondary defenders. Williams is a skillful broken field runner—comparing favorable with Gib Welch. He ran away from the Syracuse backs, who stopped Nebraska, and he made monkeys out of Wash-Jeff and even of Tech, for all both those teams were played on treacherous fields.

With Parkinson back in the line-up to rip at the line, it may be possible to draw in the Nebraska halfbacks, thus, opening the way for some forward passing. In Donchess, Guarino, Edwards and Williams, Toby Uansa has some good receivers to throw 'em at—long or short.

But even these resources of Pitt cannot be used to shorten the odds on the game. Nebraska has it on the Panthers in weight, strength and in the very important department of replacements. Pitt's reserve strength in the backfield is not so bad, but on the line, there are probably three men who can be counted upon for first class play.

HAGAN VISITS GANG

Among the Pitt folks now residing in Chicago who came down to the Windmere yesterday to say hello to the boys was little Jimmy Hagan, who halfbacked and punted for Pitt's unbeaten Panthers last year and who scored the touchdown against Stanford on the coast.

The Pitt players are greatly interested in the Tech-Notre Dame game at South Bend. Though they were forced to bow to the Tartans, most of the Panthers are pulling for a Skibo victory.

They are interested in seeing Pittsburgh football climb once again to the top of the National heap, such as was the case in '27 and many have good friends on the Tartan squad. And besides, every Tech triumph makes Pitt look that much better.

Many Want to Know How To Raise Capital: Pointers

By B. C. FORBES

HOW to raise capital is the problem which confronts many individuals and concerns that have either established a successful business or are confident that, given adequate capital, they could make their enterprise highly profitable. This column requests for information on how to go about the securing of capital.

THE raising of capital has developed extraordinarily in this country during recent years. New York has ousted London as the greatest market for new capital in the world.

Curiously, notwithstanding the frequent declaration that "all business is drifting into big organizations," the number of smaller concerns entering the business field increases rather than decreases. Many individuals and small companies apparently are not at all afraid to enter the field in competition with powerful corporations. The amount of new capital needed by these smaller enterprises runs into many millions of dollars a year.

TOTAL security issues of all kinds in this country last year reached the new peak of $8,900,000,000. This compares with $7,200,000,000 in the previous year, and $6,800,000,000 in 1926, $6,000,000,000 in 1924 and somewhat less than $5,000,000,000 in 1923.

For the first 10 months of this year the total was almost $7,000,000,000, of which $1,750,000,000 represented refunding. The new capital floated thus was just over $5,000,000,000.

The grand aggregate for 1928 is likely to fall somewhat below last year's due mainly to the much higher rates which have ruled for money during recent months, rates which have told heavily upon the successful distribution of new bonds.

J. T. WOOWARD, of the old-established Wall Street investment banking firm of Spencer, Trask & Co., in a talk on capital-raising by individual companies and by proposed mergers of smaller companies, said:

"There should be ample value in physical assets and quick assets for a preferred stock issue. In the less probable event of a bond issue or a note, we would require physical assets to be at least double the face amount of the bonds or notes and further earning capacity at least double the amount of interest and sinking fund provisions.

"These standards also apply to a preferred stock issue except that the net quick assets applicable to such preferred stock under the most favorable conditions should not be less than twice the amount of the preferred stock. Should the quick assets be three times the amount of preferred stock, the company would be in a very favorable position when approaching investment bankers. But if the ratio were less than 3 to 1 or if the issue were under priced, other factors would require very careful consideration.

"AVERAGE earning capacity for a period of years, management, personnel, type of product and a large number of other factors would then have to be considered. We would undoubtedly investigate the industry itself to determine whether in our own minds the general trend of the industry was upward or downward.

"If downward, we would want to determine whether this were due to weakness inherent in the industry or to some conditions which were susceptible to correction.

"If we were satisfied after such survey of the industry that we would be justified in investing in it, it would then become a question of the individual operation and how closely such operation would conform to our standards."

LET it be added that it is easier to get a banking house to float securities for a going concern than for someone with ever so brilliant an "idea." The country is full of theorists confident that they have schemes sure to make millions—even more millions than Ford or Rockefeller ever made. Practical bankers and business men are hard-boiled, however, when asked to hand over their money to some one else to experiment with. The attitude of most rich men is:

"I have learned how to make money with my own money. Why should I hand over money to you seeing you have not demonstrated your fitness to make a lot of money?"

IT IS much easier to raise sums ranging from $5,000,000 to $50,000,000 than to raise $50,000 to $750,000. Only a few Wall Street houses care to be bothered with the latter. Very often it is necessary to use personal influence with one's friends in order to raise the initial capital for a business or the capital necessary for early expansions. When it comes to raising capital it is essentially true that nothing succeeds like success.

WESTINGHOUSE BOOMS IN MARKET

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WESTINGHOUSE Electric and Manufacturing common was among the stocks which made sensational advances yesterday. It closed at 139, an advance of 10⅝ over the previous close. The strength reflects the increased sales and earnings of the company, as well as the fact that an era of increased development in the power industry has been predicted. The growing tendency towards railroad electrification may also be a pronounced factor.

Another influence in Westinghouse will become more manifest in the future. Changes in executives which took place about a year ago have been responsible for greater economies in operation.

BOTH classes of stock share equally in dividends after each has received $3.50 a share in a year. In other words, the $50 par preferred has preference as to dividends to the extent of 7 per cent, but after the common has received the same amount, any further increase must be given to both issues. At present both stocks are being paid $4 a year. The preferred is non-callable, so that while the company is prosperous it is virtually a duplicate of the common stock. It also has the advantage of cumulative preference in dividends in the event of any depression in the company's earnings.

Westinghouse Electric is in excellent financial position, and it is beginning to reap the benefits of large expenditures for plant improvements. In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1928, net profit was $15,639,172, which was equivalent to $6.60 a share on the combined common and preferred stocks. The current fiscal year is likely to exceed this by a substantial amount. Profits in the six months ended September 30 were $10,207,728, or $4.30 a share.

THE last balance sheet showed current assets of $122,626,554 against current liabilities of $15,063,281. Cash alone amounted to $19,585,024 and government securities to $13,247,687.

With expectations that earnings for the present fiscal year will be more than twice dividend requirements, an increased return to stockholders is anticipated. There have been recent reports of a possible split-up of the stock. If this should take place, provisions would have to be made so that the preferred stock would benefit to the same extent as the common.

The increase of only $1,800,000 in brokers' loans announced yesterday came as a surprise to financial circles. In view of the tremendous advances and the wide participation in the series of "speculative orgies," such a moderate increase is difficult to explain. The comparatively low rate for call money has been a reflection of the absence of increased stock market borrowing.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Whirlwind Market.

The market started off at a 10,000,000-share gait this morning as the list swept forward in response to the surprisingly small increase in brokers' loans and the improved credit position as disclosed in the Federal Reserve statement. The first half hour's sales aggregated 1,000,000 shares, but this pace did not continue. Facilities of the exchange could not have handled such rush of business. With the 5,000,000-share days of the past 10 days or so the trading machinery has become hopelessly clogged on several occasions and the quotation service has fallen as much as an hour and a half behind the actual sales on the floor. While there were several spectacular advances in the speculative favorites today, the tone of the market was evidenced by the steady advancing tendency of the standard industrial stocks and best grade rails. In the latter division such issues as New York Central, Atchison and Union Pacific were prominent. Industrials saw new highs on Steel common, Westinghouse and General Electric, Fullman, American Tobacco, Anaconda and many others, while Montgomery Ward executed another sharp spurt and Packard Motor shot up about 10 points from last night's close. Agricultural Chemical stocks perked up noticeably, marking the entrance of this group into the current market movement.

In the late market stocks were whirled up in sensational style under the leadership of Radio, which shot away above 300, while shorts scrambled madly to cover their commitments. The floor reported buyers all around the room and such profit taking as did come into the market was easily absorbed. The rate of transactions at the close indicated a total turnover of more than 6,000,000 shares for the session.

Durant Suggests Double Ticker.

W. C. Durant is reported as advocating a double ticker service to help catch up with the tremendous volume of business being done on the stock exchange. That is, one recording from A to M and the other N to Z. If at any time one becomes overloaded, it is suggested the exchange could correct the inequality by immediate notice without confusion or inconvenience.

Small Gain in Loans.

Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City on November 14 increased $1,849,000 during the week to a new high record of $4,980,817,000. This compares with $4,978,968,000, the previous high, on November 7 and $3,456,116,000 on November 15, 1927. Detailed figures compare as follows (000 omitted):

	Nov. 14 '28	Nov. 7 '28
For own account	$ 994,307	$1,064,358
Four out-of-town bks.	1,751,460	1,726,406
For others	2,234,999	2,188,164
Totals	$4,980,817	$4,978,968

Principal changes during the week were a decrease of $70,031,000 in loans for own account, an increase of $25,054,000 in loans for out-of-town banks and an increase of $46,836,000 in loans for others. Demand loans constituted $4,347,490,000 of the total, compared with $4,368,173,000 a week ago, and time loans $633,327,000, against $610,795,000 last week. The loan showing was a distinct surprise to the Street, which had expected an increase of from $75,000,000 to $150,000,000.

An Explanation.

The surprisingly small increase in loans is attributed by the Wall Street Journal to arbitraging in General Motors oil and new stock. Banks have been heavy buyers of the old stock which formerly figured considerably in brokers' loans, while the Street has been interested in buying the new stock, which is obtainable on a when-issued basis. This operation was more profitable for the banks to undertake inasmuch as the money involved to buy the old stock would entail the heavy interest charges which brokers would have had to pay. There have been at times a difference in favor of the new stock of as much as five points, but the close on Thursday the differential was nearly three points.

Montgomery Ward Arbitrage.

It is not believed that the same kind of arbitrage was done in Montgomery Ward stock. In the case of General Motors the operation was simpler because it was based on a splitup of the stock, while the new Montgomery Ward stock represents an additional issue. Traders, for instance, might not be disposed to carry the larger number of General Motors that would have been theirs under the splitup and sold their old holdings and bought an equal number of shares of the new, when-issued shares. Fact that the new Montgomery Ward stock was only traded in on curb did not offer the same facilities for arbitraging by the banks.

Federal Reserve Condition.

Consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve banks on November 14, made public by the Federal Reserve Board, shows for the week ended November 14 $490,000,000 in holdings of discounted bills of $10,400,000 in Federal Reserve note circulation and of $9,300,000 in government deposits. Increases are shown of $25,800,000 in holdings of bills bought in the open market, of $34,700,000 in member banks' reserve deposits and of $19,700,000 in cash reserves. Total bills and securities were $74,300,000 below the amount held on November 7. Principal changes in holding of discounted bills for the week were decreases of $100,100,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, $26,900,000 at Chicago and $9,700,000 at San Francisco and increase of $18,300,000 at Boston, $9,500,000 at Philadelphia and $9,100,000 at Cleveland. Ratio of reserves of the New York Federal Reserve Bank in the week ended November 14 stood at 73.2 per cent against 69.3 per cent the week preceding and 74.7 per cent a year ago. Federal Reserve System ratio of reserves for the week ended November 14 was 67.4 against 67.1 a week previous and 70.8 a year ago.

Symington Earnings Down.

Net profit of the Symington Company decreased in the first nine months of the year to $154,387 from $239,094 in the corresponding 1927 period. The profit per class A share was 77 cents against $1.19 in the 1927 period.

Gould Coupler.

Gould Coupler Company controlled by the Symington Company, showed a decrease in net profit to $72,594, equal to 41 cents a class A share in the first nine months of the year. This compares with $153,220, or 87 cents a class A share in the corresponding nine months of 1927.

Continental Gets Wheeling Can.

The Continental Can Company has acquired plants, machinery and business of the Wheeling Can Company, a subsidiary of Wheeling Steel Corporation.

Byers Structural Order Placed.

The Fort Pitt Bridge Works has been awarded an order for 7,000 tons of structural steel for the new Aston iron plant of A. M. Byers Company near Ambridge. This indicates that work on the $10,000,000 plant will be carried through rapidly. American Bridge Company has received an order for 1,300 tons of bridge work for the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and an order for 1,100 tons for bridge work for the state of Tennessee. Local fabricators are interested in attempts to secure the contract for 6,500 tons of structural steel for the hangar for the Goodyear Zeppelin Company at Akron, O.

Texas Gulf Sulphur.

Union Sulphur Company has commenced producing free sulphur on its McCarson heirs property in Boling Field, Wharton county, Texas. This well is estimated to be producing between 500 to 600 tons in 24 hours. The McCarson tract, on which it is stated Union Sulphur is now producing, consists of about 80 acres of a comparatively small part of the Boling Dome. Texas Gulf Sulphur claims ownership of about 97 per cent of the sulphur in this 80-acre tract, thereby leaving only about 3 per cent which Union Sulphur could own. From this it would appear that of the 500 tons a day said to be produced by Union Sulphur 97 per cent, or 485 tons, would belong to Texas Gulf Sulphur.

Grand Union Rights.

Directors and stockholders of Grand Union Company have approved an increase in authorized common stock to 1,000,000 shares from 500,000 shares. Preferred and common holders of record November 27 are offered the right to subscribe to additional preferred and common stock at $53.31 a unit, consisting of one share of preferred and one share of common. Subscription rights are on the basis of one unit for every 10 shares of common or preferred held. Right to subscribe expires December 17. Proceeds will be used to finance acquisitions and for additional working capital.

Christmas Club Distributions.

A record Christmas Club distribution estimated at $550,000,000 will be made by over 8,000 banks and financial institutions of the United States beginning with the next few days. In the distribution more than 9,000,000 members will participate. The sum is about 10 per cent larger than last year's distribution of about $500,000,000 and over five times the amount in 1920. The average distribution per member amounts to $59.10, a slight increase over 1927. In addition to being a record distribution for the Christmas Club, more banks participated in the movement during 1928 than ever before. On the basis of a direct by mail inquiry to individual Christmas Club members, it is estimated by Herbert F. Rawll, of New York, founder and president of the Christmas Club, that $213,000,000 of club saving will flow into the country's stores to pay for Christmas purchases, $165,000,000 will be deposited in permanent thrift or savings accounts or used for permanent investment, $72,000,000 will be used for year-end commitments and concluding installment payments, $24,000,000 will pay insurance premiums, $24,000,000 for interest and reduction of mortgages, $25,000,000 for taxes, $11,000,000 for education and travel, and $5,000,000 for charity. Analysis of these figures shows more than 60 per cent of this vast sum is used for constructive purposes. Checks to members will, on the average, run from $12 to $1,000. This distribution represents the accumulated savings for the past 50 weeks in Christmas Club accounts in banks, trust companies, savings and loan associations and other financial institutions by members paying weekly amounts that vary from 25 cents to $20.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of my dear mother, Barbara Ann Phillips, who died November 16, 1924:

In my lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are always near;
For the wounds a fresh today
As when you left me broken-hearted
Four years ago today.
Sadly missed by your daughter, Mrs. Albert Miller and family.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of a dear husband and father, James Healy, who died on this day today, November 16th, 1927. Sadly missed by wife and daughters.

Boys' Club of Pittsburgh Helping Future Citizens

Remember how you and a bunch of other kids in your neighborhood salvaged soap boxes and bits of "almost as good as new" board and wrought from such material an architectural marvel which you and the fellers called a clubhouse? It was a great club, but too exclusive. Its membership necessarily had to be limited to those who built the noble structure and one or two others favored because of commissary possibilities.

And remember how you reflected how great it would be if you could all save your pennies and add to them by selling junk and old rags and build up a fund sufficient to acquire a vacant house and have a real swell club with a gym and ever'thing? Of course you do, because that has been the dream of nearly every boy.

For many boys in Pittsburgh that is a dream that has come true. The exact number is 2,150 and they are members of the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh. No shack is their clubhouse—no vacant dwelling. The club has a well-equipped, large three-story and basement brick structure at Butler and Forty-fifth streets, which will have its official opening with ceremonies at 7 o'clock this evening. There will be "open house," from 3 until 9 o'clock, giving all a chance to inspect the club and the opportunities it offers to the under-privileged boy.

Its sponsors, prominent Pittsburgh men, many of whom as lads likely had their dreams, too, in a soap box shanty, have seen to it that nothing has been left out of the new clubhouse that the juvenile heart would wish—natatorium, gymnasium, bowling alleys, billiard room, game room, library—they have all been provided. Music and dramatics, amateur photography and woodworking—oh, boy, hammers an' saws an' doohickies—are included in the departments.

The officers would like to have you see what is being done for these young fellows, many of whom will be voters in 10 years. They feel that a visit would be an encouragement to the boys and your presence a tacit approval of a great work for upright manhood and good citizenship. Don't you think so, too?

Unreasonable Bus Fare Upheld by Mr. Robertson

A. W. Robertson, president of Byllesby Companies here, replying to a number of questions submitted by the Allied Boards of Trade on street car and motor bus operation, insists that a 25-cent bus fare is made necessary by Pittsburgh's topography and luxury of Pittsburgh Motor Coach service.

The Oriole Company contends with the same topographical conditions and furnishes "luxury" comparable to that of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, a Byllesby-Pittsburgh Railways Company subsidiary, and its patrons ride five times for 75 cents between downtown Pittsburgh and the heights of Mt. Lebanon. Its motors use as much gas climbing hills as those of Mr. Robertson's company—and save no more going down. It serves a district no more populous than those served by the Byllesby buses. It has a 15-minute schedule in busy hours.

No, Mr. Robertson, that dime difference in Pittsburgh bus fares must be absorbed by something else besides "topography" and "luxury."

The public, however, sees no reason why bus fares here cannot be in conformity with the price charged in other cities. If Mr. Robertson's company cannot give us a reasonable rate, instead of an exorbitant one that makes the people feel that the Pittsburgh Railways Company is using them with great unfairness, it seems that the best thing the Railways Company can do, in its own interest, would be to go out of the bus business and let some other concern take it up. You can't keep hitting a man with your left hand and expect him to grasp your right with cordiality and friendliness.

Your companies must treat Pittsburgh with consideration, Mr. Robertson, if they are to retain public confidence and friendship. A pleased and satisfied clientele is an asset. A dissatisfied and antagonistic one is a liability.

Trotzky in Exile

He Does Not Look Consumptive.

THIS PICTURE OF A RUSSIAN INTERIOR, FAR OFF ON THE BORDERS OF CHINESE TURKESTAN, SHOWS TROTZKY, ONE OF THE TWO BIG FIGURES IN THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTON. THE OTHER WAS LENIN.

Today Trotzky, thrown out by the Communist party, which he helped to put in power, is in exile, practically a prisoner, far from the scene of his triumph when he was head of the great Russian Army.

He lives, in exile, in a small house, with his wife, two sons and a secretary, writing his memoirs chewing the cud of bitterness, probably.

But this photograph holds one comfort for Trotzky's friends. The picture does NOT confirm the statement published by sympathizers that Trotzky is dying of consumption, or of anything else. He appears to be well, vigorous, full of his old courage.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Settlement of coal strike.
3—Rapid transit.
4—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
5—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
6—Community Fund for charities.
7—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000.
8—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
9—Development of river transportation.

UNDER THE RED CROSS

FIRE, FLOOD, PESTILENCE—between these demons and their intended victims spread the arms of the "World's Greatest Mother"—the Red Cross. How much of human suffering, how many lives, the great Red Cross has saved is beyond computation; the figures would read like those the astronomers compile.

That is why President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover call upon us all to join in the annual roll call.

Tales That Are Told

The Last Hope

THE young man in the corner looked bored, and his host was touched. Picking up an opened box of cigars, he walked across to his guest.

"Have a cigar?" he asked.

"No, thanks. I don't smoke."

The other was rather surprised, but he tried again.

"Have a drink?"

"Never touch it."

"Well, let's go in with the girls and dance"—and the host linked his arm in that of the young man.

"Sorry," hesitated the youth, "but I really don't dance, you know."

The other was dumbfounded.

"Look here," he concluded lamely, "my wife has a ball of wool and a couple of needles—what about a spot of knitting?"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

THERE was a guy that had a way of making his wife feel sorry for him because he married her. He would tell her how much bigger guy he could have been if he hadn't married at all. He was always feeling sorry for married men.

One day he says to his wife, "Why, you can tell a married man every time."

She says, "That's baloney."

He says, "I'll show you. See that guy over there? He's married."

"Maybe not."

"I'll prove it. Pardon me, mister, but are you married?"

"No," says the guy, "I just lost my roll in the stock market."

The Rhyming Optimist

The Price

PEACE comes to him who dwells apart
And has no tenants in his heart,
No cherished ones who pay with love
For that abode in which they move.

The worst of fears he has not known,
That fear not for himself alone,
But of the thrice-dread, grisly foe
Which only those who love can know.

Peace smiles on him who does not care
How great the loads his brothers bear;
But, until whirling suns shall cease,
Men will not pay this price for peace!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ANTOINE cooked a pompano for me in New Orleans.

A pompano sounds like a bird of paradise but isn't. It's just fish. Just common ordinary fish. And if I had cooked that pompano it would have remained a common, ordinary fish. I'd have put some fat in the pan and dumped in the fish and thought about a dozen different things and come to with a jerk when the fat began to burn and yanked out what was left of the fish and dumped it on the table. From which you might conclude that I do not get much spiritual stimulation out of cooking fish. I don't.

But when Antoine cooks a fish—ah, that is something else again!

Romance and adventure hover above the range when Antoine cooks a fish. That pampano becomes a poem, a jewel, a song. He uses, I presume, the same fat which I would use—the same griddle—the same fire. But he uses something else which I have never used—he uses that imagination which only Antoine can supply, that enthusiasm which only he can feel in the cooking of fish. And he uses the pride of Antoine and his concern for Antoine's reputation.

It is a great moment. There is a babble of voices from the kitchen—a savory, tantalizing smell. Waiting, your spirits mount. You are about to consume not only a fish, but some of the romantic essence of adventure. Life sparkles, expands, becomes jeweled with excitement. And Antoine expands and sparkles, too. He is receiving as much as he is giving. You have paid him to cook a fish, but out of that commonplace service he is building a dramatic moment of life. He is making that moment pay him a thousand times more than the value of your paltry coin.

It's a great and rare thing to take your work like that. It's the only real reward there is in work. You may get a thousand dollars a week for some routine service, but that alone will not repay you if you have hated that service—if it has not stirred and warmed you. Life is the most valuable thing you have. Each moment of it is lived but once. If you have let that moment slip through your fingers, colorless and without savor, no amount of money can repay you for its loss. But if you can find color and savor and perfume and song in the commonest task as Antoine finds it, you will know the pride and power of a conqueror.

BIOGRAPHY

By Garrett P. Serviss

AN informing glimpse of the psychology of the crowd is afforded by the new "genre" in biography, which in France goes by the name of "vies romancees." There Andre Maurois is credited with being the initiator and master of this "genre." Perhaps his title to that distinction is disputable, but let it go. The important thing is that the method of writing history and biography which the term "vies romancees" describes and which has had considerable vogue lays claim to some educational importance on the ground that it may interest in history people who would never learn anything about it if it were not offered to them as plums of fact smothered in a pudding of romance.

Unfortunately it is true that there are many readers who cannot concentrate their minds upon a narrative which is not presented with plenty of "dialogue" and with the scenery and by-play characteristic of a novel. Then, too, the genre seems to demand that in the "vie romancee," all the "amour," and especially "amours," possible must be dragged to the front that the romance may be "passionant." The result is that we see some of the characters of history, whose deeds and accomplishments were sufficiently large and useful to humanity to make of them ideal figures inspiring patriotism, altruism and noble resolves and ambitions, reduced to the dimensions and qualities of drawing room heroes, the helpless subjects of social gossip and slander. It is a sad fate for any man who has climbed high in the world's esteem, through his possession and exercise of beneficent gifts of genius, to have his influence over posterity weakened or destroyed by writers of "vies romances," who parade his private littlenesses and faults, which are the common penalties of human existence.

Mme. Gerard d'Houville, in a recent interview, has pleaded excuses for this kind of biography, writing as follows:

"These 'vies' written by historians, essayists, artists, writers—in a word, poets or romancers—cannot but please and be useful. They respond to an actual need, created by the indifference and demi-ignorance of the greater number of readers to instruct without wearying (instruire sans ennuyer). Whatever may be the deficiencies of the genre—and all genres have theirs—we must render full justice to the interest and to the utility of its successes. But this genre has been abused; fashion has taken it up, and, as we all know, everything that fashion touches with its favor is already verging toward its decline. But the epoch of its flowering was not the less brilliant. Interesting or pleasant works which without this engouement would never have seen the day have pleased, have charmed, awakening curiosity about such or such illustrious man or woman; in fine, have guided the uninitiated toward history and the human psychology of its personages. Good work? Surely."

Bible Passages

Hast Thou Helped?

(Job 26; 2-14.)

HOW hast thou helped him that is without power? how savest thou the arm that hath no strength?

How hath thou counselled him that hath no wisdom? and how hast thou plentifully declared the thing as it is?

To whom hast thou uttered words? and whose spirit came from thee?

Dead things are formed from under the waters, and the inhabitants thereof.

Hell is naked before him, and destruction hath no covering.

He stretcheth out the north over the empty place, and hangeth the earth upon nothing.

He bindeth up the waters in his thick clouds; and the cloud is not rent under them.

He holdeth back the face of his throne, and spreadeth his cloud upon it.

He hath compassed the waters with bounds, until the day and night come to an end.

The pillars of heaven tremble and are astonished at his reproof.

He divideth the sea with his power, and by his understanding he smiteth through the proud.

By his spirit he hath garnished the heavens; his hand hath formed the crooked serpent.

Lo, these are parts of his ways: but how little a portion is heard of him? but the thunder of his power who can understand?

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Thoughts while strolling: Nothing seems so sudden as a Sunday morning extra. A dog and cat ambulance with a stretcher and everything. Nickel dance halls. Homer Croy, a Marysville (Mo.) boy, who made good in the city. Squat tiled roof hot dog stands—like a Dutch house. Felix Warburg.

Last year's stage idols. And their clay feet. Philadelphia Jack O'Brien. What a mighty socker he was. Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt whom Broadway doesn't care for in a big way. And she looks so demure. Why do those Russian whirlwind dancers wind up their act with arms in the air yelling, "Hi!"

A sale of asparagus tongs. My idea of zero in buying. The famous beauty disfigured in a revolving door. Don't see many cigars smokers in New York. What became of the Psycheknot? Those high salaried Hollywood film executives who resemble New York office boys. And many are.

Photographers used to be long, thin guys with Adam's apples and brown stained fingers. Now they're Beau Brummels with pince-nez and spats. Truck drivers shouting blithe obscenities but smiling. Nothing so Prussian looking as Eric Stroheim and his monicle. Mexico is sending us many artists and sculptors. And they're very Boul Mich—ish.

Gertrude Lawrence's bracelets. Men's rings match wrist watches. New York's enthusiasm for hockey. W. O. McGeehan, the sports writer. The guilty look of men going to movies in the early morning. Flo Ziegfeld's valet, Sidney, who looks and acts like a stage butler.

Will Hays and his brief case. A clog dancer hitting it off in a show window. Broadway salutation: "Hello sugar, how's shieking?" The lads with summer tans growing chalk white again. A baseball star hesitating in front of a dental building. Charles K. After-the-Ball Harris, the veteran song writer. And still writing.

Hick's, the expensive soda water place. And you stand up to boot. Gray mustached codgers with gold-headed canes. The mammoth hat store on the site of the old Vanderbilt mansion. And what an enormous rent it must pay. Trixie Friganza looks thinner. Dusk.

A rich young blood geared to a swift pace has been debouched from three smart hotels because of carelessness in falling asleep nursing a lighted cigaret. Altogether he has caused seven fires. He toddles home in the early morning fairly well crocked and a half hour later the fire wagons are—buckitty, buckitty—on the way.

Several plays with the newspaper shop theme this season stress with amusing exaggeration the feverish atmosphere of editorial work. You see harried reporters setting typewriters afire to catch editions and everybody is dashing around in swooping circles. Newspaper shops are the calmest spots in the world—no matter how tremendous the story. When a good reporter becomes excited he loses his value. That is true of the good editor. Save for one who is a "show off" all New York editors have the placidity of swans in the lake. The daily grind of thrills in the editorial room has calloused news slaves to excitement. The bigger the story—the more casual they are. Once in awhile a cub reporter blows out a fuse, but even that is rare.

And this idea of portraying the reporter as a cynical drunken cuss in an ill-fitting suit with a perpetual snarl is also elegant hooey. Reporters are no more cynical than bank executives or others in a less exciting trade. They are just as soft-hearted as the next fellow and spend more off hours digging in the garden and shearing rose bushes than they do in getting stiff as a plank. Nor do all reporters have the manners of a tabloid photographer. There are a few Richard Harding Davises left.

In one play there is featured an exotic newspaperman who is a card with the ladies. He is a philanderer who fascinates them and is supposed to be typical of the guild. They loved him and wept over him. They battled for him and gave themselves to him freely. It may be all right, but in more than 20 years—man and boy—of knocking around as a newspaperman, I have never had to fight for my honor.

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

THROW a ball against a wall at an angle of 45 degrees and it will bound away at the same angle.

The pedagogues of physics tell us that is the meaning of the law, the angle of reflection is equal to the angle of incidence.

Step into the philosophy room now and the professor will tell you that law of action and reaction holds in his department also.

Half-hearted folks get half thrills of life. Semi-souls get hemispheres.

Heroism or cowardice is only a matter of incidence and reflection.

Hitting the line hard may bark the shins, but it makes the soul.

The folks that run away and live to fight another day get a jellyfish reaction to life.

And it would behove us to weigh twice the epithet "quitter" before we hurl it at a man.

We might pound a person whose incidence was 90 degrees and whose reflection therefrom was swift and complete.

He drained the glass at one draught.

Such a man stacks experiences as a professional stacks chips in a poker game.

He lives it and leaves while others are still studying the blue book.

Satiety comes quickly to intense people.

A man called my friend, the professor, a fool in ordinary because he once declined a chance to move into the millionaire row.

His excuse was that he wanted a rich experience.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A WOMAN who married rather late in life, told all her women friends who had mischievous little brats for children, that IF she had children she would bring them up by rule. She would do this and she wouldn't do that, and, oh what little angels they would be. It made the mothers feel delinquent in the extreme, and they listened enviously.

The other day two of them called at the home of the lady, whose child is now 4.

In the midst of their visit, the angel came in with a bag of salt into which she had poked a tiny hole. The salt was pouring through in a tiny white stream. She waved the bag in a circle over her head, and when her mother tried the gentle orders they failed utterly. The angel child then waved the leaking salt bag over the piano so that the salt fell between the keys, and she howled with delight over her idea.

The visitors went home pretty well satisfied with themselves.

A pretty girl on Fifth avenue, in New York, leading a great black Persian cat on a leash. The cat would stand on its hind legs, put its paws against the windows and look earnestly at the things on display.

A cat enjoying window shopping and the animal was a riot. Crowds gathered around her at every stop, and went away laughing.

The cat and her mistress didn't miss any pretty windows, and not once when her mistress stopped did the cat fail to go through the same trick by standing up and looking in.

Bizarre but beautiful, a St. Louis girl appeared in a New York cafe the other night wearing seven heavy silver bracelets, and a short antique silver necklace with round silver bells hanging from it by the dozens. About her head was wrapped a dull silver turban, and her gown was gray. Her hair black, her eyes black and her cheeks a pretty pink, no other woman in the cafe could command attention until everybody got used to the St. Louis picture.

In New York women are wearing everything heavy and old and strange except nose rings. Savage jewelry is the last word in chic.

With their clothes getting fewer and shorter and thinner, and their jewelry getting heavier and more profuse, one wonders when they will get right back where civilization started.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

AREN'T you more elated over certain successes you have had than the facts and their importance justify?

You have been so satisfied with yourself that you have begun to think you must be far above the ordinary to have accomplished so much.

But when you look about at your friends and see what they have done, isn't it a pin prick to your vanity?

Not so much by comparison, are you?

There have been fortunate breaks for you and you have made the most of them just as you should do.

And you, like everyone else, have had some unavoidable drawbacks.

But you can think of many men whose misfortunes far exceed yours.

Perhaps their bad luck came at a time to work more disaster than yours did, so why belittle the less fortunate?

To know the obstacles some men have had to overcome and the sad accidents that meant ruin that others could not overcome should make you more charitable towards others.

Your race is not run, your over-confidence may yet cause you to take a disastrous step.
